On the Stanley Legend and the Houses of Boteler, Fitz-Ailward, Lathom, and Stanley, &c.

—" a most ancient and distinguished bearing—the Eagle and Child."
Waverley, iii. 349.

It is generally known that the ancient and chivalrous house of Stanley, branching from the Aldithleys, assumed its local name from the Staffordshire manor of Stanley, and that, on a subsequent acquisition of the Forestership of Wirral in Cheshire, it adopted the allusive arms so often triumphant in the tournament and the battle-field—" the buck's heads on a bend Azure." To these arms, however, at the close of the fourteenth century, the junior, but most distinguished branch, Stanley of Lathom and Knowsley, added, instead of their former bearing, the crest of the eagle and cradled infant—being the previous cognizance of the Lathoms, to whose estates they succeeded by marriage, and whose descent is now first illustrated from records.

The first known male ancestor of this house is Henry,[a] father of Robert lord of Lathom, the latter of whom founded Burscough priory in Lancashire, " pro anima Henrici R. junioris et pro anima Johannis Comitis de Mortune," most probably during Richard's crusade, and certainly between 1173 (the date given to John's prior dignity) and 1199, that of his accession. But tradition has assigned a more remote origin, the said Robert being stated[b] to be a supposed descendant from Orm, and [a] Unless he was the same with Henry Fitz-Siward, grantee in Flixton (Testa de N.) from Albert de Gredle, the advowson of which place Robert Fitz-Henry gave to Burscough.

[b] Baines's Lancashire, vol. iv. 235.

"credible tradition" to describe the said Orm as "the Saxon proprietor of Halton, who, driven from his possessions in Cheshire, established himself in Lancashire, and by his marriage with Alice the daughter of Herveus (a Norman nobleman, ancestor of Theobald Walter) obtained large estates in this county," and "was no doubt the founder of the church which, with his own name, constitutes that of the parish" of Ormskirk. (Baines, Lanc. iv. 235.)

Records partly confirm and partly contradict this. In confirmation, Domesday proves the ejectment of Orme, the Saxon Lord of Heletune,[c] and the Testa de Neville states the marriage of Ormus Magnus with Aliz daughter of Herveus.[d] It is clear to every heraldic eye that the arms of Boteler are the basis of those of Lathom,[e] with a difference not more than an early filial one; and it is certain from the Testa de Neville that the Lathoms were the heirs of Orme Fitz-Ailward as to a knight's fee adjacent to Ormeskirk;[f] the said Orme and Ailward occurring precisely, as to time, in the space between Ormus Magnus their probable ancestor and Robert Fitz-Henry otherwise de Lathom.

But in order to connect Fitz-Ailward, his probable Saxon ancestors, and their traditional lands with the Lathoms, it is necessary, first, to vary from an important Lancashire pedigree[g] (that of the knightly family of Ashton of Ashton-under-Line), and then to support the tradition by arguments drawn from [c] Isdem Willielmus (filius Nigelli) tenet Heletune. Orme tenuit, &c.

[d] So Brydges (Peerage, ix. 58.) and others, except the T. de N. as printed by the Record Commission, which gives Ornifr'. most probably from a misread contraction, "Theobaldus Walter tenet, &c.—et inde Herveus pat' Hervei Walt' dedit Ornifr'. Magn' cum filia sua Aliz in maritag' iiij car' terre in Rontheclive, &c. p' servic' militare." p. 403, col. 2. According to dates this Orme would rather be the successor of the Saxon, than the ejected himself.

[e] Gregson (Fragments, I. 2*, and II. 243.) remarks the resemblance and conjectures some connexion, but honestly confesses himself unable to trace it.

[f] As may be seen by collating these extracts, which identify the estate and tenure of Fitz-Ailward and the Lathoms:

822. Alb'tus de Gredle Senex dedit feodū I. milit' Orm' fil' Ailward in maritag' cū filiâ sua, scil' in Dolton et P'bold, et Writtinton. Heredes p'd'ci Ormi tenent p'd'cam terrā.

839. Heredes Orm' fil' Ailward in Dalton, Parbold et Witt'rington.

other estates and other lineage than those of the ejected Saxon, Orme of Halton, to which it refers, namely, by arguments drawn from the said knight's fee, adjacent to Ormskirk, in Dalton, Parbold, and Wrightington, which is said to have descended to Emma wife of Fitz-Ailward, through her father, the Baron of Manchester, from Albert de Greslet, who obtained the same in exchange for lands granted to him at the Conquest,[h] and which passing in marriage with Emma (as by extracts from the Testa de Neville annexed) to Orme Fitz-Ailward her husband, descended (according to the same evidence) to the Lathoms as his heirs.[i] And it is most probable that this Norman inheritance passed by marriage of Fitz-Ailward's heiress to Robert de Lathom, the founder of Burscough, together with the representation in land and blood of the earlier Orme, the subject of the tradition, as the church of Ormskirk (the Saxon's reputed foundation) formed part of Robert de Lathom's endowment, and the adjacent Norman fee is clearly traceable from Fitz-Ailward to the Lathoms, Robert's heirs, and described as heirs of Fitz-Ailward also, about the close of the thirteenth century.

The argument is as follows: Robert de Lathom, about 1180, founds Burscough, being patron of Ormskirk by traditional descent from Orme the Saxon, Lord of Lathom &c. in that parish; and about 1307 his representative and namesake occurs as hereditary owner of the fee of Orme Fitz-Ailward adjacent to Ormskirk. There is no reason to suppose that these estates came from different sources, and as dates will not allow Robert's father to be son of Fitz-Ailward, it is most likely that the estates in question came to him (Robert) by marriage. Both occur as hereditary possessions of his great-grandson, and neither were acquired by his grandson's marriage with Alfreton; and of the two persons left for consideration, dates and the assumption of the local surname point to the founder, Robert de Lathom, rather than his son Richard, as the husband of Fitz-Ailward's heiress. The connection thus supported is indicated by dotted lines in the following pedigree, and its complete proof would at once establish this double descent of Norman and Saxon property, confirm the Lancashire tradition as to descent of blood, and shew connexion with the Botelers, whose arms the Lathoms adopted, appearing to have adopted them as arms of affection for their greater kindred, at the very time when the connexion with Fitz-Ailward took place. Robert de Lathom cannot be supposed to have inherited such from his father, for English Royalty itself was only then commencing the use of armorial distinctions; but Burscough Priory testified to the bearing of the son, by giving his arms as the ensign of their house, and the Tarbocks, who branched from Richard Fitz-Henry his brother, adopted the same with another difference, though apparently at a much later period.[k]

[h] It appears from Domesday that Albert Greslet and Roger de Busli had a joint grant of Blackburnshire; which was afterwards partitioned, Greslet (ancestor of the Barons of Manchester) receiving, in exchange for part of his grant, a portion of Leyland hundred, and the manors of Adlington, Duxbury, Brindle, Worthington, and Coppul, and a knight's fee in Dalton, Wrightington, and Parbold. Whatton on the Arms of Manchester (Mem. of Lit. & Phil. Society, 4 N. S. 479.) quoting Kuerden's and Kenion's MSS.

This will be more clearly explained by the annexed pedigree, combining the evidence relating to the early Lathoms and their baronial predecessors with that which illustrates the continuation of descent to the time when the representation of the direct line merged in Stanley.

To the generation immediately preceding this union tradition refers the STANLEY LEGEND; but the latter part of the same pedigree, with the documents subjoined, will most completely remove from such æra the possibility of the alleged events on which the romantic tale is stated to be founded.

The tradition (as given by Bp. Stanley in his "Historicall Poem touching ye Family of Stanley,"[1]) agreeing with Vin-

[k] This adoption by Tarbock must also be considered as arms of affection in some degree, as they were not of the blood of the family whose arms their own elder line (viz. the Lathoms) adopted, but they would most probably take the arms used by their chief at the time of their separation, rather than any that might have been introduced subsequently, which is an argument in favour of the connexion with Fitz-Ailward taking place in the generation here supposed. Tarbock was of the fee of Knowsley, which the Lathoms did not acquire until several descents after, and until such acquisition the correspondence in arms could not be founded on tenure by the Tarbocks from their own elder line.

[1] By Thomas Stanley, Bishop of Man. An imperfect ancient copy exists in MS. Harl. 541, and a larger portion is transcribed in Cole's MSS. vol. xxix. Another copy, presumed to be completed by various collations of the author of this essay, is in the library at Sedbury.

With respect to Bishop Stanley, Seacome (Hist. of the Isle of Man, 46.) calls him son of the first Lord Monteagle, and, if so, he was brother of his namesake, cent's MS. Collections in the College of Arms, describes the Lord of Lathom as issueless and aged "fowerscore" adopting an infant "swaddled and clad in a mantle of redd," which an eagle brings unhurt to her nest in Terlestowe wood, and which he names Oskell, and makes heir of Lathom, where he becomes the father of Isabel Stanley, stolen away in the first instance by her knight, and afterwards forgiven by Sir Oskell.[m]

In Seacome's History of the House of Stanley is given another version, supplied by representatives of the Lathoms of Irlam in Lancashire and Hawthorne in Cheshire, descended, according to their own tradition, from the legendary foundling; the tradition stating as follows:

That Sir Thomas de Lathom, son of Sir Robert (one descent being omitted) in the reign of Edward III. had Isabella by his Lady, and an illegitimate son by an intrigue; and that the son was introduced to his wife's notice, as found under a tree near the eagle's aery, and in the first instance adopted under the name of Sir Oskatel, but discarded before the death of Sir Thomas, Irlam and Urmston in Lancashire, and Hawthorne in Cheshire, being settled on him and his heirs, and the rest of the Lathom estate duly descending to Isabel Lady Stanley. That on such adoption Sir Thomas had assumed for his crest "an Eagle upon wing, turning her head back, and looking in a sprightly manner as for something she had lost," and that on the disowning, the Stanleys, "either to distinguish or aggrandise themselves, or in Thomas the second Lord. Anthony Wood says, "a Cadet of the Earls of Derby," and with less caution praises him as "a tolerable poet of his time." His best specimen is the character of James Stanley, Bishop of Ely; but the work is a very extraordinary one. Beatson (i. 249.) states this Thomas Stanley to have been Bp. of Man in 1510, afterwards deprived, restored 1556, and dead in 1558. The last date is incorrect, as in 2 Eliz. 1559-60, he sued the corporation of Wigan respecting Courts there, as "Bishop of Man and the Owt Isles and Parson of Wigan:" and under the same designation, in 11 Eliz. sued William Gerrard respecting tithes of Ince and Hindelay. (Ducat. Lanc. vol. ii.) Baines gives his presentation to Wigan rectory Aug. 9, 1558.

In the History of Birds, by Edward Stanley, Rector of Alderley (now Bishop of Norwich) vol. i. 119, will be found some interesting anecdotes of asportation of infants by eagles, illustrative of the family crest, and the corresponding story of King Alfred and the Eagle's Nursling, "Nestingum."

[m] The Legend, as thus told, is represented by fine oaken carvings in the Warden's Stall at Manchester, put up by the before-mentioned James Stanley, Bishop of Ely. In the foreground is the ancient gate-house of Lathom Hall, which has been incorporated with the restoration of that celebrated building engraved in Roby's Traditions of Lancashire.

contempt and derision, took upon them the Eagle and Child," thus manifesting the variation and the reason of it.[n]

The possibility of Lathum of Irlam's descent from Lady Stanley's legitimate brother is noticed subsequently; but stripped of its marvellous dress, Seacome's story has three points: 1. An opposition of illegitimate male collaterals to Lady Stanley's succession: 2. the assumption of the Eagle crest by the father of the heiress: and 3. the subsequent adoption of the Stanley crest from motives of contempt and derision. The older story of the "Historicall Poem," which only generally involves the adoption of an illegitimate representative, as a wondrous foundling, under alleged failure of issue, will be disproved by the same arguments as the points here mentioned.

I. In the note subjoined[o] are given the results of a recent search into records at the Duchy office, which prove that Sir Thomas Lathom (the Oskell of the Historical Poem), son of Thomas de Lathom and father of Isabella Stanley, was succeeded by a son, Thomas (the Sir Oskatel of the tradition of the Irlam family) who enjoyed indisputably Knowsley and Childwall at least, with other manors, and at his death, in 1383, left an infant heiress Elena, whose claims were opposed by virtue of an alleged entail, by Isabel wife of Sir John Stanley, who entered irregularly on Lathom, John of Ghent Duke of Lancaster (and as such, superior lord of Lathom) steadily opposing him. It further appears that the question was litigated as late as 1386, when it appears to turn in favour of Stanley, and he was in undoubted possession of Lathom and Knowsley and their dependencies before 9 Hen. IV. 1407-8. At this last period Stanley was the favourite of the Lancastrian Court, and Steward of the Household, and had served as Lieutenant of Ireland, and succeeded the Percies in their forfeited Royalty of Man: but it is fair to [n] Mr. Baines (Lanc. iv. 248.) quotes another modern version of the story (apparently founded on a paraphrase of the Metrical History (Cole's MSS. vol. 39.) and erroneously substituting Lathom of Astbury, for Lathom of Irlam,) and properly opposes to its assigned æra the arms in Astbury windows, and on Sir Thomas Lathom's seal (History of Cheshire, vol. iii. p. 14, 20.) as proofs of earlier usage; but the inscription "Oskell Lathum" in other glass at Northenden, (ibid. iii. 318.) also mentioned in Mr. Baines's note, is not, as he appears to suppose, in memory of a real "Oskell who bore as his crest," &c.; but merely explanatory of the Stanley crest there painted. (See postea, p. 11.) It proves, as the Metrical History does, that the name Oskel was used in the legend temp. Hen. VIII. and that the Stanleys used both figures of the crest, but nothing more.

add, that the fortune of the suit appears to have turned before Henry's accession, when the infant Elena was protected by the Duke of Lancaster in his height of power, and Stanley's opposition was admitted by that King and Duke, in Parliament, to be "in ipsius Regis et Ducis gravem contemptum, dampnum non modicum, ac libertatis sue lesionem manifestam."

II. With respect to the assumption of the regardant Eagle, by the father of the heiress (in blood) of the eldest line (who in all circumstances differs most materially from the person given on statements of the Irlam family by Seacome) the Astbury windows are at once decisive, where an Eagle rising, regardant, standing on a Cradle, is given as the crest of the younger sons of Elena's great-great-grandfather, living beyond the period to which even Seacome's own account of the legend relates. In some form or other, that bird was the bearing of Lathom from the very earliest usage of crests by knightly families. The Eagle displayed, charged on the breast with the armorial shield, occurs in the seal appendant to the grants of Sir Thomas Lathom in the time of Edward III.; and the Tarbocks of Tarbock, who branched from Lathom in the twelfth century, bore, as already stated, in acknowledgment of common origin, the same arms differenced by an Eagle's leg erased in the field, and (by allowance of the heralds in the visitation of 1613) "an Eagle close" on the helmet.

III. And as to the time and cause of variation, Seacome's opinion is admitted to be formed on a signet, stated to be inherited from "Sir Oskatel," and representing the Lathom crest inaccurately, as "on a wreath, an eagle rising regardant." The Irlam family had allowance of arms, but not of crest, in the Visitations of 1613 and 1664, and therefore, technically, had no right to claim any as anterior to these; but if such crest was anterior, it nevertheless was inaccurate, as proved by the ancient glass at Astbury, hereafter mentioned; and the difference, between the crest there given and the Stanley crest, is not more than a female line, or indeed a junior branch of the same male line would have adopted. Several branches of Lathom, after the termination of the chief line, did adopt what is called "a preying Eagle;" as for instance, the Lathams of Congleton early in the sixteenth century, and, in the Visitation of 1613, the Lathoms of Mosborough: and although the later Eagle is verbally blazoned as preying, the child is popularly considered as the nursling, and not the prey,[p] and "Non dormit custos" (Psalm cxxi. 4.) has occurred, as an accompanying motto. It may be difficult to select a much earlier instance of the Stanley bearing than the one given in the windows of Northenden church (Hist. Chesh. iii. 318.) in the memorials for Sir John Stanley of Elford and Humphrey Stanley, Canon of Christchurch, where (in the same arrangement of devices) both eagles are given, as matter of heraldic indifference, with infants, underwritten Ostell and Oskell Lathum,[q] and it would surely have been impossible for the earlier Sir John Stanley to have shewn any contempt for the hereditary badge of Elena's father, that would not also affect the ancestors of his own Isabella.[r]

It is very likely, as Dugdale supposes, that the legend, or, as he terms it, the "credible tradition," may relate to a former ancestor, "in token whereof, not only his descendants whilst the male line endured, but the Stanleys proceeding from the said Isabel, have ever since borne the child in the eagle's nest, with the eagle thereon for their crest;" but not that such legend relates to "a large spread oak in the park at Lathom," which may more safely be referred to ancestral Northmen, with its scene in the pine-forests of Scandinavia. It is presumed to have been proved (as far as could be expected under the circumstances) that every link of descent in the Lathom family was legitimate to Isabel ancestress of Stanley, as well as to her brother, the father of the heiress Elena, her competitor; that the bearing, stated to have originated in these disputes, can be traced far beyond them, or beyond the usual period of crests in knightly families; and that the Stanley bearing is its regular continuation.

The LOCAL SURNAME of the LATHOMS is still of frequent occurrence in the Lancashire hundred of West Derby; but, not-

[p] So in the Bataile of Brampton or Floddon, speaking of King James,

—— "He was prostrate
By the helpe of th' Eagle with her swadled chylde."

[q] In the original Visitation of 1613 (Harl. MSS. 1437), the verbal blazon leaves the form of the crest indifferent, simply stating "an Eagle and Child;" see note [t] following.

withstanding their early settlement and wide ramification, it exists no longer among the ancient hereditary gentry of that county, attachment to Romanism and to the Stuarts having subverted most of the collaterals.

The earliest off-shoot, TORBOCK of TORBOCK in Knowsley lordship, entered in the Visitations of 1532 and 1567, is continued a generation further in Harl. MSS. 1549, and occurs in the Lanc. Inq. p. m. in 1640, and was intimately re-connected with the parent stock by several intermarriages. [s]

The LATHOMS of MOSBOROUGH (grantees thereof 20 Edw. I.) entered fourteen descents in the Visitation of 1613. They are alluded to as Catholics in Tracts about 1645, but have not occurred subsequently; but from them, or from Parbold, several branches connected with Ormskirk are supposed to be derived. [t]

LATHOM of ASTBURY (Cheshire) descending from Philip younger son of Sir Robert de Lathom,[u] is clearly identified by the ancient painted glass formerly in that church, nearly of the time of Edw. III. [x] Several sons, ancestors of collateral lines, occur therein, and in the MSS. of Sir P. Leycester at Tabley. Of these, Robert Lathom (living 1 Rich. III.) was father of BLANCHE, sole daughter and heiress, wife of Richard Massey, a younger brother of Sir Geoffry Massey, of Tatton. From her descended, as representative coheirs, the families of NEWTON, MORETON, MERE, and SOMERFORD, of which—MERE alienated Crest, on a wreath an eagle close. Gregson and Baines give an ancient armorial seal of Sir William Torbok, knt. corresponding with this.

[t] Arms: Latham with a mullet Gules for difference. (Visit. 1613. Harl. MSS. 1437, being the book of original entries.) "The Creast; an Eagle and Childe with a 3 difference." In the official transcript, the Arms are also given with a mullet sable, as difference of the third house. The Crest is, on a chapeau Gules, turned up Ermine, an infant Proper, swaddled Gules, banded Or, thereon standing an eagle preying Or, differenced as in the arms.

[x] These windows (1576) contained seven armed figures of this family, accompanied with arms, crests, and inscriptions, identifying four descents (as in the pedigree subjoined) which are preserved in Harl. MSS. 2151, and in Vernon's MSS. in the library at Somerford, and described in History of Cheshire, iii. 20.

its estates during the Protectorate, and Hodgson of Leighton (Westmorland) representative of Somerford, forfeited in 1715.[y]

Nicholas Lathom, one of the collaterals of this branch, is believed to have been lineal male ancestor of Alexander Lathom of Congleton in Astbury,[z] temp. Hen. VIII. and surviving 1571 and 1578. No direct evidence is attainable on this point; but the descent of the latter from Astbury has been supported by uniform family tradition; the Latham cognizance appears on his seal, appendant to existing deeds; the Newtons (coheirs of the elder line) occur in fines connected therewith; and the early collaterals of his family bore the family names of the older branch. From this Alexander, lands in Astbury parish descended to his immediate representative JOHN LATHAM, M.D. of BRADWALL HALL in Sandbach, in whose wife (as eldest coheiress of MERE of MERE) female representation of the elder line is vested, as appears by the pedigree annexed.[a]

JOHN LATHAM, M.D. of RUMSEY, the Ornithologist, and WILLIAM LATHAM, Esq. F.S.A. of QUENBY HALL, Leicestershire (sons of John Latham of Wheelock in Sandbach, descended from Ralph Latham of Haslington 1564) were of a branch scattered widely over the borders of Cheshire and Staffordshire, which the last mentioned antiquary referred to Astbury, but proof of connection is lost.[b]

LATHOM of PARBOLD next branches off in the person of Edward Lathom, grantee of Parbold from his father Thomas, son of Sir Robert, and of Wrightington from his brother Sir Thomas.[c] Robert Lathom of Parbold occurs in Inq. p. M. 11

[y] Arms: Latham, over all a bendlet Gules, in chief three besants (instead of plates) for difference. Crest: On a wreath, on a child's cradle Gules, an eagle rising, regardant, Or. It is observable that the arms of the Astbury branch, though varying from the usual coat of Lathom, in the substitution of besants, as well as the addition of the bend, differ in the latter part only from the contemporary bearing of the chief line given in the Roll of Arms (1337—1350) published by Sir N. H. Nicolas, p. 22, "Le Sire de Latham porte d'Or a un cheif d'asur endente, trois rondelles d'or en le chief.

[c] The grantee of Wrightington is placed in the preceding generation in pedigree

Hen. VIII. and the descent of Thomas Lathom (apparently his son) is continued in Dugdale's Visitation to 1661. This branch was also of ALLERTON near Liverpool (the seat of the Hardmans, and of Roscoe the historian) which was sequestrated, during the Protectorate, in the life of Richard Lathom of Parbold, uterine brother of Sir Thomas Tildesley, the celebrated friend and fellow-soldier of the royalist Earl of Derby. Baines mentions that possession of Allerton was disputed by the Parbold family after the Restoration, and refers to it Peter Lathom, who devised considerable sums to local charities about 1720.

The IRLAM line (according to Seacome) descended from (a non-existent personage) Sir Oskatel, stated to be the illegitimate brother of Lady Stanley, and, when disowned, to have received the "mannors of Earlom and Urmston" near Manchester, and Hawthorne in Cheshire. (Edmund) Lathum of Irlam, temp. Car. I., is said to have joined the royalists, and suffered overwhelming persecutions, leaving one son, last heir male, whose estate, recovered during his minority, was finally ruined at the Revolution. In confirmation of the alleged descent, Seacome's informant, Captain Finney of Fulshaw, quotes the kindness of Earl Charles to Edmund's son when a boy, and his uniform practice of calling him "the top of his kin," the latter being probably mere good-humoured levity, and the former originating in pity for the son of his father's friend.

Captain Finney's authority was Mary Lathum, sister of the last heir male, born about 1645, and to a certain degree competent to speak from contemporary recollection, but certainly not so as to facts alleged to have occurred in the fourteenth century, and otherwise unsupported. From the prominent situation which this branch occupies in Seacome, the pedigree is brought down through the Visitations from its commencement, and continued to his time.[d] The arms allowed in 1613 were Lathom, with besants in chief, as difference; but in 1664 Dug-

Coll. Arm. but is identified as brother of the last Sir Thomas Latham, by the Inq. p. m. taken 8 Ric. II. He appears to be the Edward Lathum "del age xl ans et pluz" examined at Lancaster Sept. 19, 1386, in the Scrope and Grosvenor Controversy, vol. i. p. 306.

Lathom of Parbold in Dugdale's Visit. had allowance of the following arms and crest. Arms, as Lathom of Lathom. Crest, on a wreath, on an oak-branch truncated and laid fesseways, Argent, a Heron? rising Or.

dale allowed the plates in chief, with a bendlet Gules for difference; and the female descendants, down to 1819,[e] continued this bendlet over all, which was also sometimes used by Mosborough, as well as Astbury. Irlam (in partial conformity with the family tradition) may descend in the female line from the heiress Elena, but was in all likelihood a branch from Mosborough or Parbold; which last pedigree is defective at the time when the Irlam pedigree commences.

As to alleged male descent of ASHTON of Ashton-under-Line from ORME FITZ-AILWARD.

The old Lancashire genealogists have stated this Orme to be male ancestor of the Ashtons of Ashton-under-Line: Collins (Baronetage, 1720, vol. ii. 207.) making him grandfather of Sir Thomas Ashton, warden of the Cinque-ports in 1381, which is manifestly impossible, as Robert Greslei, to whom Orme was uncle by marriage, was aged only eleven years in 1186, and Orme himself appears to have been born about 1130, by calculation of descents.

Other pedigrees vary the head of this genealogy, and Baines (Lanc. ii. 532.) has introduced some new members of it, namely, "Roger de Wrightington," alias de Ashton, alias Fitz Orm, from Kuerden's MSS. and "Thomas de Ashton, with Orm his father," from a deed stated to be existing in 1617; but from these no descent is attempted to be proved, (although the printed line of descent from them is given as established); and if the Ashtons really descended from Orme Fitz-Ailward, it seems impossible that it can be otherwise than through a female, coheiress with the ancestress of Lathom.

But, is the great lordship of Ashton identical with the humble carucate of "Eston," given as part of Emma de Greslei's inheritance in marriage with the said Orme, and held immediately from Manchester Barony by render of x*s*.?

An original deed is given by Baines, ii. 536, from which it appears that Ashton manor was held immediately from Manchester by Sir John [e] Letter from P. Davenport Finney, Esq. 1819. In the Visitations of 1613 and 1664 no crest accompanies the arms allowed to the Irlam branch. In the original Visitation Book Dugdale writes "Qu. Crest?" but in the office copy (his own autograph) gives none. Information of C. G. Young, Esq. York Herald. This is more particularly marked, as Seacome's argument turns mainly on the figure of the Irlam crest. See p. 7.

Ashton, 13 Hen. IV. by the render of xxij*s*. and a hawk, or payment of xl*s*. for forester's puture. This proves it to be what, in Cheshire, was called "a wareland," within the Chace of Blakeley. Another extract from an indenture of Feb. 1413 (ibid.) states that the manor then held by the said Sir John, was held in 12 Edw. I. (1283), immediately from Manchester, not by Ashtons, but by the ancestor of Sir Richard de Kirkby; and documents are quoted (ibidem) to show, that in 5 Hen. VI. the Ashtons held as a subinfeudation under Kirkby. It does not appear that an Ashton really held that manor, by any known authentic deed, before a charter of free warren 9 Edw. III.

It has escaped observation that there were two Estones in Manchester Barony, Ashton subtus limam and Orm-Eston, the latter being only divided by the Mersey from a third Ashton, which had lords of its local name. With this second vill the Eston of the Testa de Neville may with equal or greater propriety be identified, namely, with Orm-Eston, now Urmston, in the parish of Flixton, which church was given by Lathom to Burscough; which Flixton "Eston" follows in the Testa de Neville; and in which Urmston (anciently Ormeston and adjacent to Irlam) the last Lathum of Irlam's representative informed Seacome that his family held a manor, derived (according to family tradition) from the elder line. It is certain that this township in the time of Edw. III. gave name to Adam de Ormestone, and that Urmston's heir (Dugd. Visit. Lanc.) brought a manor here to Hide of Denton; but this clashes in no way with the descent of the single carucate, or the possibility of a separate or paramount manerial interest.

It is immaterial to the discussion which of these vills was "Eston," and whether Ashton inherited from Orme Fitz-Ailward in either or in both of them, or otherwise; but it is presumed to be proved, that if Ashton was heir, he must be coheir, in the female line, and coheir with Lathom.

Note B. p. 6.

With respect to the existing evidences of the legitimate descent of the Lathoms of Lathom during the entire period to which the Legend has been referred, and of the particulars connected with the suit between Sir John Stanley, husband of Isabella de Lathom, and John Duke of Lancaster, on behalf of his ward, Elena de Lathom.

From an Inq. p. m.[f] taken in the second week of Lent, 8 Rich. II. (1385) it appears, that Thomas, son of Robert de Lathom, Knt. died

[f] Recently examined in the Duchy Office, but on paper, and from the signature at foot, "examined by R. Henderson, Vice Chancellor," supposed to be only a seised in fee tail of the manor of Knowsley (comprising Roby, Knowsley, Huyton, and Torbuck) held of the Duke of Lancaster, of which a feoffment had been made to Robert and Catharine his wife, for their lives; remainder to Thomas, son of Robert, and heirs of his body; remainder to Joan his sister, &c.; and also that a feoffment had been made of the manors of Childwall, Aulesarghe, and one fourth of Wrightington, held of John Warre, Knt. to said Thomas and Eleanor his wife, daughter of John de Ferrers, Chevr, and the heirs of their bodies, remainder to right heirs of said Robert.

And that the said Thomas died (holding other estates and homages irrelevant to this subject) Tuesday after feast of Exaltation (Sept. 14) 44 Edw. III. 1370, and the Jurors say (viz. in 1385) that ELENA, daughter and heiress of Thomas son of Thomas de Lathom, Knt. son of Thomas son of Robert, Chevalier, is cousin and NEXT HEIR of the aforesaid Thomas son of Robert de Lathom, who is of the age of one year and one month.

In indorsement of Close Roll (Duchy Records) 1377, next appear an enrollment* of a grant from Thomas de Lathom of lands in Lathom and elsewhere to Robert de Breton, vicar of Huyton, and Thomas de Ryding, chaplain (granted 49 Edw. III. 1375), this Thomas being evidently Sir Thomas de Lathom, who (according to the above Inq. p. m.) entered, in 1370, after his father's death, and received profits, &c. for twelve years (saving of Wrightington which he—namely, Sir Thomas last mentioned—had alienated to his younger brother Edward) and then died, viz. in 1382.

By Joanna, daughter of Hugh Venables, Baron of Kinderton, Cheshire (Latham pedigree Coll. Arm. and Leycester's MS. pedigree from Kinderton deeds), Sir Thomas left a daughter, ISABELLA DE LATHOM, who married Sir John Stanley; but by inquisition aforesaid it appears, that after the death of Thomas de Lathom, Chr. came Thomas son of the aforesaid Thomas de Lathom, Knt. and entered on the premises, as in the inquisition, and took profits for a year and a half, except as to Wrightington, and that after the death of the aforesaid Thomas (in 1384) the lands were seized into the Duke's hands, by reason of the nonage of ELENA, daughter of Thomas beforementioned, Roger de Fazackerly taking the profits for half a year, and the Duke subsequently, viz. up to Lent 1385.

In confirmation, it appears from the calendars of Duchy Close Rolls, that in 1382 a writ* to the eschaetor issued on the death of Isabel's copy of the time of Henry VII. The date 44 Edw. III. has been altered to 24, in this copy, but the original writing 44 is correct. The passages marked (*) refer to a Calendar of Duchy Close Rolls, printed as an official Calendar in Baines's Lancashire, vol. i.

father; and (1383, 4, 5), other writs* of diem clausit extremum on the death of Thomas Lathom, for setting* out dower in Lathum for the widow Isabella Lathom, and for proceeding* in an assize of novel-disseizin as to Knowselegh, Childwall, Roby, and Aulasargh, on behalf of said Roger de Fazackerley, followed by a mandamus* to the eschaetor on behalf of the Duke (guardian of Elena), and lastly, a precept* to sheriff to give seisin of tenements in Lathum to Isabella, the widow. The course of which is accordant to the tenor of the inquisition 8 Rich. II.

In this last year (1385) the opposition of the daughter Isabella appears to have commenced, as the Duke of Lancaster (Parl. Rolls, 9 Rich. II.) complained verbally and grievously to the King, Prelates, and Peers in Parliament, that the manor of Lathom, held under him in Thanage, being seized into his hands on account of the nonage of the heir of Thomas son of Sir Thomas de Lathom, knt., John de Stanley, Knt. pretending that the said manor belonged to him after the death of the said Thomas, son of Sir Thomas, in right of his wife Isabel, by pretext of an entail, had entered into the same, without livery or suit in the Duke's Chancery; whereupon, after consultation of the Judges of each Bench, Serjeants and lawyers (at the Duke's petition) it is determined that the entry was unlawful, and that Stanley must proceed in the Duke's Chancery, by petition, or otherwise.

In the same year, the Calendar of Close Rolls gives the Duke's "mandate* to the Justices of the Bench, to proceed (for Roger Fazackerley) on novel disseizin as to the tenements of Sir Thomas Lathom, knt. in Knowsley, Childwall, Roby, and Anhlesargh, and on no account to give judgment without the Duke's advice.

Such judgment does not appear, but in 1386 is the Duke's writ* for redisseizin for messuages and lands in Lathum on behalf of Robert de Barton (grantee of Sir Thomas in 1375) and in 9 Hen. IV. Isabella Stanley was, doubtless, finally settled in the inheritance of her fathers, as by a charter of that year, Sir John Stanley, Steward of the Household, has free warren in his manor of Weton, and by another charter, free warren in all the contested manors, namely, "Lathum, Knouslegh, Childwall, Roby, and Aulasargh."

NOTICES OF THE FAMILY OF HODY, &c.

The following will of Sir John Hody of Pillesdon in Dorsetshire, Knt. Chief Justice of England, is from the register of the Archbishop of Canterbury at Lambeth, "Chichele, 481[b]." It was not known to the editor of the last edition of Hutchins's History of Dorset; and will serve to correct some errors in, and add illustration to, the pedigree there given of the family of Hody.

Sir John Hody was appointed to fill the high office of Chief Justice of the King's Bench on the 13th of April 1440, in the 18th year of King Henry VI.[a] The appointment of his successor Sir John Fortescue, celebrated as the author of the treatise "De laudibus legum Angliæ," is dated on the 25th of Jan. 1442-3.[a] Both these learned persons are enumerated by Sir Edward Coke amongst the "famous and expert sages of the law," from whom Littleton had "great furtherance in composing his Institutes of the Laws of England." The name of Sir John Hody does not appear in Dugdale's "Chronica Series" prior to his elevation to the Bench: he had previously, however, been called to the degree of King's Serjeant at Law; and under that designation both he and Fortescue are found as arbitrators awarding in a dispute between John Plunger, Perpetual Vicar of the parish of "St. Dunstan's West in Fleetestrete in the suburbs of London," and John Mayor and John Holdernesse, keepers of the works and ornaments of the said church, on the one hand, and William Pepyr and John Whittokesmede on the other; respecting the foundation of a perpetual chantry at the altar of St. Catharine in the said church, pursuant to the will of Thomas Duyk, late citizen of London. This award is dated on the 8th July 1439, 17 Hen. VI.[b] de Hode held the third part of a knight's fee in Hode, and half a fee in Walleworth in that county, of Nicholas Fitz-Martin. Richard Hody was King's Escheator of Devonshire, 31 Edw. III.[c] and died about 32 Edw. III. seised of West Raddon and Mershewode manors in that county, and leaving Thomas Hody his son and heir, then fifteen years of age.[d] The pedigree of the family, taken at the visitation of Somerset in 1623, commences with John Hody of Stawel in that county, who is said to have been father of the Chief Justice.[e] This, however, is an error, as appears from the following will, where the name of Sir John's father is shown to have been Thomas, while his uncle is mentioned by the name of John.

The family of Hody was of considerable antiquity in the county of Devon. According to the Testa de Nevill, Jordan

We learn from this will, that besides John, William, and Margaret, who are the only children of Sir John Hody named in the pedigrees in the Visitation books, he had two other sons, Thomas and Alexander, and a daughter Johanna, then married to Nicholas Latimer, [g] besides other daughters then unmarried. The names of these latter daughters are not mentioned; but from a pedigree of the family of Bond, of Grange, in Dorsetshire, in the College of Arms, [h] it appears that Mary, one of the daughters of Chief Justice Hody, was married in 1453 to Robert Bond of Hache Beauchamp in the county of Somerset, and Lutton in the county of Dorset. The other daughter, Margaret, is stated in the Visitation book to have married Thomas Baynham of Deans in the county of Gloucester.

Of the sons of Sir John Hody, it is probable that Thomas and Alexander died young in their mother's life time. John the eldest was seated at Stowel in the county of Somerset, and at Nitheway in the parish of Brixham in Devonshire, and his posterity long continued there. William the second son was knighted, and became Chief Baron of the Exchequer, 22 Oct. 1487, 2 Hen. VII. [i] and was ancestor of a line which flourished for many generations at Pillesdon. Prince, in his "Worthies of Devon," relates a tradition of Sir John Hody having tried and pronounced sentence of death at the public assizes, on his own son Thomas, who was found guilty of a capital crime. This story is amply refuted by the editor of Hutchins, who, however, erroneously supposed that the Chief Justice had no son of that name.

Sir Alexander Hody, brother of Sir John, was attainted on the accession of the house of York for his adherence to the opposite party; and his lands, having been forfeited on that account, were afterwards restored to his nephew Sir William.[k] By an inquisition taken at Yeovil on the 26 Oct. 1 Edw. IV. it was found that he held at his death, in right of Margaret his wife, who survived him, the manors of Westbourn, Everley, Wemedon, Tokeswill, &c. besides other lands and hereditaments in the county of Somerset, and that having been also seised of the manor and advowson of Oterhampton, the manors of Newnam and Godelney, as well as of lands in Bowre de la Mere, Wollavyngton, Stoke Courcey, and elsewhere in the same county, he had conveyed the latter by deed dated 5 July, 38 Hen. VI. to certain feoffees upon trust, after his decease, to enfeoff Margaret his wife therein for her life, remainder to William Hody senior in tail, remainder to William brother of the said William in tail, remainder to his own right heirs.[l] It appears also by another inquisition taken at the same time, that he held the manor of Kington Magna with rent in Kington Parva, &c. in the county of Dorset, which he settled in the same way. He died 16 May 1461, and John, son of Sir John Hody, Knt. brother of the said Alexander, was his kinsman and heir, and of the age of 26 years and upwards.

Elizabeth, the wife of Sir John Hody, was the daughter and eventually heir of John Jewe of Whitefield, in the parish of Wiveliscomb, in the county of Somerset, and not of Whitfield in the county of Devon, as erroneously stated in the Visitation books, and all other pedigrees of the family of Hody. She brought with her in marriage the manors of Pillesdon, Putton, and Chickerel, in the county of Dorset, and those of East and West Whitfield, besides other lands in Somersetshire. After the death of her first husband, she became the wife of Robert Cappes, Esq. who was Sheriff of Dorset and Somerset 24 Hen. VI. and by whom she had a son James.

By an inquisition taken after her death at Bridport, co. Dorset, on the 30th Nov. 13 Edw. IV. it appears that she was seised in fee of the manors of Pillesdon, Putton, and Chickerell, besides lands in Atram, and a messuage in Dorchester, in the county of Dorset, and that having obtained a release thereof from John Hody her eldest son, by deed dated 22 April, 8 Edw. IV. she settled the manor of Pillesdon, in conjunction with Robert Cappes her husband, by a fine levied at Westminster, in three weeks from Michaelmas in the same year, upon herself and her husband for life, remainder to William Hody her son, in tail, remainder to her own right heirs. And by another inquisition taken at Crokeherne, co. Somerset, 31 Oct. 13 Edw. IV. she was found to have held the manors of East and West Whitfield, with lands in Fyfehed, Mertok, Chiew, Kyngesbury Episcopi, Compton Pauncefote, and Chilterne Dummer, in fee, and a similar release thereof having been made to her by her son John, and bearing the same date as the above, she limited the manors of East and West Whitfield, with the lands in Fyfehed, by a fine levied at Westminster at the same time as the foregoing, to herself and her husband for their lives, remainder to James Cappys their son in tail, remainder to her son William Hody, remainder to her own right heirs. It appears further that William Carent, Esq. having been seised of the manor of Stowell (no doubt as trustee to her first husband), had conveyed the same to her for life, remainder to the said John Hody her son in fee. This feoffment was made after her second marriage, and it is probable therefore that the manor of Stowell was not part of her own inheritance. She died on the third of August 13 Edw. IV. leaving John Hody, son of Sir John Hody, Knt., her son and heir, then of the age of 30 years and upwards. [m]

These inquisitions seem to confirm the account of Sir William Pole, [n] who, speaking of Elizabeth Cappes, says, "This woman disinherited her eldest sonne, and conveyed her land part unto Sir William Hody, Chief Baron, and part unto her issue by Cappis. Between whose issue," he further says, "there continued a long contention."

[n] Survey of Devon.

The will of Robert Caps is recorded in the Prerogative office, and was dated at Pyllesdon, 24 Aug. 1475. He gives a silver cup and other articles of plate to William 'Hordy,' and makes James Caps, his son, and Radegund wife of the said James, his executors.

The manor of Pillesdon seems to have been acquired by the family of Jewe, by inheritance from the ancient family of Pillesdon, which had previously possessed it from a very early period. In the first of King John, there was a suit between Peter de Bucwde and Richard del Estre concerning the custody of the lands and heir of Warreis de Pilesden.[o]

In Hilary term, 10th John, Henry de Catesclive and Felicia his wife demanded against the Abbat of Ford, four hides of land in Burgestoke and Catesclive, co. Dorset, as the right of the said Felicia, to which the Abbat pleads that he and his Monks held the same by grant from Warresius de Pillesdon, and in proof thereof he produces the charter of the said Warresius.[p] By an assize 28 Hen. III. it was found that one furlong of land in Morbath, co. Dorset, was the inheritance of Basilia, late the wife of Warresius de Pillesdon, who died on his journey to Jerusalem, and that Eudo de Pillesdon was the son and heir of the said Warresius, and then under age.[q]

By a fine levied at Westminster, in fifteen days from Easter, 6 Edw. III. and afterwards in the octaves of the Holy Trinity, in the same year, John de Pylesdon and Margery his wife settled a messuage, two acres of land, twenty acres of meadow, forty acres of alderbed, and 50*s.* rent, in Pylesdon, Stondelegh, and Whytchurch, co. Dorset, upon themselves for their lives, remainder to their sons, John, Thomas, Nicholas, William, Robert, and Stephen, successively in tail, remainder to John the father in fee.[r] Besides these children, John de Pillesdon had a daughter Alice, who married John le Jeu, son of William le Jeu, as appears by the following fines: and as the manor of Pillesdon passed from the family of Pillesdon to that of Jewe, not very long after this period, it may reasonably be conjectured that all the sons of John de Pillesdon died without issue,

By another fine levied at the same time, a messuage, six bovates of land, six acres of meadow, and thirty shillings rent, with pasture for twelve cows in "Merkok and Cote," was settled by the said William le Jeu and Agatha, upon the said John de Pillesdon for life, remainder to John, son of the said William le Jeu and Alice daughter of John de Pillesdon, in tail, with remainder to the right heirs of the said William. [t]

William Jewe and Thomas Jewe, who were probably sons of John le Jeu and Alice de Pillesdon, by fine levied at Westminster, in one month from Michaelmas, 1 Ric. II. conveyed a moiety of the manor and advowson of Pillesdon to Robert Pygas and Elizabeth his wife, in tail, remainder to John Jewe in fee. [u]

Westchikerell and Podyngton, the inheritance of William Jewe, were conveyed by the said William, by fine, to Alice Malet[x] for her life, with remainder to John Jewe and his heirs.[y]

In 20th Ric. II. Roger le Walsch and John Jewe held the fourth part of a knight's fee in Chickerell and West Chickerell of William Montacute, Earl of Sarum.[z] The will of this John Jewe is found in the Register of the Archbishop of Canterbury at Lambeth, "Chichele," n°. 32, f. 294ª, by which it appears, that besides Elizabeth, who afterwards became the wife of Sir John Hody, he had three sons, John, William, and Thomas, and a daughter Johanna. All these no doubt died without issue, for it is shown by the foregoing inquisitions that the manor of Pillesdon, as well as the other estates of the family, eventually centred in Elizabeth Hody: and it appears by Hutchins, that she is described in the institution books of the Bishop of Salisbury in 1438, as "Elizabeth, wife of John Hody, daughter and heir of John Jewe deceased."

SEPULCHRAL INSCRIPTIONS AT THE SCOTCH COLLEGE, PARIS.

To the greater part of the visitors of this gay and busy capital the remote quarter of the University, the old university of Paris, is as little known as the steppes of Russia; the dirtiness of the district, the wide ruin with which the hand of popular violence and revolutionary madness has passed over all the ancient institutions of an academical nature connected with the metropolis, and the comparatively limited number of archæological travellers who are the only persons likely to look after the skeletons of colleges and halls,—all this tends to the increase of that forgetfulness with which these remains of the academic splendour of one of the greatest universities of Europe are now unjustly treated.

The Scotch College (Le College des Escossais, as the old inscription in gold letters on a black marble slab over the doorway, still terms it,) the second of the British Catholic foundations in the French metropolis, was originally founded by David Bishop of Moray in Scotland in 1385, and was first situated in a building in the Rue des Amandiers, some traces of which may still be made out. It was one of the smallest foundations of the university, and had not prospered like some of its contemporaries; for in 1603 it was so far fallen into decay as to need a complete regeneration and refoundation from the munificent hand of Archbishop, afterwards Cardinal, Beatoun of Glasgow. In 1665 the college was transferred to its present site in the Rue des Fossés St. Victor, and here it was destined to remain and to undergo a second dissolution during the troubled times of the great Revolution. The private history of this, as well as of the other British foundations of Paris, is but little, if at all, known: whatever is to be found upon the subject is at present under course of compilation, and will some day or other be made public. It will be sufficient to say, that partly from the loss of some of the estates belonging to this foundation, and partly from the small demand for Catholic priests in Scotland, the college for the present remains in abeyance; the funds being allowed to accumulate, and being carefully administered by a Curator appointed by government. At a future time the College may rise from its long sleep, and again become a flourishing house of education: but at present the buildings, which are in perfectly good condition, are let out on lease to a private school, and the name alone remains to its walls.

The Chapel of this College possesses a great point of attraction to all students of English history, and to all who have hearts to feel for the misfortunes of an exiled race of kings. James the Second and his family bore a peculiar affection to all the British foundations of Paris, as mementos of the good land they had lost: when they entered within their walls they stood on British and on Catholic ground; they were surrounded by young British hearts that cherished both love and respect for them in return for their favour and patronage; and hence when the monarch died he bequeathed, as was the fashion at the court of France, various parts of his mortal remains to the various colleges. Where part of the monarch was interred, it was very natural that his consort and his children should wish to lie also, and that the most faithful and the most tenderly attached of his officers and followers should also desire to be buried. Accordingly we find in the chapels of the Scotch and Irish colleges many of the tombs of the courtiers of the unfortunate James II. and by a curious circumstance we find them nearly all uninjured, notwithstanding that so many years of revolutionary vandalism have swept over the land.

The King left his brains to this college, and it used to be said, other parts, but this is more than doubtful, to the Irish and English colleges. His heart was bequeathed to the Dames de Ste Marie at Chaillot, and his entrails were buried at St. Germain en Laye, where a handsome monument has been erected to his memory by order of George IV.; but the body itself was interred in the monastery of English Benedictine monks that once existed in the Rue du Faubourg St. Jacques close to the Val de Grace. In this latter house, previous to the Revolution, the following simple inscription marked where the monarch's body lay:

"Ci gist Jacques II. Roi de la Grande Bretagne."

In the chapel of the Scotch College mementos of the Queen and the daughter, Louisa Maria, of the dethroned King were also deposited.

In the Irish and English colleges no traces of any royal tombs exist, nor are their chapels so rich in monumental remains as those of the Scotch institution.

The chapel of this latter house is a small room, perfectly well suited, however, to the original size of the foundation: it is fitted up with black-oak stalls and altar-work, with a small gallery at the west end for the Principal, and a vestry or sacristy behind the altar at the east.[a] It is of the Ionic order. On the side fronting the door of entry stands the King's tomb in grey, black, and white marble—an obelisk on a sarco-phagus, with drapery forming a kind of canopy above.[b] The obelisk was surmounted by an urn of bronze gilt, with the brains of the King contained in it; but this was taken away at the time of the Revolution. The other tombs are only plain slabs on the walls or on the ground: where any of them contained brazen plates of arms they have been despoiled; but they are otherwise in good condition. The tablet commemorating the two founders of the college is the most interesting after that of the King; the history of the institution being briefly summed up in their monumental inscription (see p. 41).

FRANCIS TANFIELD, ESQ.

12 Jan. 38 Hen. VIII. (1547). I will that my manors, lands, &c. in Harpoll, co. Northampton, and all my lands, &c. in Gayton and Middleton in the said county, which Isabella Humphry my mother, late wife of William Tanfield my father, held in dower, and also my lands, &c. in Aspley, co. Bedford, and all my manor, lands, &c. in Everton and Tetworth, co. Huntingdon, with 53*l.* 5*s.* 3*d.* yearly, after my decease, shall remain to my lawful heir or heirs. And I will that the King shall have the wardship and premier seisin, as the case shall require, of the said manors and lands, as to the third part of all the manors, lands, &c. of me the said Francis. I will that my well beloved wife Bridget Tanfield have in recompence of her dower my manor of Gayton, co. Northampton, with lands and appurtenances in Myddleton [Milton Malsor], Floure, Northampton, Courtenhall, Collingtree, and Creaton, and also my manors, lands, &c. in Assheley and Ravensthorp, co. Northampton, and all my lands and tenements in Gretton, co. Northampton, and all my lands, &c. in Midgham, co. Berks, for life of said Bridget. I will that my executors receive the profits of my woods of Westbagburgh, Durburgh, Gu..stork, Fydyock, and Clelbery, co. Somerset, and of my manor, lands, &c. in Peaton, co. Devon, for certain term of years to payment of my debts, bequests, &c. and also virtuously to bring up and find my children Robert Tanfield, Abraham Tanfield, and John Tanfield, until they are aged twenty-one, or else married. I bequeath to my daughters Margaret Tanfield, Bridget Tanfield, and Sarah Tanfield, 200*l.* each at the age of twenty years, and if any of my said daughters die before marriage, I will that her 200*l.* shall remain to my next heir, and if another of my said daughters die, her 200*l.* also to go to my next heir; and if all my said daughters die before marriage, I will that my younger sons have 300*l.* and the residue to Bridget my wife towards the performance of my legacies, &c. And whereas my brother William Tanfield has the manor of Potton, co. Bedford, and whereas I have granted to Bridget my wife (inter al.) the manor-house of Gayton with Ashley and the parsonage there, I do give by this my will to my said wife all the said manor of Gayton with appurtenances for life, if she continue a widow, and if she marry, I will that the said manor-house, parsonage, &c. revert to my son and heir if he will, rendering to her during her coverture 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* yearly; and if she will not suffer my said son and heir to have the said house, &c. then I will that my said wife shall not have any legacy or benefit made to her by this my last will, which said benefit shall come to Clement Tanfield my son and heir apparent. I will that the said Clement my son, so soon as the gifts and legacies of this my will be paid, shall forthwith pay to the said Bridget my wife money to the value of the third of my manors, lands, &c. for life, and if the said Clement refuse, then I bequeath to my said wife all such part with benefits and profits that my said son Clement may have by this my last will. And forasmuch as my lands appointed to the use of my will cannot discharge my debts, therefore I will my executors to sell as much of my woods in the counties of Somerset and Devon as will pay the same. I will that Bridget my wife shall have the advowson of Harpole for life if she continue sole.

JOHN BUTLER, ESQ.

4 Sept. 4 & 5 Ph. & M. (1557) . . . . I will that all my lands in Westwardon, Byfield, Farndon, and Hynton [in Woodford], co. Northampton, as much as Edmond Haslewood now holdeth of me by lease, and all my lands in Bodington, co. Northampton, to be sold towards the payment of my debts, all such lands as I have given to my son Chamberlaine and my daughter Dorothy his wife being excepted; and if my executors can discharge my debts with my plate and other moveables, then I will that my said lands now remaining to me in Bodington, shall remain to Alban Butler my eldest son, giving 80*l.* to his sister, my daughter Dorothy; and if the said Alban refuseth so to do, I will my said daughter Dorothy to have all my lands in Nether Bodington in tail male, remainder to said Alban Butler in fee. And all my lands in West Wardon now in tenure of Edmond Haslewood, I give to Thomas Butler my second son in fee tail, remainder to William Butler in fee tail, remainder to John Butler my youngest son in fee tail, remainder to myself in fee.

I give to my son William Butler, after the death of his mother, my part of the house in the Charter-House churchyard with its pertinencies in fee tail, remainder to my son John Butler in fee.

ADDITIONS TO DUGDALE'S BARONAGE; FROM THE MS. COLLECTIONS OF FRANCIS TOWNSEND, ESQ. WINDSOR HERALD.

FITZ-ALAN OF BEDAL.—Vol. I. p. 53.

Page 53[b], line 35, read, who was in the expeditions made into Wales in 5, 10, and 15 Edw. I.

——— l. 60, make the following note after "Life," viz. I take this to be a mistake, and that the escheat referred to did not relate to this Brian Fitz-Alan, but to another of the same name who died in that year, leaving only one daughter, Maud, who was eight years of age; and the Inquisition states the lands to be in Lincolnshire; whereas the lands of this Brian were chiefly in Yorkshire. Besides, it is certain that he was not only summoned to Parliament till 33 of Edw. I. as Dugdale himself asserts; but he was also called upon in 34 Edw. I. amongst the Earls and Barons of the kingdom for an aid upon occasion of the King's eldest son receiving the honour of knighthood. These circumstances I conceive put it beyond doubt that he could not be dead in the 30 Edw. I.

Earls of Leicester.—Vol. I. p. 83.

P. 85, l. 12 from bottom, for "by some called," read, or rather.

——— l. 8 from bottom, after "Mellent," note. Waleran was the eldest son, as appears by what follows:

"Dñs Rex Henricus primus dedit com. de Meulent Kingeston cum pertin.:" (and other lands in Dorsetshire) "Et ipse comes dedit honorem Roberto filio ejus postnato qui post fuit comes Leyc̃ et descendebat Robto filio suo qui extremo obiit," &c. &c.[b]

P. 85, l. 5 from bottom, note. Of these daughters one married Hugh de Montfort, another Hugh de Novo Castello, another William Lupellus or Lovell, another Almeric de Montfort; and Elizabeth, who, as Dugdale says, was sometime concubine to King Henry the First, became afterwards the wife of Gilbert Strongbow, Earl of Pembroke.[c] ——— line last, for "1318," read 1118.

P. 86, l. 11, after "clearly," note. This grant of lands in Hereford was no doubt on account of his match with the granddaughter and heir of William Fitzosbern, Earl of Hereford.

P. 86[b], l. 14 from bottom, for "uncle," read, husband.

P. 87, l. 33, for "wife," read, daughter.

P. 88, reference (z) Monast. Anglic. vol. i. instead of "vol. ii."

——— l. 6 from bottom, note. From this William all the noble families of the name of Hamilton in Scotland and Ireland are alleged to be descended;[d] and the authors of that descent assert that he was called William de Hamilton from the place of his birth. But I have never met with any thing like authority to warrant or even countenance such an idea. On the contrary, in the account of his foundation of St. Leonard's Hospital in Leicester he is only called William the Leper: "Robertus oves les blancs mains comes Leicestrensis tertius post Conquestum desponsavit Petronillam filiam Hugonis Grantmenyl, cum qua accepit totum honorem de Hincley una cum Senescatu Angl. ex dono ejusdem Hugonis, &c. Hic genuit de dicta Pe-

In a grant of his mother to the Abbey of Lira of 40*s*. to keep an anniversary for this very man, he is called William de Britolio; and his sister Amicia de Montfort gave an annuity to the same monks "pro anima fratris mei Willielmi de Britolio."[f]

But what puts this matter, as I conceive, beyond doubt is this, viz. If the William de Hamilton had really been the third son of Robert Blanchmains, he or his son would have been the true heir to the Earldom of Leicester after the death of Robert Fitz-Parnell his alleged brother.

P. 88b, l. 46. In the first year of King John he obtained a grant of all the lands and fees heretofore belonging to Robert Earl of Mellent, his great-grandfather.

William de Meschines.—Vol. I. p. 89.

P. 89, l. 61, note. It was William de Meschines and Cecily his wife that founded Emesey ao. 1120, and not Robert de Romely, as appears by the authority itself to which Dugdale refers.

P. 89b, l. 1, after "Fitz-Gerald," note. I believe Alexander Fitzgerald was her second husband; but, as it does not appear that she had any issue by him, I hold the question not worth discussing.

Clavering.—Vol. I. p. 107.

P. 107b, l. 14, note. I am inclined to think that he died in the 14th of King John, not 16th, as the charter to John his son, confirming all former grants, is dated in the former year,[g] and it is difficult to imagine that such a charter would have been made to the son in the lifetime of his father.

——— l. 32, note. As there appears a little incorrectness in this statement of the charter of King John, I give a copy of it:

P. 108, l. 22, after "Stokesley," add, which her father had settled on her in frank marriage.

P. 109, l. 14, after "daughters." See a note below as to the marriages and issue of this lady.

[h] B. 2. p. 80, in Coll. Arms.

P. 109, l. 63, note. It appears by Glover's Collectanea (already referred to in the text), and by several other pedigrees of Clavering, as well as by all the pedigrees of Neville, that this Ralph Neville had married Eva, or Eufemia, the daughter and heir of this Sir John Clavering, and Dugdale himself asserts it under the title of NEVILLE, though not here. But notwithstanding all these authorities I cannot help thinking that no such marriage did really take place. I have not found any inquisition taken after the death of Sir John de Clavering: but in that for his wife Hawisia a°. 19 Edw. III. it is stated that Eva her daughter was her next of kin, and that Ralph Neville was heir to certain of the lands virtute doni.[i]

The agreement of marriage between Sir John and Hawisia was in the 6th Edw. I.[k] when he was not more than twelve years of age, and she survived him thirteen years; so that it is clear he had no other wife, and as Eva was forty years old at the death of her mother, it is also clear that she must have been the daughter of Hawisia by Sir John Clavering.

Dugdale says she had sons and daughters by both her husbands. The Genealogia Fundatoris of the Priory of Horsham gives the lady four husbands,[l] viz. 1st. Thomas de Audley, ob. s. p. 2ndly, Sir Ralph Ufford, Knt. by whom she had three sons, John, Robert, and Edmund. 3rdly, James de Audley, by whom two sons, James and Peter, and two daughters, Anne and Hawisia; and 4thly, Robert Benhale, Knt. who died without issue. I quote this because I think it deserves some notice, though I cannot help suspecting the truth of it. She was forty years old at the death of her mother a°. 19 Edw. III.[l] Dugdale himself, under the title Audley, says that Thomas Audley, whom he makes the second husband, died without issue a°. 1 Edw. II.;[m] now, as Ralph de Ufford lived till the 20th Edw. III.[n] it must be clear that, if she did marry both, Audley must have been the first and Ufford the second; but I think it will appear from what follows that she was never married to Ufford. In 16 Edw. III. she and her husband Robert de Benhale were parties in a fine with Ralph Neville and Hawisia de Clavering (her mother) relative to the manor of Clavering;[p] and the inquisition taken after her death, which did not happen till 43 Edw. III., calls her then the wife of Robert Benhale, and says she had been first married to Thomas de Audeleghe:[q] now Sir Ralph de Ufford died a°. 20 Edw. III, four years after the fine. This, I conceive, puts the supposed marriage with Ufford out of all probability.[r]

It does not appear that she had any issue by Benhale, and the inquisition states that James Lord Audley was the heir of her first husband. I am therefore of opinion that she had only those two husbands, Thomas de Audelegh and Robert de Benhale, and that she died without issue by either.

RIE.—Vol. I. p. 109.

Make a note at the end, viz.

There was a William de Rye summoned to Parliament a°. 22 Edw. I.[s] but never after; and also a William le Marshal summoned from 2nd to 7 Edw. II. who was doubtless grandson of Aliva the daughter and coheir of Hubert de Rye and wife of John le Marshal abovementioned. See under MARSHAL.

BARONY OF PERCY.—Vol. I. p. 269.

The Barony of Percy began by writ of summons to Parliament a°. 27 Edw. I. (the writ of a°. 26 being a military summons,) and it continued regularly to descend through several generations till the reign of Richard II. when Henry Percy,

[p] Fin. 16. Edw. III. [q] Esc. 45 Edw. III.

[r] Mr. Townsend was erroneously impressed here in considering it was Sir Ralph Ufford; he subsequently, however, found evidence of the mistake, as appears in another place. She married Thomas de Ufford, and not Ralph de Ufford, as appears by the following extract from the Close Roll of 2 Edw. II.

"Memorandum quod post calumpniam super assignaco'e dotis Eve que fuit ux: Thome de Aldithlegh, qui de rege tenuit in capite, factam p' Bertrandum de Cayllon cui Petrus de Gaveston, qui custodiam duarum partium terr' et ten' q. f. ejusdem Thomæ h'uit, custodiam illam concessit h'end' usque ad leg' et' heredis p'fati Thome, inter eundem Bertrandum ex parte una et Thomam de Ufford et eandem Evam quam idem Thomas duxit in uxorem, nono die Marcij a°. 2do concordatum est in hunc modum, viz. quod p'd'ci Thomas et Eva teneant oēs terras et oia ten'ta p'fate Eve in dotem assignata juxta assignaco'em eandem quod p'd'cus Bertrandus teneat custodiam p'd'cam usque ad leg' et' &c. simul cum manerio de Marchumleye et villata de Kentesden que sunt de dote p'd'ce Eve et que p'd'ci Thomas et Eva prefato Bertrando concesserunt et ad firmam demiserunt tenend' usque ad leg' etat','' &c.

[s] Rot. Vasc. 22 Edw. I. m. 8 dor.

Lord Percy, was created Earl of Northumberland. From him (though not without some temporary interruptions) the Earldom and Barony or Baronies descended to Henry Earl of Northumberland, who died in 1527, leaving three sons, Henry, Thomas, and Ingleram.[t]

Henry succeeded his father and died without issue in 1537. The style which he used was, "Henricus Percy Comes Northbriæ Dñs Honorum de Cokyrmouth et Petworth Dñs de Percy Lucy Poynings Fitz-Paine et Bryan, ac guardianus generalis orientalium et mediarum Marchiarum Angliæ versus partes Scotiæ, ac inclitissimi Ordinis Garterii miles," &c.

Upon his death, leaving no issue himself, the descent of these titles was stopped in its regular course by the unfortunate circumstance of the recent attainder and execution of his next brother Thomas; and thus they became extinct, or rather forfeited to the Crown, and so remained for twenty years, when by the favour of Queen Mary the Earldom of Northumberland and the Barony of Percy were restored to his nephew Thomas, the eldest son of his attainted brother, in a sort of qualified way, viz. by letters patent dated 30 Apr. a°. 1557, he was created a Baron of Parliament by the title of Baron Percy, with place and voice in Parliament (without mention of the ancient place,) to hold to him and the heirs male of his body, and for default of such issue, and after his death, Henry Percy his brother and the heirs male of the body of the said Henry should be Baron and Barons Percy. And by other letters patent dated the day following, he was, by thetitle of Baron Percy, and in consideration that his ancestors "ab antiquo de tempore in tempus" had been Earls of Northumberland, further created Earl of Northumberland to him and the heirs male of his body, with like remainder to his brother Henry and the heirs male of his body, with an especial clause granting the ancient place of the Earldom as it had been held by his ancestors.

This appears to have been a perfect restitution of the Earldom as to Thomas and Henry, but not extending any further than to the heirs male of their bodies.

[t] See vol. VI. pp. 266—283, for an account of the claim of James Percy, as descended from this Ingelram, to the Earldom of Northumberland in 1670, and which he continued to urge for many years, as also a pedigree of the male descendants of the first Earl.

With respect to the Barony it was no further a restitution than as it gave the same title; for, as to place, precedence, and inheritance it was to all intents and purposes a new Barony, with place and precedence only according to the date of the patent, and with a limitation of the inheritance to the heirs male descended of their two bodies only.

Thomas thus restored was for some time in favour with Queen Elizabeth, who made him a Knight of the Garter in 1563; but, joining in rebellion with Charles Earl of Westmorland, he was degraded of the Order in 1569, attainted by Parliament in 1571, and beheaded at York in 1572.

His issue was only four daughters, who could not have inherited his honours even if he had not been attainted, as they were expressly limited to the heirs male of his body with remainder to his brother Henry and the heirs male of his body. Henry accordingly succeeded to the Earldom.

FITZ-HUGH.—Vol. I. p. 402.

Fell into abeyance a°. 4 Hen. VIII. between Alice, wife of Sir John Fiennes, Knt., eldest daughter of Henry Lord Fitz-Hugh, aunt and coheir of George the last Lord Fitz-Hugh, and Sir Thomas Parr, Knt. son of Elizabeth, another daughter of said Henry and aunt of said George.

There were three other aunts, viz. Anne, who married Francis Lord Lovell, Margaret, wife of Robert Constable, and Joan, a nun at Dartford, who were dead, and from whom there was no issue at the death of their nephew.

The son and heir of Alice Fiennes became Lord Dacre of the South upon the death of his grandfather, and so her portion of the Barony of Fitz-Hugh became involved in the Barony of DACRE, and so remains at this day. And

The representative of Sir Thomas Parr is now (1817) John Marquis of Bute, as grandson and heir of the late Marchioness of Bute, first wife of the late Marquis.

Henry the eldest son, who is also styled Chevalier in the inquisition above referred to, did not long survive his father, but died on Wednesday next before the feast of the Nativity in 48 Edw. III.[b] leaving John de la Pomeray, Chev[r]. his son and heir, of the age of twenty-seven years, and two daughters, Johanna and Margaret.

John de la Pomeray, Chev[r]. the eldest son, who was twenty-seven years old at his father's death, married Joanne daughter and coheir of Richard de Merton,[c] widow of John Bounfild. John St. Aubyn, daughter of his eldest sister Johanna (whose husband's name is not known) and John Cole, Esq. son of his other sister Margaret, were found to be his cousins and next heirs. It does not appear how Thomas, the husband of his niece, was related to him. He made a settlement of all his estates (except Tregony,[e] which he gave in his lifetime to Edward Pomeray and Margaret his wife and the heirs male of the body of Edward, to hold of him and Joan his wife, and of his heirs for ever), upon himself and his wife and the heirs of their bodies, with remainder to his own right heirs. Sir Thomas Pomeray in right of Joan his wife, and John Cole, Esq. in his own right, divided those estates, assigning dower to the widow.[f] It seems Cole died shortly after without issue, for, upon the death of the said Joan wife of Sir Thomas Pomeray, it was found that she died on 8th December, 2 Hen. VI.[g] seised of the manors of Birie and Stokesley Pomeray, and a moiety of the manors of Brixham and Herburton, and that Edward Pomeray, Esq. had been in receipt of the rents and profits from the time of her death, but by what right the jurors knew not: that Joan, wife of Otes Bodrugan, and Margaret, wife of Reginald Trethurf, daughters of Sir John St. Aubyn, her son by a former husband, were her next heirs.

This Edward Pomeray was the son of Thomas Pomeray, perhaps the Sir Thomas above mentioned, but certainly the Thomas who is named as the youngest son of Henry, who died in 41 Edw. III.; for, in the inquisition taken after his death, it was found that he held the manor of Stokesley Pomeray and other lands in fee tail, by gift of Nicholas de Wedesgrave and others to Thomas de la Pomeray his father in a°. 3 Edw. III. (which is the settlement from whence the names of those younger sons were taken). He, Edward, married before 10 Ric. II. to Margaret daughter of John Bevill, Esq.[h] In 13 Hen. VI. he settled the manor of Birie Pomeray upon himself and the said Margaret his wife, and the heirs male of their bodies, remainder to his own heirs male, remainder to his right heirs, and died so seised on 3rd May, a°. 24 Hen. VI. leaving Henry his son and heir then thirty years old and upwards.[i] Margaret his widow, died 10 Sept. a°. Edw. IV. and Henry was again found heir.

This Henry was father of Sir Richard, father of Sir Edward father of Sir Thomas,[k] who all successively possessed the Barony of Birie Pomeray till the latter sold it to Edward Duke of Somerset, Lord Protector.

Bertram of Mitford.—Vol. I. p. 545b.

There is but one writ of summons in this case, and that only to the rebel parliament in 49 Hen. III. It is not therefore necessary to follow the descent of the coheirs: they were all, with the exception of Penbury, in the rank of peerage.

Lanvallei.—Vol. I. p. 633.

This Barony devolved entire upon John de Burgh, and upon his death in 8 Edw. I. fell into abeyance between his two daughters, Dervogild, wife of Robert Fitzwalter, and Hawise, wife of Robert de Greslei or Grelle, Margery their sister being a nun at Chicksand.

Barony of Say.—Vol. I. p. 510b.

P. 511, l. 6. A pedigree amongst Vincent's Collections in the Heralds' College calls this William son of William and grandson of another William who came into England with the Conqueror.[1] See more ofhim under Mandeville at page 203, in the description of his wife's brother, where it appears that Beatrix had been the divorced wife of Hugh Talbot.

P. 511b, l. 32, after "William," make this note. The custody of his lands during his minority having been granted by King Henry III. to one Pontius de la Mer, a merchant, and his assigns, he purchased the grant of Pontius; and there being some debts of his father still remaining unpaid to the King, the Sheriff of Middlesex distrained for the debt upon his lands. He represented his situation to the King, stating his having purchased the grant from Pontius, that he was still a minor, and should come of age in little more than a year, and that it was not the custom to distrain upon heirs in ward before they

P. 511[b], l. 67, after "Dowry." He had issue also by the said Idonea two other sons, Roger and Ralph, and two daughters, Katharine, wife of John St. John of Lageham, and Juliana, married to Roger Northwood the elder.[h]

P. 512, l. 24, after "age." From this point I think proper to state the descent in my own way.

The inquisition referred to, taken after his death in the 33rd of Edw. III. shews that William was his son and heir of the age of nineteen years. His daughters are not mentioned in that record, but they appear in a subsequent one; and, as their posterity at length became coheirs of this Barony, I postpone the account of their marriage and issue until I come to that subsequent record of the 6th of Hen. IV. at which period, by the extinction of their brother's line, the Barony fell into abeyance between the heirs of their respective bodies.

Besides William, the eldest son, he had two others, Thomas and John;[i] of Thomas I know no more than that he was living at the time of his father's death, and dead before 6 Ric. II. for in that year his brother John obtained livery of the manor of Hammes in Sussex (under an entail), in the character of heir male of the body of their father and mother, upon the death of their elder brother's son.[k] This John must also have been dead before the 6th of Henry the Fourth, and all issue male and female either from him or Thomas extinct, to make way for the inheritance to pass to the heirs of the sisters. Having thus disposed of the younger sons, I resume the account of William the eldest. He came of age and made proof thereof in the 35th of Edw. III. and was found to be heir to his mother at her death, which happened in the 43rd. He was regularly summoned to Parliament from the 36th of Edw. III. till his death in the 49th.[l] His wife was Beatrix sister of Thomas de Brewose, chevalier; and upon failure of her brother's issue, the manors of Maningford-Brewose, co. Wilts, and Tetbury, co. Gloucester, with other lands, came to Elizabeth Heron her daughter, and at that time sole heir. By this lady, who survived him, he had issue John his son and heir, only two years of age, and a daughter named Elizabeth.

John the son died a minor not more than ten years of age, and in ward to the King, on the 27th of July, in the 6th of Richard II., and his sister Elizabeth was found to be his heir, sixteen years old and upwards.[m]

What follows appears to me, from its singular curiosity, to deserve particular notice.

Shortly after the death of her brother this Elizabeth became the wife of Sir John de Falvesle, a knight of Northamptonshire, who immediately applied for livery in her right, she being of full age, of all the lands of her inheritance; which lands had, according to the feudal system, by reason of the death of her father and the minority of his heir her late brother, been seized into the King's hands, and so remained at the time of the application.[n] He was answered, that it was one of the King's prerogatives that all women who held of the King in chief, whatever their age might be, were bound to make oath that they would not marry until they had obtained his licence; and that if they did so marry without his licence, their lands and tenements should be seized into the King's hands until they made satisfaction "ad voluntatem Domini Regis," and, therefore, as the said Elizabeth had married herself to the said John after her brother's death without the King's licence, they were bound to make satisfaction for such transgression before they could obtain livery. He persisted in his demand, however, and the matter was brought to a discussion before the King and his great Council,[o] "in pleno Parliamento suo tento apud Westm̃ in octabis Sc̃ti Michaelis, a°. regni sui sexto." In which Parliament the petition of the said John and Elizabeth was read; and after the Parliament was ended, "in magno Concilio dicti dñi Regis, assistentibus" John King of Castille, William Archbishop of Canterbury, Robert Bishop of London, the Chancellor, the Bishops of Winchester, Ely, Durham, Lincoln, Norwich, Exeter, Hereford, and Sarum; the Abbat of Waltham Holy Cross, "et aliis prelatis ac etiam Comitibus et aliis magnatibus et proceribus regni," together with the Judges and Serjeants at Law and many other learned Counsel; and the said article of prerogative was read and debated, and a question was put by the said Prelates, Earls, and Peers to the said Justices, Serjeants, &c. "Utrum prædictus articulus pro lege haberi et teneri deberet aut consuevit?" They answer, "Quod prædicta Prerogativa non tenetur pro Statuto, et quod dictus articulus hactenus non extitit observatus;" and that by such marriage after the death of her brother (whose heir she was) without the King's licence she had not committed any offence for which she was bound to make satisfaction, or for which her lands ought to be detained in the King's hands. Whereupon it was ordered that livery should be granted from the day on which the application was first made.

As soon as this decision had taken place, a writ of summons was issued to the very man who had thus maintained a suit against the Prerogative of the Crown. It does not appear that he ever had any issue by this Elizabeth; yet he continued to be summoned to Parliament as long as he lived, viz. till 16 Ric. II. Upon his death [p] she married to her second husband Sir William Heron, who was the very next year summoned to Parliament and continued to be so summoned till the 5th of Hen. IV. although she had died in the 23rd of Ric. II. and it does not any where appear that he, any more than Falwesle, ever had any issue by her. I am not aware that either of her husbands is described in any of the writs of summons as Lord Say, and therefore some doubt may possibly arise upon that ground as to their having derived that honour through her. But this doubt must be removed by what follows: I have seen a deed of her first husband's which clears up that point with respect to him. It begins thus: "Sciant, &c. quod Ego Joñes Falwesle chivaler et Dominus de Say dedi, &c. Joñi Waltham Custodi privati sigilli, &c. manerium meum de Falwesle, &c. Dat. apud London, 1° die Martii a°. r. R. Ricardi Secundi post conq. 10°," &c. Her second husband Heron was Steward of the King's Household a°. 4 Hen. IV. by the title of Lord Say. A circumstance which still further confirms the supposition that the two husbands of this Elizabeth owed their respective summonses to Parliament to their marriage with her is, that neither of them ever had summons previous to such marriage.

The story of this lady furnishes more matter towards explaining the notions which prevailed about the latter end of the 14th and the beginning of the 15th centuries than any other that I recollect to have met with, and therefore I have dwelt upon it with particular attention.

Her father was the heir of a long line of ancestors who had been summoned to Parliament by writ with as much regularity as can be shewn in most ancient Baronies, and so may be considered as the heir of and as possessing a Barony by writ, but the lands he inherited were some of them held "per Baroniam," others "sicut Baro," so that he may also be said to have been heir of a Barony by Tenure, and upon that ground perhaps a question may fairly arise, whether the circumstances that attended his daughter's inheritance are to be attributed to the Barony by Writ or the Barony by Tenure, or to the compound of both. It is certain that her first husband Falvesle was summoned to the very first Parliament after the legality of his marriage had been allowed. It is also certain that he had not been admitted to the enjoyment of her lands till after a successful contest maintained against an alleged prerogative of the Crown; and it seems reasonable to suppose that the immediate calling him to Parliament was not a matter of spontaneous favour, but that as her husband he had a right to a writ. He died and she married again, and her second husband Sir William Heron was also immediately summoned, and continued to be summoned as long as she lived. So far all this may be applicable to a mere Barony by writ: but this second husband continued to be summoned after her death, and is called Lord Say; and it turns out upon investigation that the principal lands of her inheritance had been settled by fine upon her said second husband and her for their respective lives, with remainder to the heirs of their two bodies, remainder to her right heirs, and so he became tenant for life after her death. Here are two circumstances combined, his enjoyment of her lands and his sitting in Parliament after her death; and I must own that they appear to me to connect so closely as that I cannot help suspecting that if the lands had not been so settled, but had remained as her paternal inheritance, they would have passed away upon her death without issue in the 23rd of Ric. II. to her heirs at law, and no more writs of summons would have issued to her surviving husband.

She died on the 8th of July a°. 23 Ric. II. yet no inquisition appears to have been taken; but her inheritance remained quietly in the possession of her surviving husband until his death in the 6th of Hen. IV. and then the jury return,

Mary, wife of Otho de Worthington,
Maud, sister of the said Mary, and to be her cousins and next heirs in the following manner, viz.
Roger de Fienles,

The said William de Clinton, Chevr. as son of Sir William de Clinton, Knt. son of Sir John de Clynton, Knt. by Idonea his wife, eldest daughter of Geffrey de Say and aunt of the said Elizabeth Heron.

The said Mary Worthington and Maud her sister as daughters of Sir Thomas de Aldon, Knt. by Elizabeth his wife, second daughter of the said Geffrey and aunt of the said Elizabeth Heron.

The said Roger de Fienles, as son of Sir William de Fienles, Knt. son of another Sir William by Joan his wife, third daughter of said Geffrey and aunt of the said Elizabeth.

So the Barony fell into abeyance amongst these four coheirs.

Afterwards Mary Worthington and her sister (who was married to (sic)) both died without issue, [p] and the abeyance rested between Clinton and Fienles.

William de Clinton was a Peer already; he died in a°. 10 Hen. VI. leaving John his son and heir 22 years old.

Roger de Fienles married and had issue Richard, who obtained the Barony of Dacres of the South by marriage, and transmitted it to his posterity, where it remains to this day.

This Roger had a younger brother named James, who was Esquire of the Body to the King, and afterwards a Knight, and in 24 Hen. VI. advanced to the office of Chamberlain to Queen Margaret, with a salary of forty pounds per annum, by letters under her great seal dated the 7th of June in that year.

In the year following, on the 5th day of March, he was created a Baron of the Kingdom of England, in presence of the three estates of the realm in Parliament assembled at Bury St. Edmond's, and with the assent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, by the title of Baron of Say and of Sele, and his writ of summons, directed "Jacobo Fenys militi Domino de Say et de Sele," was publicly read before the King. Nothing of this transaction appears upon the Rolls of Parliament, but the whole is recited at large and exemplified by a patent under the great seal dated the same day; and it is remarkable that there are no words in the patent, any more than in the writ, that can be construed as giving or conveying a state of inheritance [q] in the dignity. He was summoned by the same title to the following Parliaments of 27 and 28 Hen. VI.; in which latter year, on the 4th of July, he was unfortunately taken by the rebels under Cade, and by them beheaded.

It has been already noticed that there was no estate of inheritance in the title of Say and Sele granted by the letters patent. After the death of the person who had been so created, I find his son and heir William summoned to the next Parliament and to all subsequent Parliaments during his life, not by the title of Say and Sele, as his father had been, but by the title of Say only, as if he had become sole heir of that ancient Barony, notwithstanding that the line of his father's elder brother, as well as that of Clinton, was still in existence: and I think it will appear, from the evidence which I am about to state, that this William was at that time considered to be legally possessed of that dignity. I therefore deemed it proper to proceed in the manner I have done in order to bring that evidence forward.

A short time before the death of Sir James Fenys (Fienles), who had been, as above mentioned, created Lord Say and Sele, an agreement appears to have been entered into between him and his cousin John Lord Clinton for the purpose of putting him in possession of the ancient title of Lord Say; for, by a deed dated 1st Nov. 27 Hen. VI. John Lord Clinton "gives, grants, ratifies, and confirms to the said James Lord Say and Sele his cousin, his heirs and assigns for ever, the name and title of Lord Say, relinquishing all interest therein, as well as right to the arms thereunto belonging, for himself and his heirs, and also granting that the said James, his heirs and assigns, should be known and called by the Title of Lord Say, without any other addition, with a clause of warranty against all persons whatsoever." The 2nd of December following the two parties

Nos autem tenorem Acti prædicti ad requisitionem præfati Jacobi duximus exemplificandum per presentes. In cujus rei testimonium has literas nostras fieri fecimus patentes. executed an indenture by which, after reciting the above mentioned deed, Fienles renounces all pretensions to "all advowsons, knight's-fees, wardships, marriages, reliefs, escheats, rents, services, and forfeitures, which by reason of the said Lordship [ratione Dominii) of Say had belonged to Clinton before the date of his release, or might in future devolve upon him or his heirs."

The death of Fienes happened soon after, and it may admit of great doubt whether the title of Say and Sele did not become extinct upon his death. Had there been nothing but the writ of summons in proof of the title, that writ would have operated in the usual way and created an estate of inheritance to the heirs of his body, but here was a formal ceremonious creation in pleno Parliamento, accompanied by letters patent, in which, as I have said before, there is not a word about heirs of any description. But, however that may be, it is certain that when he died he was considered to be Lord Say. An inquisition post mortem in Surrey, another in Sussex, another in Kent, another in Middlesex, and another at Bristol, all describe him "Jacobus Fenys miles Dominus de Say," or "Jacobus Dñs de Say miles." It is certain too that after his death none of his posterity ever received a summons to Parliament by the title of Say and Sele till after a new patent was obtained from King James the First, and then, though the patent recognised and confirmed the descent from Sir James to the grantee, it expressly limited the rank to the date of this new creation.

From these transactions between Clinton and Fienes, and the subsequent conduct of the Crown, I think these inferences may be drawn:

That Clinton, as representative of the eldest coheir, was considered as having the principal if not the exclusive claim to the dignity of Say.

That all advowsons, knight's-fees, wardships, marriages, reliefs, escheats, rents, services, and forfeitures, were considered as attendant upon the dignity, or as it is called in the deed the "Dominium de Say."

That it was competent in law to a coheir of a Barony, situated as Clinton was with respect to Say, to convey all his right and interest, not only to any other coheir, but even to a person who had no present interest in the dignity, provided that person were lineally descended from the immediate common ancestor of the coheirs, and perhaps to any other person not so qualified, for Clinton's conveyance is not only to Fienes and his heirs, but to Fienes and his heirs and assigns. If Clinton could give such a right of assignment to Fienes he must have possessed it himself. The former part of the inference has been proved; the latter certainly has not; but it has also not come into question, and the deed, as far as it goes, proves that Clinton thought himself, and was considered to be, possessed of such a right.

SAY.

Sir James Fenys, created Lord Say and Sele 5 Mar. 25 Hen. VI.
Beheaded by the rebels 28 Hen. VI.

William, summoned to Parliament and sat as Lord Say.

Henry, never summoned to Parliament, but always called Lord Say, and so styled in Inq. p. m.

Richard, never summoned, and I do not recollect to have seen him called Lord Say in any record. He is styled Richard Fienes, Esq. in Inq. p. m.

Edward, son and heir, was only one year old when his father died, anno 1501. His wardship was given to Sir Thomas Brandon, Knt. who in his will, dated 11 January 1509, says, "I will that the marriage of the Lord Say, whose wardship I have, shall remain to Charles Brandon during the Lord Say's nonage." This is most indisputable proof of his being considered as Lord Say at that time. (Vinc. 31, 165.)

Corbet.—Vol. I. p. 515.

A°. 2 Edw. II. Peter Corbet, son and heir of Peter Corbet, gives the King 100 marks for his relief of all the lands and tenements which his father held in capite, on the day of his death, of King Edward I. It appears in the Great Roll of 12 Edw. I. in Salop that said Peter Corbet the father was charged with 100 pounds for his relief upon the death of Thomas his father, one hundred pounds being at that time the usual relief for a Barony, but now, on reference to Magna Carta, it was ordered that no more than 100 marks should be paid.[r]

These two Peters were regularly summoned to Parliament from 22 Edw. I. to 15 Edw. II. when the last Peter died without issue, and the Barony fell into abeyance between Stafford, Harley, and Cornwall.[s] Stafford was already a Baron; neither Harley nor Cornwall was ever summoned.

HILTON, 23 Edw. I.—Vol. II. p. 6.

In the 23rd, 24th, and 25th of Edw. I. Robert de Hilton of Hilton in the county Palatine of Durham had summons to Parliament amongst the Barons of this realm.[t] And in the 4th of Edw. II. was in the expedition then made into Scotland.[u] This Robert married Margaret, one of the three daughters of Marmaduke de Thwenge, by whom he had issue two daughters, his coheirs; Isabella, wife of Sir Walter Pedwardyn, knt.; and Maud, married to Sir John Hotham, Knt.;[x] and upon the death of Thomas Thwenge, the last surviving brother of the said Margaret, it was found that the said Isabella Pedwardyn and John Hotham, son of the said Maud, were amongst the coheirs of Thwenge as representatives of the said Margaret.

From Isabella de Pedwardyn descended Sir Robert her son and heir: Sir Robert married Elizabeth daughter of Sir Edmund Pierrepoint, and had issue Walter Pedwardyn, Esq. who died a°. 9 Hen. VI. leaving issue by Katharine his wife, daughter of Sir John Ingilby, of Ripley, in the county of York, Knt. Roger his son and heir, Thomas who died without issue, and four daughters. Roger Pedwardyn had two sons, Christopher and Peter, who both died minors, and in ward to Sir John Hussey of Sleaford. The issue male of Isabella Pedwardyn thus failing, the four daughters of Walter Pedwardyn above mentioned, viz. 1. Anne, 2. Joan, 3. Katharine, and 4. Margaret, became her heirs.

I. Anne married John Quickerell of Boston, in the county of Lincoln, and left a numerous issue.

II. Joan died without issue.

III. Katharine, married first to Nicholas Dene of Barrowby in the county of Lincoln;[y] and secondly, to David Sitsilt or Cecil, grandfather of Lord Burghley. By the second she had no children; but by the first she had a son named James Dene, whose only daughter and heir Thomasine was twice married; first to Sir Richard Bozon, Knt. who died on the 18th of Aug. a°. 16 Hen. VIII. and by whom she had five daughters;[z] and secondly to William Vernon, by whom she had an only daughter. The five daughters by the first husband (Dene) were,

1. Amia, married first to Henry Babington, and secondly to Francis Moore.

2. Mary, wife of John Worsley.

3. Margaret, wife of Richard Clopton, of Groton in Suffolk,[b] Esq. by whom she had only a daughter named Mary, who married to Sir William Cordall, Knt. Master of the Rolls, who I believe died s. p.

4. Alice, wife of George Poole; and

5. Elizabeth, married to Sir Richard Paynell, of Boothby in the county of Lincoln, Knt.[c] by whom she had two sons, Francis and Richard, who were living in 1562.

6. The daughter by the second marriage was Joan, who was second wife to Henry Saville of Lupset, in the county of York, Esq. Her lineal descendant and heir was William Saville, Marquis of Halifax, who left three daughters and coheirs, viz.

1. Anne, wife of Charles Bruce, Earl of Ailesbury, whose sole heir at present (1807) is the RightHonourable Lady Temple, daughter and heir of the late Duke of Chandos.

2. Dorothy, wife of Richard Boyle, Earl of Burlington, whose heir is the present Duke of Devonshire; and

3. Mary, wife of Sackville Tufton, Earl of Thanet, and grandmother of the present Earl. (1807.)

IV. Margaret, the fourth daughter of Walter Pedwardyn, as above mentioned, became the wife of Alexander Leeke, son of Matthew Leeke, of Leeke, co. Lincoln: whether there was any issue of this marriage or not, I cannot say at present.

I now return to Maud, the second of the daughters and coheirs of Robert de Hilton, and wife of Sir John Hotham, Knt. From her there was a regular descent of seven generations all of the name of John, and all except one knights. Sir John Hotham, the last of the seven, was succeeded by Sir Francis his son and heir, whose grandson and heir Sir John Hotham was created a Baronet a°. 19 James I. and was twice married. His grandson and heir had two sons and two daughters. The sons were Sir John who succeeded him in the Baronetage, and Ro-chaplain to Colonel Cholmondeley's regiment in the army of Robert Earl of Essex 1642, also one of the scribes to the Assembly of Divines, and a most zealous Covenanter. He was afterwards Rector of Collingbourne Ducis, and an assistant to the Commissioners of Wilts for the ejection of such whom they then (1654) called scandalous, ignorant, and insufficient ministers and schoolmasters. He died in 1660, and, on the 12th of February, his relict Katharine administered to the effects of the said Ad. Byfield of the parish of St. Martin's in the Fields, in Middlesex, lately deceased. (Wood's Ath. Oxon. edit. Bliss.)

[f] Presented to the living by William Duke of Somerset in 1662. Qu. Was he father of Dr. Arthur Charlett, first of Trinity college, Oxford, and afterwards Master of University college?

[g] George Hunt was instituted Rector of Collingbourne Ducis in 1581, on the presentation of Richard Kingsmill, Esq. and again (or another person of the same name) in 1614, on the presentation of the King for that turn. Henry Scudder was instituted in 1633, also on the presentation of the King. Scudder was a Presbyterian, and a great admirer of William Whately, Vicar of Banbury, whose Life he wrote. [h] See the epitaphs of the Rev. William Tomlins and his wife, Hoare's Hundred of Elstub and Everley, p. 15.

[i] Daniell Burges succeeded to Collingbourne Ducis on the death of Adoniram Byfield, and had been Rector of Sutton Veney, co. Wilts. He was ejected from Collingbourne for nonconformity in 1662, and became a dissenting minister of eccentric celebrity. Bogue, in his History of Dissenters, states that he was born in 1645, but he could scarcely in that case have been Rector of Collingbourne in 1660, as appears by the register. He is also stated to have died in 1713: there was a "Mr. Daniel Burges" buried at St. Peter's, Marlborough, 25 June 1679.

[k] Robert Woodward was of New College, Oxford, LL.B. 1677, LL.D. 1685. He was made Archdeacon of Wilts in Nov. 1681, Chancellor of the diocese of Salisbury 1684, Rector of Pewsey, co. Wilts, Jan. 1684-5, Chancellor of the church of Salisbury 1686, and Dean of Sarum 1691.

In sacrâ muneris sui functione diligentissimus, ad omnes animorum motus in populo excitandos concionator egregius, gravis sine arrogantiâ, vitâ non minus linguâ pudoris et sanctimoniæ suasor et hortator fuit. Tali amico amisso, cum consuetudine jucundâ tum multorum officiorum conjunctione, et me privatum video, et interitu talis Theologi dignitatem nostri ordinis diminutam doleo.

Multis ille quidem flebilis occidit,
Nulli flebilior quam mihi.

1703. Magister Edmundus Spark Cantabrigiensis, Rect^r Tedworthiæ Australis, mortem cum vitâ commutavit podagræ doloribus cruciatus, Maii die 8° a° 1703.

1703. Robt Marshman, of ye same distemper, June ye 6th (being ye same day ye Bp. preach'd and confirmed). By experience it was found y^t a comon medicine called Decoctum sacrum was of excellent use, few dying of y^s feavour who made use of y^t remedy.

1703. Memdum, y^t on Saturday ye 27th day of Nov. about 2 a clock in ye morning, there arose a terrible hurricane wch did unspeakable damage all over England, but few places suffered more y^n ye Parsonage here. For there was one long barn blown down, all ye rest of ye barns, outhouses, stables, and ricks of corn were unthatched, ye whole dwelling house uncovered, ye lead upon ye chancell shrivelled up like a scrowl, and ye tower and body of ye church much damnified. At ye same time the Rt. Rev. Richard Kidder, Bishop of Bath and Wells, together with his Lady, were destroyed in y^r palace at Wells. But by^e Providence of God both man and beast escaped all manner of hurt in these parts.

1704. Nov. ye 27th. About ys time I cast up what my charges had been in building a new barn, in ye alterations of my house, and in repairing ye greatest part of ye damage occasioned by ye storm, and ye sum amounted to 140*l.* at ye lowest computation: ye remaining part of my charge will, I suppose, come to near 30.

1705. The bourn or rivulet, wch rises in Burbadge and passes through ye Collingborns, sometimes as far as Salisbury, did not run in ye winter last past: ye whole year having been very dry. April ye 1st.

1706. Maye 14th. I made a perambulation round my parish, where we renewed ye old bounds and sett our land marks according to ye directions of some of ye oldest inhabitants who were present. We observed yt ye bridge over ye brooke between Sunton Collingborn and us stands within ye limits of our parish, but this is only upon leave given, and ye inhabitants of Sunton are obliged to renew and repair ye sd bridge whenever it wants either repairing or renewal. Ita est, Guil. Sherwin, Rectr.

1706. Memdum. That on July ye 16th, 1706, my wife was safely delivered of a lusty boy about noon in her father's house at Chester, who was baptized there ye next day following by ye name of Thomas. Ita est, W. S.

1707. Johannes Torbuck, A.M. Socius olim Joannensis Oxon: jam Rector de Ludgershall, animam suam profudit 14o die Apr. ao 1707. Hominem ingeniosum, amicum facetum et dulcem, et Poetam non contemnendum, calamitates domesticæ afflixerunt.

Haud facile emergit, cujus virtutibus obstant
Res angusta domi, et turpes cum conjuge natæ.

[r] Lieut.-General Webb, serving in the Duke of Marlborough's army, received a shot in the groin at the battle of Malplaquet, 11th Sept. 1709. In the preceding year, whilst guarding with a body of 6,000 men a convoy from Ostend, he was attacked near Wynendale by a force of 22,000 French, who were received so warmly that they retired in the utmost confusion, and with a loss of 6,000 men. This was the most honourable exploit performed during the whole war, and of such consequence to the confederates that, if the convoy had been taken, the siege (of Lisle) must have been raised.

MEMORIALS OF THE FAMILY OF STUMPE, OF MALMESBURY.

The following is a passage of Leland's Itinerary: "The hole logginges of th' abbay [of Malmesbyri] be now longging to one Stumpe, an exceeding riche clothiar that boute them of the King. This Stumpe's sonne hath maried Sir Edward Baynton's doughter.

"This Stumpe was the chef causer and contributor to have th'abbay chirch made a paroch chirch.

"At this present tyme every corner of the vaste houses of office that belongid to th'abbay be fulle of lumbes [looms] to weve clooth yn, and this Stumpe entendith to make a stret or 2 for clothiers in the vacant ground of the abbay that is withyn the towne waulles. There be made now every yere in the towne a 3000 clothes." (Itin. vol. ii. fol. 27.)

From a previous passage it appears that even a portion of the church was then filled with looms; namely, that ancient portion which was considered a separate "little church joining to the south side of the transeptum of th' abbay chirch."

The abbey of Malmesbury was purchased by William Stumpe of the Crown in 31 Hen. VIII. for 1500*l.* 2*s.* 0½*d.* [a]

A grant from Hen. VIII. to Wm. Stumpe dated 20 Nov. 36 Hen. VIII. (1545) is preserved in the Earl of Suffolk's Record-room at Charlton.

Fuller in his Worthies of England, under Wiltshire, notices Stumpe [b] as a benefactor to the public (in procuring the abbey church for the parish). "He was (he says) in his age one of the most eminent Clothiers in England; of whom there passeth a story told with some variation of circumstances, but generally to this purpose. King Henry the Eighth, hunting near Malmesbury in Bredon Forest, came with all his Court Train, unexpected, to dine with this Clothier. But great housekeepers are as seldome surprised with guests as vigilant captains with enemies. Stump commands his little army of workmen, which he fed daily in his house, to fast one meal untill night (which they might easily doe without endangering their health), and with the same provi-

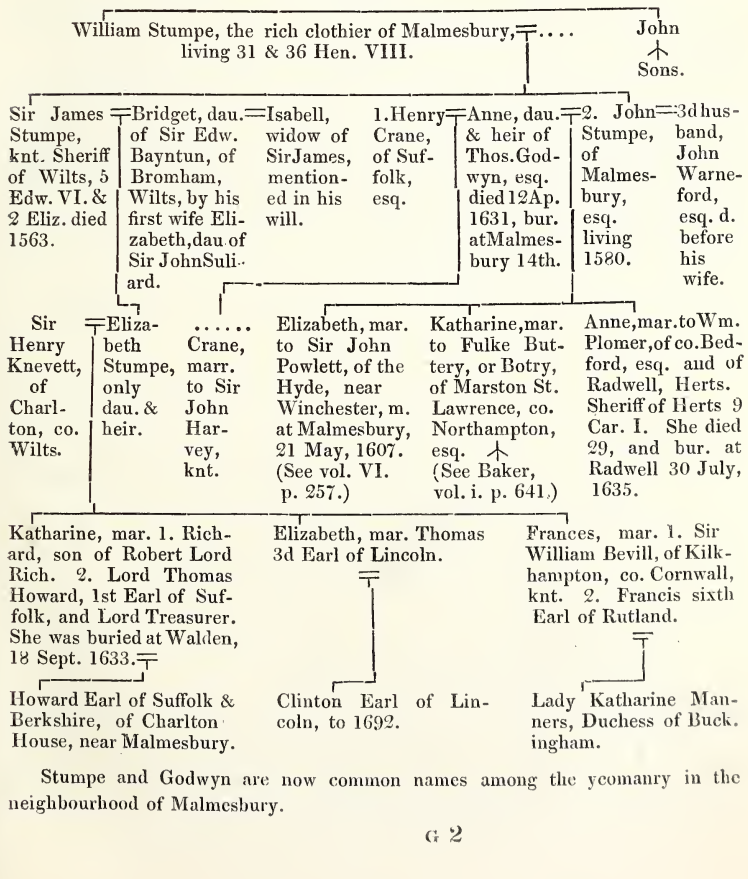
PEDIGREE OF STUMPE OF MALMESBURY.



Stumpe and Godwyn are now common names among the yeomanry in the neighbourhood of Malmesbury.

On New-year's day 1561-2, Sir James Stump presented to the Queen "two greyhounds, a fallow and a blak-pyed," and received in return a gilt cup and cover, weighing nearly 11 oz. (Nichols's Progresses, &c. of Queen Elizabeth, vol. i. pp. 115, 125.)

His will is registered in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury: it is dated 28 April, 5 Eliz. (1563), and was proved on the 14th June following. He is styled therein Sir James Stumpe, of Bromham, co. Wilts. He desires his body to be buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster; states his property to consist of a rental of 500 marks, arising from lands in the counties of Wilts and Gloucester; 1000 in plate, and 1000*l.* in household stuff; mentions a lease of Edington, Wilts, the manor of Bromham, the manor of Rodbourn, and woods in Charlton and Brinckworth in Bradon. The principal legatee is his daughter Elizabeth; to the sons of his uncle John Stump is left 20*l.* from the manor of Rodbourn:—to his brother John Stump, of Malmesbury:—to his friend Sir John Leigh 100*l.* who, with the testator's wife Isabell, is left executor.

There is a very large monument in Charlton church, with recumbent effigies of a man and his wife, and kneeling figures of their children, which is supposed to be that of Sir Henry Knevitt and his lady.

Sir John Powlett was the second of the four natural sons, all knights, of William first Marquess of Winchester.

The epitaph at Radwell of "Ann Plomer, late the wife of William Plomer, Esq. and one of the coheires of John Stump, of Malmesbury, in Wilts, Esq. who dyed in the yeare of our Redemption 1625, July 29;" will be found in Clutterbuck's Hertfordshire, vol. iii. p. 553.

Sr. There being five prisoners in Beumaris Castle, wch five shipps of war, nowe vpon the Coast of Anglesey, had a designe to rescue, and therefore of necessitie a course hath been taken to remoue them to Ludlowe, to the Porter's lodge there; a place wch by reason of the Comission of Oyer and Terminer in all the Counties of Wales hath heretofore been a prison for trayters and other enormous Delinquents. In regard of the defective directions of Sr Nicholas Byron I haue written a warrant (how valid I insist not), But vntill his Matie be made acquainted wth them and theire adherents. And for that some prisoners of ors may have theire inlargement by theire meanes, I hope the Councell will direct theire safe Custodie, wch will occasion both the King's alloweance to the house, and a pmission for guarde of towne and Castle. [r] The address of this letter is gone, but I have no doubt it was to Sir Francis Ottley, Governor of Shrewsbury.

[s] About four miles from Shrewsbury, formerly the property of the ancestors of of the Earl of Onslow, and hence the family name and title.

[t] Originally Acton, afterwards Boar Acton, aud now Boreatton, but pronounced Bratton.

[u] Sir Paul Harris, of Boreatton, co. Salop, Knight and Baronet, Sheriff of the county 1637, was one of the King's Commissioners of Array; Gough, the historian of Middle, co. Salop, says, "he was not well beloved by the ancient gentry of the county, nor by the common people." His letter, to whomsoever addressed, does not seem to have had much attention paid to it, as appears from the following letter of Mr. Secretary Nicholas, written upwards of a month after:

"To my much honored

Knt. Gouernor of Shrewsburye, these.

"Sr. This gent Sr Paul Harris complaynes that his Armes hath bene taken away out of his house, wthin the lib'ties of Shrewsberry, wth, in my confident advice of yor respects to me, as of yor free carriage to all that are (as he is) well affected to ye King, I haue undertaken yt you will upon my I'r cause to be restored to him; whereupon he hath not complayned of it to any other, yor constant affec'on to ye King's s'ruice, & to all that are soe, makes me rely soe farr vpon you as to engage my self for ye restitution of these armes to this gent, which I shall take as a favour done to, Sr, Yor affectionate freind & Servant,

"Oxon, 22 Julij 1643. EDW. NICHOLAS."

Sir Paul died the following year; and his son Sir Thomas Harris, one of the most eminent loyalists in the county, had, with "Dame Ann, the widow of Sir Paul Harris deceased, Delinquents," to pay as a composition 1542*l.*

It has, however, been doubted whether the patent, owing to the unsettled state of the times, was or was not taken out. It is clear that the warrant for the appointment received the royal sign manual, and I apprehend the patent was completed, for in a letter dated Aug. 16, 1645, hereinafter inserted, he is addressed as Sir Thomas Edwards. He had to compound for his loyalty by payment of 2060*l.* In Dring's Catalogue he is only entitled Esq. but so also is Sir Edw. Acton, Bart. He died 1660.

By his Hs. letter directed to yourself, the Comrs and Gentry of the County, you will particularly understand his desires, and am confident that therein you will apply yourself for his Hs. satisfaction, nothing being desired but the security of your County, and therein the advantage of His Majties service. SEPULCHRAL INSCRIPTIONS IN THE CHAPEL OF THE IRISH COLLEGE AT PARIS.

The College des Irlandais, or "Seminarium Clericorum Hibernorum," according to the inscription affixed over the principal gateway on the inside, is situated in a small street on the southern side of the Mont Ste. Géneviève, formerly called the Rue du Cheval-vert, but now the Rue des Irlandais. It is a substantial stone building, which, though without much architectural ornament, is not devoid of dignity, and is commodiously disposed within for the reception of its flourishing community. It surrounds three sides of a court; on the south of which is the chapel, with the library above it; on the north the refectory and part of the students' rooms; on the west are the president's lodgings, the rooms of the professors, the lecture rooms, and the chambers of the major part of the students. The eastern side is open, the ground being there planted with a grove of chesnut trees. The buildings date about ten years previous to the Revolution, the college having been at that time transferred from the College des Lombards in the Rue des Carmes, in order to allow of more extensive accommodation being given to its increasing numbers.

The history of this foundation is not without interest. The College des Lombards was founded in 1330 by four Italians,—Andreas Chini, a native of Florence, and successively Bishop of Arras and Tournay, after having been Chaplain to Charles the Fair, and ultimately Cardinal; Francisco de l'Hospital, a burgess of Modena, and Chaplain or clerk of the King's Arbaletriers, or crossbow men; Rinaldo Giovanni, burgess of Pistoija, and apothecary at Paris; and Mannel Rolandi of Piacenza, Canon of St. Marcel of Paris,—all four resident at that time in the French capital. Their joint foundation consisted of eleven Bursarships for as many poor scholars, natives of those cities to which the founders owed their births, and who were not to be possessed of more than twenty livres Parisis of yearly revenue. The Bishop of Arras founded four of these Bursarships, the burgess of Modena three, the burgess of Pistoija three, and the Canon of St. Marcel one. The yearly value of each of their bursarships was fourteen florins; and the Bishop added to his gift the liberal donation of the house itself in which he had first established them in the Rue St. Hilaire, afterwards called the Rue des Carmes from the Convent situated at its foot.[a] The name given to this college was "La Maison des Pauvres Ecoliers Italiens de la Charité de la bienheureuse Marie;" and for the government of the society three provisors or directors were appointed, who were three clerks, resident at Paris, one a native of Tuscany, another of Lombardy, and the third of the Campagna di Roma; the chancellor of the cathedral church of Paris and the abbot of St. Victor were also named perpetual visitors and protectors of the college.

It seems, according to Felibien and Lobineau, that various bursarships for Spanish students were afterwards added to this foundation; but we have no very positive information on the subject. The college itself in lapse of time declined, and fell into a state of premature dissolution, so much so that in 1677 two Irish clergymen of distinguished attainments and indefatigable activity, Drs. Patrick Maginn and Malachy Kelly, obtained letters patent from Louis XIV. for appropriating the college to the education of priests for Ireland, and for Catholic missionaries to any part of the three kingdoms. Immediately on these being granted they laid the first stone of a new building, and under their auspices, aided by the liberality of their fellow countrymen, the college rapidly rose to a state of high prosperity.

William Postel lectured for some time in this college, and with so much success, that the hall of the Society was insufficient to accommodate the auditory, and he used accordingly to lecture from one of the windows of the building, while the students and other auditors filled the quadrangle below. In 1763, the number of students of all ranks in this college was 165, and in 1779 the number of priests resident in it was one hundred, of students sixty; most of the latter being supported by bursarships, and the rest paying only a very moderate sum for their maintenance to the Society. The chapel had been built by the Abbé de Vaubrun, after the designs of Bosery; it is a small but elegant erection of the Ionic order; the rest of the edifice is of the same plain and massive style which prevails in all the Parisian colleges of the same date. At this period it was judged advisable to transfer the Society to a more spacious building in the Rue du Cheval-vert; and it was moved accordingly. Upon this occasion all the monumental inscriptions were transported from the old chapel to that in the new buildings, and the ancient edifice was given over, very injudiciously we think, to secular purposes.[b] The College has a country house at Arcueil.

[a] The site f this convent is now occupied by the Marché des Carmes: one side of which is still formed by the College de St. Jean de Beauvais.

[b] The old chapel of the College des Lombards still exists, the property belonging to the present Irish Society; and in the vaults underneath it some inscriptions remain, but they are closed up and are therefore inaccessible.

Both the foundation and the buildings, old and new, have survived the Revolution; all and each are now as flourishing as at the first day of their institution. This is to be attributed to the numbers of Irish ecclesiastical students continually flocking to the continent, and who have naturally fixed themselves at Paris, the seat of so much learning and science, even in the most calamitous periods of its history. The greater part of the property of the Irish College was restored to it by Napoleon, and is now enjoyed by it, subject to the control of the state. The present Society consists of a President (the Rev. Dr. McSweeny) and four Professors, of Dogmatic Theology, Morality, Philosophy, and Humanity, with a bursar.

The number of students is about ninety, by far the major part of whom enjoy good bursarships; while the number of priests sent out by the College every year is about twenty.

We have only to add, that this Institution stands high in the estimation of the Catholic world for the learning of its President and Professors, and for the good services done to religion and learning by the many distinguished men who have been educated within its walls.

The collegiate dress of the members of the Society, the only remnant of such a custom among the old colleges of Paris, is a black cassock, of cloth or serge; and a square-topped Roman cap, without a tassel, but with three rays extending to as many corners of it, the fourth ray being wanting, probably in some allusion to the ecclesiastical value of the trinary number; each member wears at the neck black bands with white borders.

The college itself, and also the chapel, are under the invocation of the Virgin Mary.[e] In the latter, and in its vestibule, are several monumental inscriptions, copies of which will be found below; and most of which were originally placed in the chapel of the College des Lombards. They are all on slabs affixed to the walls.

At the time of the Revolution this edifice did not escape profanation; and even after the reign of terror the votaries of Terpsichore moved on "the light fantastic toe" within the grave walls of this seat of study. It is now the abode of learned and pious men, as it was originally intended to be, but its refectory is always open to the Hibernian ecclesiastical traveller, and the hospitality of the Rev. Principal and Professors towards British visitors of the French capital is well-known and gratefully appreciated.

It is not uninteresting to add, that the body of James II. was brought to this college after the destruction of the English Benedictine monastery adjoining the Val de Grace, and remained for some years in a temporary tomb in one of the lecture halls, then used as the chapel. It was afterwards removed, by whose authority, and to what place, is not exactly known: but it is considered not improbable that it was transported to the church of St. Germain-en-Laye, and there buried, under the monument erected by George IV. [d]

The following inscriptions are exact copies of the originals, most of which are in gold letters on black marble tablets affixed to the walls of the edifice, above the seats of the members of the Society. Nos. 1 to 4 inclusive, are on the south side, reckoning from the east to the west; Nos. 5 to 7 inclusive, are on the north side, reckoning from west to east; the remainder are on the southern side of the entrance door in the vestibule.

MUSTER ROLL FOR THE RAPE OF HASTINGS, 13 EDW. III.

The following Roll of "armed men" is transcribed from a MS. in the College of Arms, marked L. 17, written about the time of King James the First, apparently extracted from a cartulary of Battle Abbey. Being described as taken from "the first book," the cartulary was in all probability that in two volumes, which formerly belonged to the WEBSTERS of Battle Abbey, and was a short time since purchased by Sir Thomas Phillipps, of Middle Hill, Bart. A Commission for an array of men throughout the several counties of England, was issued 13 Edw. III. (1339-40), the country being then threatened with foreign invasion.[a] The writ for the county of Sussex was directed to Robert Bishop of Chichester, John de Warren Earl of Surrey, Richard Earl of Arundel, Henry Husee, Thomas de Brewosa, and Edward de St. John the uncle, who were directed to elect from that county 50 men at arms, 200 armed men, and 200 archers; it is presumed that the following Roll was returned to the Commissioners as containing the names of all the individuals within the Rape of Hastings liable to serve the King in his wars, and that from this number the Commissioners were empowered to choose the quota of men for the Rape, whom the King required for his immediate service.

Any inaccuracies which may occur in the spelling of the names, arise from the MS. having been strictly followed.

ADDITIONS TO DUGDALE'S BARONAGE; FROM THE MS. COLLECTIONS OF FRANCIS TOWNSEND, ESQ. WINDSOR HERALD.

Earl of Arundel and Shrewsbury.—Vol. I. p. 26.

Page 28, line 6, after "Monastery." In the last Heraldic Visitation of Shropshire made by Sir William Dugdale in 1663,[a] it appears that at the east end of the south aisle of the abbey church, Shrewsbury, there remained a large figure of a man in armour of mail and cross-legged, with a surcoat over his mail, close girded to him with a belt, his right hand drawing his sword, and his left holding the scabbard. On his left side a large shield, and at his feet a lion. Upon the wall, over this figure, was the following inscription: "This figure, being found amongst the ancient ruins of the monastery of St. Peter and St. Paul, which was there placed in remembrance of Roger de Montgomery, sometimes Earl of Shrewsbury, was, by directions of his Majesty's Heralds of Arms, in their Visitation of this County a°. 1623, brought into this place, to remain in perpetual memory of the said right noble Founder." [b]

Earls of Chester.—Vol. I. p. 32.

P. 36[b], l. 21, after "County." In the 6th year of King Henry the First, a°. 1106, he and his mother Ermentruda granted to the church of Abingdon that the hide of land which Dru de Audele had given to it, and which was in a place called Udemundesley, should be held by the said church free of all service. And the grant concludes thus: "Hoc autem fecimus testimonio nr̃oꝝ Baronum, scilicet Wiłłi fił Nigelli et Hugonis filii Normanni et Richardi Balaste et Wiłłi filii Anskitilli et Richardi filii Nigelli et Dñi Goisfridi Capellani et aliorum." P. 37, l. 48, after "Mercia." This lady had three husbands; [b] viz. 1st. Yvo Talboys; 2dly, Roger de Romara: and 3dly, this Earl Ranulph.

P. 41, l. 37, Supply the blank with Simon.

P. 45[b], l. 17, after "daughter," insert the deed of Ralph de Hawise, and the King's grant to John de Lacy, viz.

Rannulphus Comes Cestriæ et Lincolniæ, omnibus præsentibus et futuris præsentem cartam inspecturis, vel audituris, salutem in Domino. Ad universitatis vestræ notitiam volo pervenire, me dedisse, concessisse, et hac præsenti carta mea confirmasse, dominæ Hawisiæ de Quency sorori meæ karissimæ, comitatum Lincolniæ, scilicet quantum ad me pertinuit, ut inde Comitissa existat. Habendum et tenendum de domino meo Rege Angliæ et hæredibus suis, eidem Hawisiæ et hæredibus suis liberè, quietè, plenè, pacificè et integrè, jure hæreditario, cum omnibus pertinentiis suis, et cum omnibus libertatibus ad prædictum comitatum pertinentibus. Et ut præsens scriptum perpetuitatis robur optineat, illud sigilli mei appositione roborare dignum duxi. Hiis testibus, venerabilibus patribus P. Winton. et Alexandro Coventr. et Lichff. Episcopis, R. Marescallo Comite Pembr., W. de Ferrariis Comite Derbiæ, Stephano de Segrava Justiciario Angliæ, Simone de Monteforti, W. de Ferrariis, Phil. de Albiniaco, Henrico de Aldith., Willielmo de Cantilupo, et aliis. [c]

Rex, ad instanciam Hawisiæ de Quency, dedit et concessit Johanni de Lascy Constabulario Cestriæ, illas viginti libras, quas R. quondam Comes Cestriæ et Lincolniæ recepit, pro tertio denario comitatus Lincolniæ, nomine comitis Lincolniæ, et quas prædictus comes in vita sua dedit prædictæ Hawisiæ sorori suæ.

[b] Such was the prevailing account until the publication of the History of Lacock Abbey, 8vo. 1835; but in the history of the house of Romara given in that work, it has been shown to be most probable that there were two heiresses named Lucia, the former the daughter of Algar Earl of Chester (and sister to Edgiva Queen of Harold), married to Yvo Tailbois; and the second, his daughter, married first to Robert (not Roger) Fitz Girold, by whom she was mother of William de Romara, Earl of Lincoln, and of Rohais wife of Gilbert de Gant, Earl of Lincoln; and secondly to Ranulph de Bayeux, Earl of Chester, by whom she was mother of Ranulph II. Earl of Chester, and other children mentioned by Dugdale.—EDIT.

I doubt also his first wife's being the Earl of Hereford's daugh-

EARLS OF WARREN AND SURREY.—Vol. I. p. 73.

P. 74, l. 31. Note. This Lady Gundred is called daughter of King William the Conqueror in a great variety of authorities. In the foundation charter of Lewes Priory is this passage: " Donavi pro salute animæ meæ et animæ Gundredæ uxoris meæ et pro anima dñi mei Willielmi Regis qui me in Anglicam terram adduxit, et per cujus licenciam Monachos venire feci, et qui meam priorem donationem confirmavit, et pro salute dominæ meæ Matildis matris uxoris meæ," &c. &c.[f] which certainly proves her the daughter of the Queen who was married to William the Conqueror a°. 1066, and I do not find she had any former husband.

P. 78, l. 3, after " with," add his brother-in-law.

P. 79^b, l. 29. Note. It appears in Placita Parliamenti of 21 Edw. I., that that King had given the lands of Brommesfield cum õibȝ suis pertinentiis to this John to hold to him and his heirs, with all rights and liberties thereunto belonging, as fully and freely as they were held by the former lords before the Conquest of the said lands by the said King. By virtue of which grant he claimed the custody of such lands as belonged to the Bishop of St. Asaph, lying within his said lordship, during the vacancy of that See: but he was answered, that the custody of all lands of all Bishops in the kingdom, during the vacancy of their respective Sees, within whatever lordships or liberties they may be, belonged to the King by reason of his crown and dignity "ut de Jure Coronæ suæ et etiam de communi consuetudine Regni;" and though the King had given him the lands of Brommesfeld, with all appurtenances, it was not to be understood that the King had given him the rights and liberties belonging to his Crown and dignity, and which could not be separated from the Crown.[g]

P. 79. l. 10, after "language," add, he.

P. 80, l. 9, after "Edw. I." add, he.

——— l. 15, after "Scots," add, In the 30th Edw. I. the King granted him the marriage of the heir of Richard Earl of Arundel, whom he accordingly wedded to his grand-daughter Alice, by which marriage this great inheritance afterwards passed to the Fitz Alans.

——— l. 17[b], make a note. Brooke, in his Catalogue of Nobility, says this John Earl Warren married a second wife Joan, daughter of William Lord Mowbray, and that from that marriage the family of Warren of Poynton in Cheshire was descended. This, however, is sufficiently disproved by Vincent in his corrections of that Catalogue, and I only mention it here by way of caveat to that supposed descent, of which I know there are many advocates, but no proofs.

P. 81[b], l. 18, add, In 12 Edw. III. he received orders to raise one hundred lancemen and archers on his territories of Bromfield and Yale.

——— l. 34, after "died," make a note. She (viz. Joan de Bars) did certainly not die till sixteen years after this time, as Dugdale himself states in the following page. Whether a divorce had really taken place on account of her husband having been previously contracted to Maud de Nerford,[h] or whether (as may be thought from his will) he really married Isabel de Houland before the death of the lady in question, will be seen here-

[g] Rot. Parl. vol. i. 93.

[h] Touching the divorce of the Earl from Joan de Bars, upon the pretence of pre-contract to Maud de Neirford, and his subsequent marriage, as also the descent of the Warrens of Poynton, see a note written by Mr. Townsend, and printed in Dallaway's Western Sussex, vol. ii. part i. (Rape of Arundel,) p. 123. See also some interesting and very judicious remarks upon the descent of the Warrens of Poynton in the Retrospective Review, Second Series, vol. ii. p. 527.

C. G. Y.

after; this much is certain, that after the supposed divorce, and the supposed second marriage, Joan de Bars is constantly styled [i] Countess of Warren or Countess of Surrey and Sussex. She is considered as his wife in the inquisition taken after his death, [k] which states him to have died seised of the manor of Bokeland in her right; the register of Lewes names no other wife for him, but takes notice of this lady, and records the time of her death, though she was not buried in England, in these words:—

> "Dña Joña de Baars Comitissa Surr. filia
> Edv̄i Comitis de Baars uxor Joñis ultimi
> Comitis obiit ultimo die mensis Augusti
> A° gr̄æ M CCC LXI. non jacet in Angł." [l]

P. 82, l. 3, after "them," note. This agreement made in the month of June, though the terms were so advantageous to the King, was annulled and cancelled in December following, about six months before his death, upon a representation from the Earl of Arundel that the same honours and lands had been formerly surrendered by the same Earl to King Edward II. and a settlement made thereof by the said King Edward II. upon him the said John de Warren and Joan his wife, and the heirs male of his body, and in case he should die without issue male, remainder after his death and the death of his said wife, to Edmund Earl of Arundel and Alicia his wife deceased, and to Richard son of the said Earl of Arundel and Isabel then wife of the said Richard, and to the heirs of the body of the said Richard and Isabel, and in default of such issue of said Richard and Isabel, remainder to the right heirs of him the said John de Warren, Earl of Surrey. And the Patent states that the King, not being fully instructed as to such settlement made by his father, had accepted the surrender of said honours, &c. to him and his heirs, and settled the same on the said Earl of Surrey to hold to him and the heirs of his body lawfully begotten, and for default of such issue, remainder to the King and his heirs. And being now satisfied therein, and considering that it became him rather to enforce than infringe whatever his father had lawfully settled, he resigns, annuls, and revokes entirely all that he himself had received or done in the premises to the prejudice of the said Earl of Arundel and the settlement made by his said father.

And because, by virtue of the agreement aforesaid, he had granted that the castles, towns, and manors of Coningesbergh and Sandale, and the manors of Wakefield, Thorn, Heytfeld, Souresby, Braythwell, Fysshelak, Dewesbury, and Halifax, with their appurtenances, in the county of York, which the said Earl of Surrey holds to him and the heirs of his body by the grant of King Edward the Second, and which, after the death of the said Earl, if he should die without heirs of his body, will revert to the King and his heirs, should in that case go to Isabella de Holland, daughter of Robert de Holland by Maud his late wife, for the term of her life, with remainder to the King and his heirs,—he now retracts the said grant to the said Isabella de Holland, even though the Earl of Surrey should have attorned the said lands to her in consequence of it. This patent is dated at Eltham, 12th Dec. in the 20th year of King Edward III.,[m] and though written within seven months of the Earl's death, there is not a word in it about Isabella de Holland being his wife. In Originalia, 21 Edw. III. rot. 23, the King commands his escheator to take security of Richard Earl of Arundel, as next heir, for his relief, &c. saving to Joan, widow of the deceased Earl, her reasonable dower;[n] and in another patent, dated 20th June a°. 23 Edw. III.[o] the King, at the instance of Richard Earl of Arundel (who thought the former patent not strong enough) releases all his right in the honours, lands, &c. of the said John de Warren, Earl of Surrey, who was dead, without issue male of his body, to Joan de Barrs, Countess of Surrey, "quæ fuit uxor ejusdem Comitis," for her life, remainder to the said Richard Earl of Arundel and his heirs for ever.[p] And it was not till after the death of the said Joan de Bars, which happened on Sunday in the feast of the decollation of St. John, a°. 35 Edw. No notice is taken of her in any of the inquisitions after his death; but, on the contrary, among those inquisitions, there is a writ from the King to the Chancellor dated at Calays 17 August, a°. 21, commanding him that upon return being made by inquisition of the lands and tenements of John de Warenne "nadgairs Counte de Surr. facez liverer a nr̃e chere cousine Johane de Bar nadgaires la feme du dit Counte tous les terres et tent^ts q̃ a lui apteignent des terres du dit Counte, si bien de son dower comes des terres es queles elle est jointfeffee et en autre maners et terres, &c. &c."

At the end add, The descent of POINTZ will be treated of elsewhere; I shall add here some account of that of VIVOIN. The family was seated in Poitou, and this Hugh, who married the elder coheir of Malet, was steward of Poitou, Aquitaine and Gascony, under King Henry the Third. He had issue by the said Mabel two sons, William and Hugh, and one daughter named after her maternal aunt Helewisa, and married to Walter son of Saher de Wahuli.[t] William the eldest son was called de Fortibus (ob militarem virtutem) and in 32 Hen. III. had leave to go over to Poitou to recover such lands and tenements as ought to descend to him by inheritance from the death of Americ de Vivonia his uncle.[u]. He married Maud de Kyme, sixth daughter and coheir of Sybyl de Ferrars, by whom he had four daughters his coheirs, viz. first, Johan, wife of Reginald FitzPeter: second, Cecilia, wife of John Lord Beauchamp of Hache; third, Sybyl, wife of Guy de Roche-Chiward; and fourth, Mabel, wife of Foulk de Archiaco.

Hugh de Vivonia, second son of Hugh by Mabel Malet, held the manor of Sellinge in Kent, which he obtained (as I conjecture) with his wife Petronilla, daughter of William de Putot: he was slain in Wales, and left issue by his said wife a son, named John de Vivonia, who died a°. 8 Edw. [a] The following is a transcript from the Visitation of Salop, (C 35.) of the inscriptions alluded to, at Whitchurch, co. Salop :—

In the south wall of this chancell is an arch, wherein lies the figure of John Talbot (the first Earle of Shrewsbury of that family) in armour, over which is his mantle of the Order of the Garter, verged round with foure welts, having on the left shoulder thereof St. George his crosse within a garter; and about his left legg the garter ; the motto whereof beginneth at the labell. Upon his head is a coronet, the flowres and pearles whereof are raysed in this sort. (The MS. has a representation of the coronet.)

In the upper part of this arch there was a brasse plate, whereon this epitaph was graven :

"Orate pro anima prenobilis domini, domini Johannis Talbot quondam comitis Salopie, domini Talbot, d'ni de Furnivall, domini Verdon, domini Strange de Blackmere, et Marescalli Francie ; qui obiit in bello apud Burdews xvij° die Julii a°. D'ni Milesimo CCCC liij°."

In a manuscript booke, now in the hands of the parish-clarke, wherein 15° Julii a°. 1598 some extracts out of the old church register are entred, is this epitaph also to be seene ; which was heretofore written (as I guesse) on some tablet hanging neere this tombe, viz.

"Here lyeth the right noble Knight John Talbot, Earle of Shrewsbury, Earle of Washford, Waterford, and Valence ; Lord Talbot of Goodrich and Urchinfeild ;

P. 334, l. 52, after "her," add, who after his death married to Sir Thomas Holcroft.

——— l. 55, after "Mary," add, first to Thomas Holcroft, Esq. son of the above Sir Thomas, and secondly to Sir William Airmine.

P. 334b, l. 34, after "Arundell," add, the Countess of Pembroke and Kent dying without issue, the Lady Alathea became sole representative and heir, carrying with her into the Howard family all the ancient Baronies which were vested in her father; the successor in the Earldom taking only those dignities which were limited to heirs male in the original letters patent by which they were created. I make this remark, because Collins, Edmondson, and other writers upon the Peerage, have erroneously ascribed to the subsequent Earls all the Baronies by writ that were attributed to the father of the Lady Alathea; in some of which he himself had only a share, as may be seen under the respective titles.

M CCCC liij°."

Upon the north side of this chancell, in an arch like the former, is the figure of Sir John Talbot, preist, cut in freestone, in his canonical habit with furrs. He was Rector both of Whitchurch and Bangor, and gave the first money towards the advancing of the free-schoole here at Whitchurch.

There are also drawings of divers coats (alliances of Talbot) depicted on an old alabaster tomb, whereon was the figure of a woman without any epitaph.

TATESHALL.—Vol. I. p. 439.

P. 440, l. 27, insert as a note on, "Amabill, the eldest of the four daughters and heirs of William, the fourth of that name, Earl of Arundell." This is not strictly correct. William the fourth Earl had issue two sons, viz. William the fifth of that name, who succeeded him in the dignity, and who dying in a°. 8 Hen. III. was succeeded by his brother Hugh. It was upon the death of Earl Hugh in 27 Edw. III. that the inheritance was divided. Mabel, or, as Dugdale calls her, Amabill, was then dead, and her son Robert de Tateshale is described in the partition "primogenitus hæres;" yet it is remarkable that Arundel Castle was not assigned to him, but to John Fitz Alan, a minor in ward to the King, son of one of the younger sisters.

——— from line 63 to 69, is all a mistake. The lady there described was not the wife of that Robert de Tateshall, but of his son, as is correctly stated in the next column. I am sorry I cannot furnish a wife to supply the place of the lady whom I have transferred to his son.

P. 440b, l. 38, after "sisters," note. These ladies were his aunts, not his sisters, which is thus proved by inquisition p. m. of the minor, wherein they are expressly called sisters of his grandfather, and also by Esc. 18 Ric. II. no. 34, after the death of Mary Lady Roos of Hamlake, great-granddaughter of Isabel de Orreby.

——— l. 47, after "Cove," add. I do not find any other authority for this marriage with Cove; on the contrary, at her death, a°. 24 Edw. III. she is described only as the widow of Tateshale. g

P. 441, l. 7, add. The Barony of Tateshall was a Barony by tenure, and ranks amongst the oldest. The earliest writ of summons is of the 23rd of Edw. I. but it is not therefore to be concluded that they were not Peers of Parliament before that time; the notorious defect of Parliamentary Records forbids such a conclusion. The Baron to whom the first writ issued, had then been more than twenty years at the head of the family; he continued to be summoned till the year in which he died, which was 26 Edw. I.; his son, who succeeded him, was summoned the 27th, and from that to the 30th, but dying in the 31st, and leaving only one son, of the age of fifteen, who died in his minority without issue, the male line became extinct. It is remarkable that in the famous letter of the Barons to the Pope in 28 Edw. I. where each appears to describe himself by the title of his Barony, Robert Tateshale writes, "Robertus de Tatteshale Dominus de Bukenham;" yet in the inquisition after his death it is found that he held Tateshale and other lands "per Baroniam integram," and Bukenham and others "per servitium Pincernæ."

Upon the death of the minor, the Barony fell into abeyance amongst the three coheirs abovenamed, and upon partition of the lands each of them inherited a third of the Barony of Tateshale; a third of a fourth of the Earldom of Arundel, and a third of a fourth of the Earldom of Chester. Of these coheirs Thomas de Cayley and John de Orreby were both summoned to Parliament in the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th of King Edw. II. but not afterwards, although Cayley lived till the 10th, and Orreby till the 11th Edw. II. It is probable that both Cayley and Orreby were called to Parliament in consequence of this connexion, but there is nothing allusive thereto in any of the writs. Orreby's issue became extinct in 18 Ric. II. Driby's issue in the third generation terminated in a sole heiress married to Sir Ralph de Cromwell, who did homage for the lands of her inheritance a°. 35 Edw. III. and was summoned to Parliament a°. 40. (See CROMWELL of Tatteshall, page 149.)

Columbers.—Vol. I. p. 632.

The single summons of 22 Edw. I. to John de Columbers, since it was not followed by any others, though he lived till the 34th, I do not consider as creating a Barony in him; Philip his son was twenty-four years old when John died, but had no writ till nine years after, viz. a°. 8 Edw. II. from which time to his death in the 22nd of Edw. III. he was regularly summoned to every Parliament, probably by reason of his having married Eleanor, one of the sisters and coheirs of William Martin; but, as he died without issue, the Barony created in him by those writs became extinct. It seems not necessary to the object of this work to take particular notice of such collateral branches of the families of Barons as are not in the line of inheritance of the dignity. I shall therefore only say that I find that Michael de Columbers, who in a°. 9 Joh. gave 200 marks to the King for license to marry Avice, the daughter of Elias Croc (and was probably brother of that Mathew who was one of the governors of Winchester castle in 1 John) was the father of Mathew who married Maud de Morvill—that Avice, the widow of Michael, died in 43 Hen. III.[o] leaving Mathew her son and heir forty years old: that the said Mathew died in 1 Edw. I. without issue by the said Maud de Morvill, leaving the said Michael his brother and heir, sixty years old; that Maud, the widow of Mathew, married Henry de Cobham—that Michael de Cobham, as brother and heir of Mathew, and with the consent of Maud, gave to John de Cobham, the father of Henry, the manors of Brentknoll, Hinton, and Pipardsclive, in the county of Somerset, and that the said John settled the manor of Chesbury in Wilts upon Maud and his son.[p]

Earldom of Devon.—Vol. I. p. 635.

Upon the death of Isabella de Fortibus, which happened a°. 21 Edw. I. (1293), the Earldom of Devon devolved upon Hugh de Courtenay her cousin. He demanded and received the tertium denarium, but did not assume or use the title of Earl, but was summoned to Parliament regularly as a Baron, by the style of Hugo de Courtenay, from 27 Edw. I. to 8 Edw. III.[q] The Treasurer and Barons of the Exchequer at length refused to pay him, as he did not claim it nomine comitis. Upon this he petitioned the King, and the King ordered that he should take the title and receive the money, and from this time (9 Edw. III.) he is regularly summoned as Earl of Devon.[r]

CROMWELL OF TATTESHALL.—Vol. II. p. 44.

P. 44b, l. 34, after "Dudley," note. This is not a correct description. Her father Roger de Somery, Baron of Dudley, had two wives; first, Nicola, one of the four sisters and coheirs of Hugh de Albini, Earl of Arundel; second Amabel, daughter of Robert de Chaucombe. By the first he had only four daughters, Margaret being one of them, and by the second a son, Roger, who became Baron of Dudley, and left a son John Lord Dudley, and two daughters, who, by their brother's death without issue, became coheirs of the Barony of Dudley. Margaret should therefore be described as one of the four daughters by his first wife of Roger de Somery, Baron of Dudley and coheir of her mother Nicola, who was one of the four sisters and coheirs of Hugh de Albini, Earl of Arundel. By which marriage the Cromwells inherited a fourth of a fourth of the Earldom of Arundel with a fourth of a fourth of a fourth of that of Chester. This is the language of record rather than history, but it is adapted to the subject.

P. 44[b], l. 49 to p. 45, l. 49. This long account of John de Cromwell is here misplaced: he was certainly not a lineal ancestor of the Lords Cromwell of Tateshale, as the descent of the town of Lamley in Nottinghamshire clearly proves. In Testa de Nevill it appears that Ralph de Cromwell held "totam villam de Lameleg de honore de Tykehill, et reddit per annum, 40[li]."[s] In 17 Edw. I. Dñs Rađus de Cromwell presentat ad Ecclesiam de Lamley.[t] In the 24 Edw. I. a patent passed the Great Seal quod Rađus de Cromwell possit facere quandam trencheam in bosco suo de Lamley.[u] In 7 Edw. III. a patent passed to Ralph de Cromwell (son of the last) quod possit assartare et includere parvo fossato et bassa haia triginta acras vasti in solo suo apud Lamley;[x] and this Ralph I take to be the son and heir of that Ralph whom Dugdale makes father of John, and who by inquisition p. m. 27 Edw. I. is stated to have died in that year, leaving Ralph his son and heir a minor only seven years of age, who afterwards married Amicia, daughter of Roger de Bellers, which Roger died a[o]. 19 Edw. II. leaving Roger his son and heir seven years old, upon the extinction of whose issue (in the person of Robert Swillington) a[o]. 8 Hen. V. the said Maud a moiety of the Barony of Marmion through her mother Joan, one of the two daughters and coheirs of John Lord Marmion summoned to Parliament from 22 Edw. I. to 9 Edw. III.

P. 45[a]. In the fine Roll of 21 Ric. II. termino Paschæ, it is noted that Robert de Tateshale, ancestor of Maud wife of Sir Ralph Cromwell, was charged with 102*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* viz. 100 marks for the manors of Babinglee, Denton, Tybenham, co. Norfolk, Tateshale St. Botolph, and Candesby, co. Lincoln, which said Robert held of the King in chief "per Baroniam integram secundum tenore Magnæ Cartæ," and 100 shillings for the manor of Toft and for one knight's fee, which was originally held of Gilbert de Gaunt, who afterwards gave all his fees to the King; also 25 shillings for the castle and manor of Bokenham, the manor of Wymundham, and the hundred of Shropham and Fretherbridge, in county of Norfolk, together with certain other lands there, which Robert his father had in property of the inheritance of the late Earl of Arundel. It is also further noted, that said Robert the father acknowledged to hold the manor of Hunmanby, co. York, of the King in chief. And it is also further noted that Wymundham and Bokenham are held of the King in chief "per servitium Pincernæ."

P. 46, l. 27. This is not correct. He had an only sister named Maud, second wife of Sir Richard Stanhope, Knt. by whom she had a son named Henry, who died without issue a°. 31 Hen. VI., and two daughters Maud and Joan, who became heirs to their uncle.[z] Maud married first to Robert Lord Willoughby of Eresby, secondly to Sir Thomas Neville, and thirdly to Sir Gervase Clifton, but had no issue by either. Joan married to Humphrey Bourchier, a younger son of the Earl of Essex and nephew to King Edward the Fourth, who was pleased to terminate the abeyance of this Barony in his favour, and summon him to the house of Peers by the title of Humphrey Bourghchier de Cromwell, chev[r]. He died without surviving issue, and his widow became the wife of Sir Robert Radcliffe, who also had no issue by her. Maud Lady Willoughby, the last survivor of the two, died in 1497; and then the descendants of the three aunts, named in the text, became heirs; and amongst them the dignity now remains in abeyance. The representatives of Hawise Lady Bardolph are the Earl of Abingdon and Thomas [z] L. Coll. R. Glover, Somerset.

Stapleton of Carleton, Esq.[a] I cannot with equal precision point out the present representatives of the other two: but in 1666 Sir Godfrey Copley, Bart. and in 1699 Sir Philip Knyvet, Bart. were the heirs of Maud Fitz-William and Elizabeth Clifton.

BAVENT.—Vol. II. p. 64.

Sir William Dugdale has certainly mistaken the line of Bavent, in the account he has here given. He says, that Robert Bavent was summoned to Parliament in the 6th and 7th of Edward II. and takes no notice of any future summons either to him or his posterity. Upon referring to the writs of summons it appears that Roger, not Robert Bavent was so summoned, and that the same Roger was also further summoned with great regularity till the 15th of Edw. II. when all his possessions were seised into the King's hands as forfeited by his having been one of the adherents to the unfortunate Earl of Lancaster. His life, however, was spared, and he was included in the general restoration which took place on the accession of the succeeding monarch.[b]

This Roger was a minor at the death of his father Adam de Bavent, and his wardship was disputed between the King and William de Say a°. 21 Edw. I.[c] It appears that he was still a minor in the 35th of the same reign, when Geoffry de Say, son and heir of the abovementioned William, reasserted his claim to the wardship,[d] and offered to rest the proof of his right upon a scrutiny of the books and rolls of the Exchequer, and the testimony of the keeper of Dover Castle. This controversy is stated more at large under the Barony of MAMINOT. In the 1st of Edw. III. he was found to be one of the heirs of John Lord Gifford of Brimmesfield, viz. son of Alice (wife of Adam de Bavent) daughter of Peter Scudamore son of Maud (wife of Godfrey Scudamore) one of the aunts of John the last Lord Gifford of Brimmesfield.

He was summoned to Parliament in the 6th, 7th, and 8th of Edw. III. but not afterwards, and I am inclined to think he died about this time. I have not been able to meet with any inquisition post mortem or other record that directly proves the fact, but my conjecture is strengthened, if not confirmed, by a grant (in the 31st Edward III. from the King to Peter de Brewes and Joan his wife, of certain lands in Witneston, Asshehurst, &c. in Sussex, which the record says, "habuimus ex dono et feoffamento Rogeri Bavent le fitz." [d] Be this, however, as it may, it is certain that in the 13th of Edw. III. Roger Bavent conveyed his manor of Norton-Scudamore and other lands in the county of Wilts for term of the life of Hawisia his wife to Simon Bishop of Ely and William de Langley, parson of the church of Ringwood, who in return bound themselves ad inveniendum predictæ Hawisiæ et pueris suis" sufficient sustenance according to the value of the said lands; and, notwithstanding that the Bishop and parson fulfilled their engagements (as the record says) in such a manner as that neither she, her children, nor her husband, nor any other person ever complained, from the 10th of March a°. 13 to the Monday next before the feast of St. Margaret the Virgin in the 18th of Edw. III., they were on the latter day disseised of the said manor, &c. by the said Roger and one William de Kelleseye. [e]

On the 1st July in the same year he conveyed to the King his manors of Walterstone in Ewyas, and Colmanstone in Wales; his manors of Norton, Billye, Withihill, Fiffhide, and Trowe, in Wilts and Dorset; his lordship and lands of Puttefold and Hattesham in Surrey; his manors of Shibburn and Halling in Kent; 40 pounds rent out of the manor of Braundeston in Suffolk; the manors of Wilstanston, Inyngham, Asshehurst, and Hene in Sussex; the reversion of the manor of Coumbes in Suffolk after the death of Robert Hovel, who then held it for life; and also all his other lands and tenements in England and Wales which he then held in demesne, or which might come to him by right of inheritance; with the exception only of the manors of Chiltington and Sloghtree in the county of Sussex. [f]

This conveyance appears to have been made only for the purpose of making the King his heir; for soon after, the lands were regranted to him for his life. He died on the 23rd of April a°. 29 Edw. III. not holding any lands in chief of the King, "eo quod diu ante mortem suam alienavit Dño Regi nunc," &c. John Bavent was found to be his son and heir twenty years old and upwards.[g] Hawisia his wife survived him, and was living his widow in the 35th of Edw. III.

A pedigree among Vincent's heraldic collections in the College of Arms, which I see no reason to question, states this John to have died without issue; and says that Eleanor, wife of William de Brewose (a younger son of William Lord Brewose of Brembre) was his sister and heir. From this Eleanor descended Beatrix de Brewse (daughter of Peter,[h] son of John, son of the said Eleanor) who, by death of her brother Sir John Brewes, Knt. without issue, became heir of this line. She married Sir Hugh Shirley, who was Master of the Hounds to King Henry the Fourth, and was slain, fighting on his part at the battle of Shrewsbury.

The present Marquess Townshend (1808) is her heir and representative.

I am of opinion that the first Nicholas St. Maur was summoned to Parliament by reason of his marriage with the eldest of the two daughters and coheirs of the Lord Zouche of Ashby, as was also (in my opinion) Robert de Holand by reason of his marriage with the other daughter and coheir. Lord Zouche died a°. 7 Edw. II. and both St. Maur and Holand were summoned for the first time the next year following his death; and what confirms me in that opinion is, that Thomas St. Maur, the son and heir of Nicholas by his first wife, and who, if the dignity had been of his father's inheritance would no doubt have been summoned when he came of age, though he survived his father upwards of forty years, was never summoned at all. It is true that Nicholas, the son of the second wife was not summoned till 25 Edw. III. though he must have been of full age long before; but this tends, I think, rather to confirm than confute my opinion, because his mother was alive during all that period, and that which was her inheritance, though it might be enjoyed by her husband during his life, could not pass to her son till her death.

VIII., when the error appears to have been rectified.

At p. 392 (of Longmate) line 12, after "Berkeley," make a long note thus:

I think it proper here to revert to the period of the death of Thomas Lord Lawarre, great-uncle to this Thomas, in 1554, for the purpose of offering a few observations upon this new creation of the title in William, and the restoration, as it is called, of the son of William to the ancient place and precedency of his ancestors. The precise date of this new creation is no where mentioned with certainty. I have never seen any letters patent for it, and am of opinion that none ever passed; William was summoned to Parliament for the first time in a°. 13 Eliz. 1571, and placed as the junior Baron, and during the remainder of his life, more than twenty-five years, continued to be ranked according to that date; an undeniable proof that he was considered as holding his dignity by a new creation, and not as the right heir of the ancient Barony: neither was he the right heir according to any of the known rules that govern the descent of Baronies by writ. According to those rules the Barony fell into abeyance at the death of his uncle in 1554, and was in the same state at the moment when the ancient place was adjudged to the son of William. William was certainly heir male to his uncle, and he is expressly so described in the Act of Restitution, but he was not heir general, and therefore I am at a loss to discover the principle upon which that judgment rested which gave the rank of the ancient Barony to a person who could not pretend to be the legal representative of the ancient Barons. I shall endeavour to explain the exact situation of the ancient Barony at the time of the death of Thomas in 1554, and I think I cannot do this more intelligibly than by copying a Case drawn up (in a°. 9 Eliz. four years previous to the new creation) by Sir Adrian Poynings, whose issue in right of his wife had, as he thought, fair pretensions to the dignity.

The Heralds of that day, however, were of a different opinion; but I shall leave them to speak for themselves, premising only, if the reader should discover that in that statement some of the children of Thomas the father are omitted, that it was not necessary for the purpose of obtaining an official opinion upon the question to insert more than are there taken notice of.

Here copy the case of Sir Andrew Poynings.[y]

The issue of the marriage with Sir Andrew Poynings was three daughters and coheirs, Elizabeth, Anne, and Mary.

Aucher Fitz-Henry (not in Dugdale).

Aucher Fitz-Henry had married Joan, one of the two daughters and coheirs of John de Bella-aqua by Laderina his wife, one of the four sisters and coheirs of Peter de Brus of Skelton; and in right of this marriage he possessed[a] one eighth part of the Barony of Brus of Skelton, one eighth and one third of another Barony which was attached to that of Brus, and one eighth of the moiety of the Barony of Lancaster, after the death of the mother of the said Peter de Brus. He was summoned to Parliament from 2 to 19 Edw. II.[b] In 5 Edw. II. he paid 40*s.* for his relief of the bailiwick of Waltham forest descended to him from his father, and in 6 Edw. II. 15*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.* for his relief of the lands of his said wife. He died about 13 Edw. III. and Henry his son was found to be next heir of both father and mother, and 40 years old.[c] This Henry in the same year settled lands in Fobbing and Stanford, in Essex, upon himself and Beatrice his wife, their heirs and assigns for ever. In 16 Edw. III. he paid the same sum of 15*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.* for relief of the lands of his mother.[d] In 18 Edw. III. he enfeoffed Richard de Depeden in four bovates of land in East Brune, and of the manor of Thorpe Arches, co. York, with reversion to himself and his heirs. When he died I do not find; but the family of Cloville, of Haningfield in Essex, claimed to derive their descent from Joan his sister and heir.[e] This family continued flourishing in that neighbourhood at the last Heraldic Visitation of the County in 1664; and, though the male line may possibly be extinct, there is no doubt issue from several of the female branches; the Bramstons of Boreham are so descended.[f] utterly extinct; the heirs of the person first summoned were the issue of his aunt.

BARONY divided. SHIPBROOKE.[g]

Warin le Vernon was seised of the entire Barony of Shipbrooke, and held it during his lifetime—he left three daughters lawfully begotten, who all three married and had issue. But the said Warin had a brother who survived him, named Ralph, who was Rector of the church of Kegworth. This Ralph, on the death of his brother, entered into and took possession of the Barony. The husbands of the three daughters with their wives purchased a writ of the King, and for a long while maintained a suit against the uncle. At length it was agreed between them that the inheritance of the said Barony should be divided into two parts, whereof one part should remain to said Ralph and his heirs for ever, with the capital manor of Shipbrooke, performing rent, service, and suit to the Earl of Chester, with all other services belonging to the said Warin; and the said Ralph accordingly did perform all said services during his life, and he enfeoffed Ralph his son, and his heirs for ever; who have performed and do perform all said services. And the other half of the said Barony, with the capital manor of Leftwich, should remain to the said three husbands and their wives, with a certain salina (saltwork) in the town of Northwich, called the Juggershouse, "in emendatione, eo quod facient sect. Curie de Northwiche faciend impp̃m redd. servic. et sect. Comit. Cestr. hundred de Northwiche et Curie de Northwiche," and all other services belonging to the said manor of Leftewiche, &c. &c.

REGISTER OF MARRIAGES, IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

From the title prefixed to the earliest existing Register of the Co legiate Church of St. Peter, Westminster, it may be inferred that the former registers disappeared during the distraction of the Commonwealth, as the "Weddings, Christenings, and Burials," are said to be "such as can be found in imperfect books, and such as have been carefully taken entries of since the happy Restoration." The following entries refer to Marriages solemnized between 1655 and 1705. Those of a period anterior to the Restoration occur only in the years 1655 and 1656. They are transcribed from a MS. of the Miscellaneous Collection of the College of Arms, which contains also the Christenings and Burials. In the same volume are extracts from the Registers of St. Margaret's, Westminster; St. Clement's Danes without Temple Bar; and St. Giles, Cripplegate.

The Register of the Collegiate Church of Westminster of Weddings, Christenings, and Burials, such as could be found in imperfect books, and such as have been carefully taken notice of since the happy Restoration of his Majestye King Charles II., by Philip Tynchare, Minister of the said church. Memorandum. Mr. John Pelling, Batchellor of Divinity, Parson of Trowbridg and Bath, a worthy reverend preacher of the word of God, and Chaplayn to the King's Maiesty, was buried in the new church of Bath aforesaid on the north side of the Bishop's Tumbe, close to the grave, the nineteenth day of February 1620 (21). [a]

[a] John Pelling, of Magdalen College, Oxford, B.A. 1583, B.D. 1597, was instituted to the rectory of Bath in 1590, and to the rectory of Trowbridge in 1595, to which latter he was presented by Edward Earl of Hertford. He was buried in the abbey church at Bath, which had been recently restored from a state of almost utter ruin by the beneficence of Bishop Montague, and many other individuals, who had been instigated to the pious work by Mr. Pelling. His grave is in the north aisle of the nave near to Bishop Montague's tomb; and to shew the respect of the city for his serviees, the Corporation in 1621 erected a monument to his memory against the north wall. This monument, which contained a bust of the deceased within an oval stone frame, something in the style of Shakspeare's monument at Stratford, has been, within the last three or four years, most sacrilegiously destroyed, with a number of others of ancient date. Some of the inscriptions have been preserved, and among the rest the following to the memory of Mr. Pelling:—

"Reverendo Johanni Pellingo, in Sacrâ Theologiâ Baccalaureo, qui tredecim annos huic præfuit Ecclesiæ, Dicatum:
(non mihi sed Ecclesiæ)
Lector, habes stantem Pellingum ambone loquentem;
Et tamen hic situs est, hic jacet ille loquens.
Scilicet urbis amor soluit, sic stare loquentûm,
Quod jacet hic, orbis, quod tacet, esto dolor.
Alter erat Solomon, nam quod consumpserat annos,
Ille parando Dei, hic tot reparando domum;
Cujus et exemplo, verbo, conamine, curâ,
Hujus, qui novus est, emicat ædis honos,
Per quem sic claves, per quem sic mucro refulget,
Petre, tuum meritum, Paule, teneto tuum.

THE EARLDOM OF GLAMORGAN.

Addendum for Dugdale.

Amongst the titles attributed to Edward Somerset, second Marquis of Worcester, and subsequently to the Dukes of Beaufort, are those of "Earl of Glamorgan, Viscount Grosmont and Baron Beaufort of Caldecot," of which Dugdale does not take any notice. Collins, in his account of the Dukes of Beaufort, when speaking of Edward second Marquis of Worcester, who succeeded to that dignity in 1646, following the statement of Sandford in his History (page 357), says, "he was by King Charles constituted Lord Lieutenant of North Wales, who directed several letters to this Edward in the lifetime of his father, by the title of Earl of Glamorgan, which title he usually bore, there then remaining in the Signet Office a bill under the Royal Sign Manual at Oxford (if a patent did not pass the Great Seal thereupon) in order to his being created Earl of Glamorgan and Baron Beaufort, of Caldecot Castle, in the county of Monmouth."[a] Sir Harris Nicolas, however, in his Synopsis of the Peerage, under the title of "Glamorgan," after remarking that these Dignities are generally considered to have been created by King Charles the First in the year 1644, adds, "but great doubt exists whether the patent ever passed the Great Seal." Dugdale takes no notice of any such creation, whilst Beatson says the patent was cancelled in 1660, and Dale, in his Catalogue of Nobility, does not attribute these titles to the Duke of Beaufort, the descendant of the said Edward in 1697. The authority on which the titles in question appear to have been assigned to the Dukes of Beaufort, is the circumstance of Charles the First having directed several letters to Edward Somerset, above mentioned, by the title of Earl of Glamorgan; and, in a Commission, no less remarkable than illegal, dated in 1644,[b] granting him power to fill up certain blank patents of creation to every dignity from a Marquis to a Baronet, he is styled, "Edward Somerset, alias Plantagenet, Lord Herbert, Baron Beaufort of Caldecote, Grismond, Chepstow, Ragland, and Gower, Earl of Glamorgan, son and heir apparent of our entirely beloved cousin Henry Earl and Marquis of Worcester;" which patent was, in consequence of a motion in the House of Lords after the Restoration, delivered up, from its being deemed "in prejudice to the Peers;" and which is probably the cause of Beatson's statement, "that the patent of creation to the dignities of Earl of Glamorgan and Baron Beaufort was cancelled in 1660."[c]

[m] John Gilmore was presented by the Dean and Chapter of Windsor, ten years later, in 1789 Institutions.—Edit.

[b] Ibid. p. 75, where the Commission is printed; as also in Nicolas's History of the British Orders of Knighthood. Appendix to the order of the Garter, xlvi.

[c] Lords' Journals. The subject was brought before Parliament by the Marquis of Hertford 18 Aug. 1661, as "a patent granted to the Marquis of Worcester, which is a prejudice to the Peers;" and the Marquis of Dorchester, on the 23rd, reported, that the Marquis of Worcester confessed to their Lordships that a patent was made and left in his hands by the King to create him Duke of Somerset, upon certain conditions, which were never yet performed; that he hath made no use of it: that the said patent was in the hands of his son the Lord Herbert, and that his Lordship was willing to deliver it up to his Majesty. On the 3rd September Lord Arundell of Wardour acquainted the House, that the Marquis of Worcester had delivered up the patent to his Majesty for the Dukedom of Somerset.

The discussion upon this patent probably gave rise to the introduction of a bill, which was read a first time on the 5th September, entitled, an Act for preventing inconveniences which may arise by patents and grants made, or pretended to be made, during the late troubles; which passed the House on the following day, and was sent to the Commons, together with a bill for restoring the Marquis of Hertford to the Dukedom of Somerset. On the 8th, the bill not having been re-

The editor of the Synopsis further remarks, that "another Dignity attributed to the Dukes of Beaufort, is the Viscountcy of Grosmont," but adds, it has baffled his research to discover the source whence that title is derived. Dale takes no notice of any such dignity; and the only trace of a title at all similar is that recited in the Commission just noticed, wherein he is styled Baron Beaufort, of Caldecot, Grismond, Chepstow, Ragland, and Gower." [d]

It is singular that such doubt and obscurity should exist respecting the grant of the Earldom of Glamorgan to a member of so distinguished a family. On reference to the original Docquet Book of grants made by King Charles at Oxford, commencing in December, in the 18th year of his reign, 1642, and ending in June 1646,[e] no notice whatever occurs of the grant of such a patent among the numerous grants of Dignities which are there recorded. If the patent passed, it was in all probability between the 16th April 1643, when a commission was issued to him, in which he is called "Edward Lord Herbert, son and heir to the Lord Marquis of Worcester," [f] and the 1st April 1644, when he is styled "Edward Somerset, alias Plantagenet, Lord Herbert, Baron Beaufort of Caldecote, Grismond, Chepstow, Ragland, and Gower, Earl of Glamorgan," in the before mentioned commission bearing that date.

Among the docquets recorded in the office of the clerk of the patents there is a protection royal granted to him, dated on the 13th November 1645, wherein he is called "Edward Lord Herbert Earl of Glamorgan," [g] and in a message to Parliament from King Charles, under his sign manual, and dated at Oxford 29 January following, disclaiming any knowledge of the Earl of Glamorgan's treaty with the rebels in Ireland, wherewith he was charged and arrested upon suspicion of high treason, he is spoken of by that title. The message is entered at length turned, a message was sent to remind the Commons, and on the 10th a message was sent from the Commons to acquaint their Lordships that the bill had been twice read, and stood committed. The bill of restoring the Dukedom of Somerset to the Marquisate of Hertford passed, and received the royal assent on the 13th; but no further notice appears respecting the other.

upon the Journals,[h] where also, on the 10th February following, there is an entry stating that certain letters were read, which were by Captain Moulton, Admiral of the Irish seas, taken and sent up, wherein was divers letters, and the copy of the articles which the Earl of Glamorgan made with the Irish for sending over ten thousand Irish; and a particular letter of the pretended Earl of Morgan (sic) to his lady in England, shewing how kindly he is used by the Lord Ormond and the council there, he being accused by the Lord George Digby of high treason.[i]

On the 1st October 1646, there is an order upon the Lords Journal that a pass be granted to the Lady Herbert, Countess of Glamorgan, into Ireland with thirty of her menial servants,[k] &c.

That he was considered Earl of Glamorgan after the Restoration seems evident from a royal warrant under the sign manual of King Charles the Second on 6th April 1661, wherein his Majesty, after reciting the descent of John (Granville) Earl of Bath, declares "that in case the Earldom of Glamorgan should at any time fall into the hands of the Crown during our reign for want of heirs male of the present Marquess by his Lady now living, as we are informed the same is settled by our Royal Father, of blessed memory, we will not again confer the said Earldom upon any other family, but restore the same to that of the Granvilles, by creating the said present Earl of Bath, also Earl of Glamorgan."[l]

CHARLES R.

Whereas it appears unto us, that our right trusty and right welbeloved Cousin John Earl of Bathe, Our Grome of the Stole, and First Gentleman of Our Bedchamber, derives his title in a direct line as heir male unto Robert Fitzhamon, Lord of Gloucester and Glamorgan, in the raignes of King William the Conqueror, King William Rufus, and King Henry the First, and who was the son and heir of the Lord Hamon dentatus Earl of Corboile, and Lord of Thorigny and Granville in Normandy, whereby he justly claims his descent from the younger son, as we Our Self do from the eldest of Rollo the first Duke of Normandy, Our com'on ancestor. In considerac'on whercof, and of the many eminent services performed unto Us by the said Earl, We are graciously pleased to promise and declare, That in case the Earldom of Glamorgan should at any time fall into the hands of the Crown, during our reigne, for want of heirs males of the present Marquess by his Lady now living, as We are informed the same is setled by Our Royal Father of

From the expression "heirs male of the present Marquis by his Lady now living, as we are informed the same is settled by our royal father;" it would seem that the limitation of the patent was to the heirs male of his body by his second wife, Margaret, second daughter of Henry O'Brien, Earl of Thomond, who died without surviving issue 26 July 1681.[m] The Marquis died 3 April 1667, and was buried with great funeral solemnity at Ragland on the 19th of the same month. In the funeral certificate recorded in the College of Arms and attested by his son and successor, the Earldom of Glamorgan is attributed to him with his other titles. Henry, his only son, third Marquis of Worcester, was installed Knight of the Garter in 1672; but the titles in question are not introduced upon his blessed memory, We will not again conferr the said Earldome upon any other family, but restore the same to that of the Granvilles, by creating the said present Earle of Bathe also Earl of Glamorgan, to remain to him and his heires males, and for default of such issue, to the heirs males of Sir Bevill Granville his father. And we are further graciously pleased, for the considerations aforesaid, to allow and permit the said Earle of Bathe to use also those other titles of Hono^r, as Earle of Corboile, Thorigny, and Granville, as was formerly done by his ancestors. And though the same hath been discontinued of late by some of his late ancestors, yet we do hereby give full power and authority to the said Earle of Bathe, not only for himself and his posterity to use the same, but in case he shall hereafter erect in memory of his father, or any other his famous ancestors any monument or inscription concerning him or them, to use the name, stile, and dignity of Earl of Corboile, Thorigny, and Granville, in as full and ample manner as his said ancestors formerly used before Normandy was lost from the Crown of England. The said loyal family of the Granvilles being then also sufferers with the Crown, and then dispossessed for their loyalty out of their said inheritance of the said Earldom and Lordships within Our said antient Dutchy of Normandy: Whereof we have thought fitt at this time to make this declaration of Our Royal will and pleasure, aswell in justice towards a family so noble and antient by birth, and so eminently deserving for their virtue and loyalty to Our Self and Our Royal ancestors from the Conquest unto this present day; as also for a perpetual example and encouragement to others to imitate the same, com'anding all persons whatsoever who are and may be concerned to take notice hereof. Given at our Court at Whitehal this twenty-sixth day of April in the thirteenth year of our reign, Annoq; D'ni 1661. By His Maties Command,

EDW. NICHOLAS.

[m] The issue by her was an only daughter Mary, who died in infancy. Upon the death of her husband the Marchioness remarried Donough O'Kearney, Esq. who administered to her effects 31 May 1682.

The Marquis's first wife, the mother of his successor, was Elizabeth daughter of Sir William Dormer. She died in 1635.

stall plate at Windsor,[n] nor do they appear upon the magnificent monument erected to his memory at Ragland.[o]

John Earl of Bath, for whom King Charles had destined the the Earldom of Glamorgan, if it fell into the hands of the Crown, survived the royal monarch (dying in the year 1701) without having received any grant of the Earldom, from which it may perhaps be inferred that the limitations of the supposed patent were not confined to the heirs male of the Marquis by his second wife.

In 1712 Simon Segar published his Catalogue of the various creations, entitled, "Honores Anglicani," where, in his list of Earls, he states that Edward Somerset was created Earl of Glamorgan 21 Car. I. 1645,[p] and under Viscounts says, he was created Viscount Grosmont and Caldecote in Wales 21 Car. I. 1645, and Earl of Glamorgan.[q]

In 1713 this nobleman's great-grandson, Henry Duke of Beaufort, was installed as Knight of the Garter, when the titles of "Earl of Glamorgan and Baron Beaufort of Caldecot" appear among the others upon his stall plate at Windsor.[r]

In 1801, Henry fifth Duke, who was elected a Knight of the Garter in 1786, was installed, and upon his stall plate, among other titles are those of "Earl of Glamorgan, Viscount Grosmont and Baron Beaufort of Caldecote,"[s] and they also occur on the plate of Henry Charles sixth Duke, who was installed in 1805.

Upon what ground Garter Anstis introduced the titles of "Earl of Glamorgan and Baron Beaufort" in 1713, when he did not find them upon the plate of the second Marquis of Worcester in 1672, does not appear; but the insertion of the dignity of "Viscount Grosmont," by Garter Heard in 1801 and 1805, would seem clearly to have arisen from inadvertence.

EXTRACTS FROM THE TOPOGRAPHICAL COLLECTIONS OF SIR HENRY CALTHORPE, KNT. TEMP. CHARLES I. RELATING TO SEVERAL PARISHES IN THE COUNTY OF NORFOLK.

The general correctness of Messrs. Blomefield and Parkin, the Norfolk historians, is commonly admitted. Errors and omissions are, however, from a variety of causes, unavoidable in such works, and it may be considered a commendable service to correct the one and supply the other, whenever an opportunity occurs. Under this impression, I have transcribed a manuscript account of manorial and other property, in some parishes in that county, which, upon comparison with their statements, will, in some cases, be found to differ, and in others to afford additional information. The MS. in question was collected and arranged by Sir Henry Calthorpe, of Ampton, in Suffolk,[a] an eminent lawyer in the early part of the seventeenth century, from original documents in his own possession, having been an owner of property in most of those parishes to which his collections relate.

A. P.

BURGH ST. MARGARET'S, is a parish in the hundred of East and West Flegg.

"Sir Reyner de Burgo was owner of this mannor in the beginninge of the reigne of Henrye the Third, for by a deede without date it appeareth that there was land claymed att his Court of Burgh; and from Sir Reyner de Burgo did the same mannor discend unto Sir William de Burgo as his sonne and heire; and, as I conceive, the same mannor did discend from Sir William de Burgo unto Nicholas his sonne; for I doe finde by a deede without date that Nicholas was the sonne of William, and I doe finde noe other sonns but him, and from him did the same

[a] Sir Henry Calthorpe was successively Common Serjeant and Recorder of the City of London, Solicitor-General to Queen Henrietta-Maria, and Attorney of the Court of Wards and Liveries. He was the author of "Proposals for regulating the Law," and of a volume of Reports relative to the Customs of London. A memoir of him and of his family will be found in the Gentleman's Magazine for November 1831, vol. CI. II. 406.

mannor discend, as I conceive, unto Sir Walter de Burgo, whome I doe finde by deede without date, and in the beginninge of Edw. I. reigne, to be owner of lande in Burgh."

The following extracts, selected from various original documents, will confirm the above statement, and at the same time, correct the one given by Mr. Parkin, concerning the members of this family, who were owners of this lordship :—

" By an agreement betwixt Reyner de Burgh and the Ladye Mabill his mother, and Sir Warren of Rollesbye, and Sir Robert de Burgh, Reyner, with the consent and graunt of the Ladye Mabill his mother, doth demise unto the said Warren and Robert his sheepecourse in Wintell neere unto the towne of Stokesbie, with the appurtenances, and with the fouldage in the fields att the goeinge out from the marshe, att the Annunciacon for 4 yeares; and this in consideracon of eight marks given."

" William of Otum of Clippisbie doth make a feoffment unto Mabill of Burgh and Reyner her sonne and their heirs, of three roodes of lande in Burgh, perticulerlie abuttailed, to hold of him and his heirs for their homage and service, and 10*s.* given in earnest, and rendringe yearelie att Michas 1*d.* for all customs and services, savinge the service unto the kinge, vizt. for everie xx*s.* of scutage ob.; and soe, if more more, if lesse lesse."

" 42 Hen. III. An agreement betwixt Sir William de Burgh on the one parte, and the Ladie Joane, which was the wife of Sir Reyner de Burgh, of the other parte, whereby Sir William doth give recompence of lande in Ailmerton and the townes adjoyninge for lande, rent, and services, whereof she was dowable in Burgh."

" Richard of Clippesbie doth enfeoffe Nicholas, the sonne of William de Burgo, and his heirs, of one acre and half a roode of lande, to hould of him and his heires by vj*d.* a year, for all rent and services."

" 16 Edw. I. Sir Thomas Abigenilla doth release unto Sir Walter de Burgo and his heirs all his right and estate which he had formerlie in twelve acres of lande, in Orbye, Clippisbie, and Burgh, by the graunt of Sir Walter for term of his life."

The following selection will shew the other members of this family who had an interest in the parish of Burgh :—

" Thomas de Burgo doth enfeoffe Reyner de Burgo and his heirs of two acres of lande in Burgh, rendring 4*d.* yearelie att Michas for all rente and services."

"Richard, the sonne of Robert de Bellus, doth graunt unto Sir Reginald de Burgo and his heirs, Robert the sonne of Allen and others that were his villeines and neife, with all their sequell, to hould of him and his heirs, rendring unto him and his heirs 1*d.* yearly for all services and demande at Michas."

"Henry Castome, the sonne of Harvie, doth enfeoffe John de Burgo, parson, and his heirs, of one roode of lande, to hould of him and his heires, rendring unto him and his heires 3*d.* yearelie for all services and demande."

"An agreement betwixt Henrie of the Willowes and John parson of Burgh, whereby Henrie doth demise unto the said John two acres of lande in Clippesbie for 10 yeares, to beginn after the death of the Bisshopp of Durham."

"Thomas de Burgo de Fishby doth enfeoffe William the sonne of Reyner de Burgo, and his heirs, of five acres of lande in Burgh, rendringe yearlie to him and his heirs ij*d.* yearlie at the feast of Michaell."

"William, the sonne of Roger of Ormebye, doth enfeoffe William the sonne of Sir Reyner de Burgh, and his heirs, of three acres of lande in Burgh, and doth graunt Nicholas the sonne of Osbert Hikill, with all his sequell, unto him and his heirs, rendringe yearlie unto him and his heires a root of ginger att Michas."

It appears the de Bosville's of Newton near Castleacre, were the ancestors of the Burgo family, and benefactors to the priory at Castleacre. In the reign of Henry II. or Richard I. Reyner de Burgo was vicar of that parish.

"In the 5 Edw. II. Joane of Claveringe, Ladie of Burgh, doth enfeoffe Peter Buskyn and his heirs, of the marshe, called Okeholme, lyenge betwixt the comon bank of Weybridge on the south, and the comon marshe of Clippisbie of the north, to hould of the chiefe lorde by the accustomed rente and services."

"In the Rolle of 9 Edw. III. I finde that Joane, the daughter of Sir Walter de Burgo, solde the reversion, and Sir Edmond de Ufford, 43 Edw. III. was owner of the manor."

"15 Ric. II. Sir Robert de Ufford doth enfeoffe Robert Walle, the sonne of Allen Walle of Willowby, and his heirs, of one messuage, two acres, a roode and a halfe of lande in Willowby perticulerlie abuttailed, to hold of the chiefe lorde, rendringe yearlie unto Sir Robert Ufford and his heires viij*d.* att Michas or Easter, with a clawse of distresse."

"9 Edw. IV. I doe finde that the Lord Dacres was owner of the mannor of Burgh St. Margarett."

This Joane of Clavering, and Joane the daughter of Sir Walter de Burgo, was, we presume, the same individual; who was heiress to her father, and wife of Sir Alexander de Clavering, eldest son of Sir Robert Fitz-Roger. At the time of the said reversionary grant, she was a widow, and the person to whom the grant was made, Sir John de Clavering of Horsford in Norfolk, Sir Alexander's younger brother. Sir John de Clavering left issue an only daughter, Eva, whose second husband was Sir Thomas de Ufford, by whom she had three sons, and of whom the above Sir Edmund de Ufford was the youngest, and inherited this lordship. He married Sibilla, daughter of Sir Simon Pierpoint of Henstead, in Suffolk, and died in 1374.

Sir Robert de Ufford, his son, married Helen, daughter of Sir Thomas Felton, Knt. and died in 1400, leaving Amey his daughter and coheir, who brought this lordship by marriage to Sir William Bowet, of an ancient Cumberland family, and who, it appears, was dead in the tenth of Henry V. and this lady re-married to Sir Henry Inglose.

Elizabeth, daughter and heir of the above Sir William Bowet and Amey Ufford, married Sir Thomas Dacre, son and heir of Thomas Lord Dacre, of Gillesland, and in her right became proprietor of this manor; and Joane, his daughter and heir, brought it to Sir Richard Fiennes, who became Lord Dacre, in right of the said Lady Joane, his wife.

Mr. Parkin names Sir William Bowet, Sir Henry Inglose, and the Lord Dacre, as having an interest here, but mistakes as to the Uffords, Earls of Suffolk, being owners. Our manuscript authority proceeds as follows:—

"28 Jan. 21 Hen. VII. Sir Thomas Fynes, Lord Dacre, and Anne his wife, doth by deed enrolled in Chancerie, for 420*l.* bargaine and sell unto Sir William Capell and his heirs the mannor of Burgh St. Margarette, with the appurtenances, and he covenñteth the same to be of the yearelie valewe of 25*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* Thomas Lord Dacre and William Fynes his uncle doe release unto Sir William Capell and John Bayrefoot, clerk, and their heirs, all their right in this mannor, 6 Apr. in the same year." William Fynes gives a particular warrantry against the Abbat of Westminster and his successors. The extent of the demesne, as inserted in the said release, was thirty messuages, twenty tofts, 1000 acres of land, 100 acres of meadow, 300 acres of pasture, 10 acres of wood, 300 acres of heath and bruery, and 10*l.* rent in Burgh St. Margaret, Burgh St. Mary, and adjoining parishes.

It continued in the family of Capel until 2 Chas. I. of which family our manuscript furnishes the following account:—

"Sir William Capell, Knt. died the 7th Hen. VIII., Sir Giles Capell being his son and heir, who died the 3rd and 4th of Philip and Mary, Sir Henry Capell being his son and heir, who died without issue the following year, leaving Sir Edward his brother and heir. Sir Edward Capell died about the 18th Eliz. Henry Capell, Esq. being his son and heir; who died in the 30th of the same reign, Sir Arthur Capell being his son and heir; who died the 8th Chas. I. Arthur Capell being his grandchild and heir, i. e. son and heir of Sir Henry Capell, son and heir of Sir Arthur Capell."

The steward of the Abbat of St. Bennet at Holm paid sixty shillings unto the lord yearly for a fishery in this parish; by this and other payments it appears that the fishings, of which there were several here, namely, Awdley's-meres, Brandwithwater, Coddespond, Newfleete, Weybridge, Burgh faldgate, Burghfleete, &c. yielded more profit to the lord than the soil.

There was anciently a foldcourse belonging to this manor, and also a swan mark, and licences were given from time to time by the Lord for marriages. There were several wardships belonging unto the manor, and tenures by knight's service; the Court had power to hold pleas of personal and real actions, and the Lord claimed all waifes and estraies. It is apparent, by the deeds of purchase, fines, and other assurances, that the manor of Burgh doth extend into Billockby, and that the Lord of Burgh had both freeholders and copyholders in Billockby.

In the 18th Eliz. Sir Henry Capell and Henry Capell grant a lease unto Thomas Gawdye, one of the Justices of the Queen's Bench, of one hundred acres of marsh, rendering yearly seven pounds; and in 10 Jac. I. Robert Tasburge hires the Swan mark, with liberty to breed swans, rendering yearly twelve pence, on lease for seventeen years.

STIFKEY.

The same authority gives some particulars respecting the parish of Stifkey, in the hundred of North Greenhow, in Norfolk, not noticed by the county historian.

The principal lordships in this parish were Turtevile's and Irmingland's manors, Netherhall, and Stowes, or Stifkey. Mr. Parkin notices several smaller manors, or free tenements, that afterwards became united to one or other of the above, and in a copy of a court roll of 20 Hen. VII. the style of Stifkey Netherhall is given, all the rest being Stifkey only.

In some abstracts from the copies of the court held for the manor of Stifkey, and the manor of Stifkey Netherhall and Stowes, the writer conceives them to be all one, because he finds the Bulleyn's to be owners of the manor of Netherhall and Stowes, "and yet," he observes, "there bee several coppies in the tyme of Edw. IV. wherein there is one Stifkey put without an addition."

In 4 Ric. II. Sir John de Akom, Attorney-general of the Earl of Northampton, grants a lease for nine years of the church of St. Mary in Stifkey, and view of the manor of Stifkey, with the appurtenances. It is added, "being the inheritance of the Earle of Northampton; of wardes, marriages, escheats, and forfeitures, rendring 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*"

Thomas of Woodstock, Duke of Gloucester, youngest son of King Edward III. was created Earl of Buckingham and Northampton, at the coronation of Richard II. in 1377, and the King gave him 1000 marks yearly out of his treasury, until he had provided him land to that value; and this property was probably obtained by a grant from the Crown, during the minority of Elizabeth and Mary, daughters and coheirs of David Strabolgi, third Earl of Athol, as one William Parker was rector, and presented by the King about that time.

This is the only account we meet with of the early proprietors of this manor until the 12th Edw. IV. when the lord makes a grant, to Peter Holme and Emme his wife, of an acre of the demesne, and this appears to be the first court of William Bolleyn.

In 38 Hen. VIII. Sir James Buleyn, Knt. for 500*l.* bargains and sells the manor called Netherhall and Stowes, and the advowson of the church of St. Mary in Stifkey, unto James Calthorpe, of Cockthorpe, Esq. and his heirs; and Sir James Buleyn levies a fine unto James Calthorpe of the said manor and advowson, with the appurtenances, and of ten messuages, with as many gardens, three hundred acres of land, forty acres of meadow, two hundred acres of pasture, forty acres of heath and bruery, three hundred acres of salt-marsh, and one hundred shillings rent, and the rent of ten hens, two hundred eggs, and three quarters of oats, in Stifkey and parishes adjoining, and of a foldcourse for six hundred sheep in Stifkey.

A licence of alienation was granted to the said James Calthorpe, Esq. in 3 & 4 Phil. & Mar. and he makes a feoffment in trust for the use of Thomas and John Calthorpe his younger sons, and after his death it passed to them accordingly.

In 3 Eliz. John Calthorpe makes a lease of his moiety unto Thomas Calthorpe his brother, for nine years, at the yearly rent of 20*l.* with a proviso to be void upon the taking of the same by John Calthorpe into his own hands.

In the fifth of the same reign John Calthorpe, for 29*l.* bargains and sells unto John Banyard and his heirs, the advowson of the church of St. Mary in Stifkey and the moiety of the close called Netherhall in the same parish, lying between the church of St. John and St. Mary and a close called Irmingland on the north, &c. with a covenant to levy a fine before the end of Trinity term. The following year the said John Calthorpe grants a lease of the moiety of the manor of Netherhall and Stowes unto the said John Banyard for one and twenty years, at the yearly rent of 20*l.* This accounts for the interest James Calthorpe, Esq. had in this property, and also explains the reason why John Banyard (not Baynard) presented to the church of St. Mary in 1564, although not owner of the lordship, as Mr. Parkin supposes.

The manor of Netherhall and Stowes is held of the Crown by knight's service in chief, and it is apparent that the advowson of the church of St. Mary in Stifkey was anciently appended to the said manor; but, being past by James Calthorpe to Thomas and John his younger sons, together with the said manor, as above stated, the same became an advowson in gross, and divided from the manor.

There were both freeholders and copyholders belonging to that manor, with a leet appendant and court baron incident thereto, which had power to hold of all civil and personal actions, under the value of forty shillings. Wreck of sea also belonged to it, and there was anciently an officer called Prepositus, [k] and the office was termed Officium Prepositi, and there were several tenantries in the manor that were in their course, which was every seven years, to bear that office, and for the discharge thereof there was paid by the tenant, that was to bear the same, at the rate of 20*d.* per acre.

The last will and testament of James Munday, anciently a tenant of this manor, is subjoined, being an exact transcript of the original in my possession :—

"In the name of Gode, Amen. I James Mundy, of the paryche of Seynt John in Styfkey, the xvij day of the moneth of January, in the yer of our Lord Jħu Criste M CCCCCXIIIJ in my hooll mynde and good memory mak my testament and laste will in this wise. Concerning the lordships of Turtevile's, Irmingland's, Curlue's, &c. in Stifkey, noticed by Mr. Parkin, with the advowson of the church of St. John Baptist, in the same parish, we collect the following particulars:—

45 Hen. III. A release from Galfrid the son of Bartholomew of Stifkey, unto Raphe the son of William of Stifkey, and his heirs.

A feoffment by Richard Curlue, of Stifkey, knight, unto Alexander Curlue and his heirs for his homage and service, and six markes in money, one piece of land, with the appurtenances, in Stifkey.

2 Edw. II. A grant and release from Cecily the wife of Henry de Bosco, of Bodham, unto Ralph de Irmingland and his heirs, of all her right in the manor of Stifkey, with the appurtenances, and moiety of the church of St. John in Stifkey, and the homage and service of Thomas the son and heir of Jeffery de East.

12 Edw. II. A fine levied before William de Beresford, Gilbert de Norbury, John de Bensteade, John Bacon, and John Nutford, Justices, by Raphe de Irmingland unto William the son of Robert Storme of Wiveton, of the manor of Stifkey, with the appurtenances, and the advowson of the church of St. John Baptist of the same, who renders the said manor and advowson unto Raphe and Agnes his wife, and their heirs, the remainder to the right heirs of Raphe.

At the same time a feoffment was made by the said Ralph unto William the son of Robert Storm, of Wiveton, and his heirs, of the said manor and advowson. Sir Walter de Calthorpe, Robert de Baconthorpe, and Richard de Walsingham, knights, amongst others, are witnesses.

6 Hen. V. A feoffment from John, parson of the church of Cockthorpe, and John Ecker, parson of the moiety of the church of Leringsett, and others, unto Stephen Burges, Thomas Stoke, and Dionise Wallys and their heirs, of twenty-four acres of land in Stifkey, lyeing in thirteen pieces, together with the wards, marriages, escheats, saltmarshes, and other appurtenances, foldcourses and passages, with the bounds and coasts of the sea, which late were Thomas de Curlues of Reynham St. Mary, and they, together with others, had of the feoffment of Richard Lesselin of Stifkey.

8 Hen. VI. A feoffment from Edward Tortevill, of Stifkey, unto John Sutton and Guydo Childerhouse and their heirs, of the manor of Curlues Knight, in Stifkey and Cockthorpe.

By a feoffment of the 31st of the same reign it appears, that John Irmingland was owner of a manor in Stifkey.

In the 35th of this King, a feoffment was made from Sir Galfrid Ratliffe and others unto Nicholas Stermin and Margaret his wife, of the twenty-four acres of land, as above described, which they had jointly with Sir John Ratliffe of the feoffment of Robert Stowe and John Wallys, 12 Hen. VI.

20 July, 13 Edw. IV. A feoffment was made of the same property from Nicholas Sturman unto Nicholas Fortescue, Esquire to the King's body, John Wotton, Thomas Langdon, and others, and which he had jointly with Margaret his wife, of the feoffment of Sir Galfrid Ratliffe. A rental was renewed for the manor of Curlues in Stifkey, on the 18th of Aug. the 21st of the above reign.

It appears that Sir Thomas Robyn had land in Stifkey in 5 Hen. VIII.; and on the 12th of May, in the 17th of that reign, a feoffment was made from Thomas Hodson, parson of Cockthorpe, to Henry Winter and Dorothy his wife, and their heirs, with a remainder unto the heirs of Edmond Winter and Alice his wife, of the manor of Curlue Knight's in Stifkey, with the appurtenances, which he had of the feoffment of Henry Winter on the 6th of May, in the same year.

In 20 Hen. VIII. Henry Winter bargains and sells unto Ralphe Symondes and his heirs, for 72*l.* ninety-five acres and one rood of land, parcel of the above lordship; and there is a covenant for the levying of a fine, and suffering of a common recovery. On the 1st of December, in the same year, Ralphe Symondes sells the said property unto William Greene, and on the 4th of that month a feoffment was made from Ralphe Symondes unto William Green and others of the same, and the following day a release was made from Henry Winter unto the said William Greene.

In the 27th of this reign, a feoffment from William Greene and others, unto Robert Childe and his heirs, of this property, which he had by feoffment from Ralphe Symondes on the 4th of September in that year. The 26th of December following, a feoffment was made from the said Robert Childe unto William Green, Edmond Framingham, and others, of forty-seven acres and a half and half a rood of land, meadow and pasture, lying in the fields of Stifkey and Cockthorpe, parcel of the above, which Robert Childe had by feoffment, as above stated; and the following year William Greene sells unto Edmond Framingham of Cockthorpe, all his property in Stifkey and Cockthorpe, for 120 marks.

On the 10th of Dec. 3 & 4 Phil. & Mar. John Banyard for 78*l.* bargains and sells unto James Calthorpe, of Cockthorpe,[1] Esq. and his heirs, the moiety of twenty-one acres and one rood of land in Stifkey, in the south and north fields, pertaining to the foldcourse called Netherhall foldcourse, the moiety of the saltmarsh pertaining to the said foldcourse, and all liberties and profits sometimes pertaining to the manor called [1] Mr. Parkin, the Norfolk historian, makes the lordship and advowson of Cockthorpe to have become the property of this family, in the same way as the Blakeney estate, namely, by the marriage of Sir Oliver Calthorpe with Isabel, daughter of Sir Robert, and sister and coheir of Sir Bartholomew Bacon; which is correct respecting the latter, but an entire mistake with regard to the former. By an indenture bearing date the 20th of April, 19 Edw. IV. 1480, it appears, that John Sharington sells the manor and advowson of Cockthorpe to John, eldest son of Richard Calthorpe, Esq. by Margaret his wife, daughter of William, and sister and heiress of John Irmingland, Rector of Stifkey St. John Baptist. This Richard Calthorpe was the second son of William, the only son of Sir Oliver, and the lady Isabel Bacon his wife, grandson, not second son, of the latter, as stated by the above author, and the person to whom the Blakeney estate was, by the said lady Isabel his grandmother, bequeathed.

Curlue Knight's, Turtevill's, Irmingland's, and East, late Henry Winter's; and on the 1st of March, the following year, a feoffment was made from John Banyard unto James Calthorpe, in performance of the said bargain and sale.

ACLE, IN WALSHAM HUNDRED.

The tenure of this lordship is of knight's service, in chief of the King, and there was paid in 1636, 12*s.* 8*d.* for respite of homage. In an old rental of the second of Edw. VI. are mentioned the tenure of St. Andrew, the tenure of Wrongate-land, the tenure called meadow-land, workland, sharedole, turfdole, rushdole, reeddole, fendole, &c. The court leet used formerly to appoint a constable, an ale-taster, an officer called Prepositus or reeve, also a reep-reeve, who was to take charge for reaping the lord's corn, a messer or bailiff to collect the rates, a custos communæ, who had the care of the common, a custos bosci, who looked after the lord's woods, and a cart-reeve, who had the charge and care of carrying his corn.

It appears by several court rolls of this manor, that there is a custom within the manor, that if a woman who has an estate in land, holden of this manor, or a title of dower, and doth with her husband come into the court, and be examined in the court by the steward, this is as sufficient a bar unto her as if she had levied a fine; and there was a fine usually paid unto the lord upon such an examination, and release made in court.

In the 30th Eliz. a lease was granted by William Dixe and John Holland,[m] unto Theodore Obee, of the windmill, and an acre of ground, for fourteen years, at the yearly rent of 6*l.*; and in the 32nd of the same reign, Nicholas Crispe grants a lease unto Edmund Kippinge, of the park of Acle, for twelve years, rendering 8*l.*

ALDEBY, IN CLAVERING HUNDRED.

The tenure of this manor is of knight's service in chief; a court baron is incident thereto, and power to hold pleas both real and personal; and there are both freeholders and copyholders belonging to the lordship, also a court leet, a swan-mark, a warren, and a fishing. There were heriots paid formerly for several tenements. The lord had waifes and estrays, and he had harvest works done by the tenants, and they were to grind at the mill of the lord. He had liberty of folding, and some share or part of the marshes of Beccles, and a rent answered unto him for such his part.

In the bundle of the Escheat Rolls of the 16th Edw. IV. it is found that Alianora died seised of the manor of Hockering and Aldeby, with the appurtenances, in the county of Norfolk; and that they were holden of the King by knight's service in chief, and were worth by the year 36*l.*

A grant was made in the 9th Hen. V. by Thomas de Morle, Lord of Morle, Marshal of Ireland, and Isabell his wife, unto Richard But, during his life, of the office of the custody of the warren of Aldeby, and twopence by the day, payable out of the profit of the said manor, for execution of that office.

In the 18th Edw. III. a feoffment was made from William de Morley unto Adam Herbert and his heirs, of one plot of land in Aldeby, called the Green ...., with the common of Meyard for two cows and sheep and twelve old geese, rendering yearly unto him and his heirs, for the plot of land and common, three shillings at Michmas and our Lady.

In the 4th Edw. II. a deed was made by Thomas de Kerdeston, Archdeacon of Norfolk, reciting that Sir William Roceline, Knt. and Joane his wife, had enfeoffed him and his heirs of the manor of Aldeby, with the appurtenances, and of the advowson of the moiety of the church of St. Matthew de Thorpe, whereby he did covenant and agree to make a refeoffment, and to levy a fine of the said manor and advowson, whereby Sir William Roceline and Joane his wife, should have an estate for their lives in the said property, and after their decease, that the same should remain unto William le Marshal and his heirs, and he bound himself in 2,000*l.* sterling for the doing thereof.

By several leases granted in the reigns of Philip and Mary, and Elizabeth, it appears that the lands in this parish were let at a rental of about one shilling per acre per annum; a consideration was, however, sometimes given for a long lease. For some further account of the parish of Aldeby, see the Gentleman's Magazine for 1833, vol. CIII. II. p. 503.

HADISCOE THORPE, IN CLAVERING HUNDRED.

An union was made in the 35th Edw. III. by Thomas Bishop of Norwich, and confirmed by the Prior and Convent of Norwich, of the two several moieties of the church of Haddiscothorp, which had two several incumbents in it, of one of which moieties John de Mowbray and his ancestors had been patrons, and William de Morley, Marshal of Ireland, and his ancestors had been patrons of the other moiety; and the said patrons, and their heirs, were, after the death of the incumbent, to present unto the whole church in turns, and John de Mowbray was to have the first turn, and William de Morley was to have the other turn, and so a presentation to be made perpetually by turns.

WIVETON, IN HOLT HUNDRED.

There is a custom that the lord of Wiveton Ducis, or Stafford manor in this parish, hath a bushel of coals, salt, or any other measurable thing, of every ship that doth unload within the precinct of that manor, and the same ship was to be unladen by the lord's bushel, and no other, for no other was to keep a bushel, and the bailiff had twopence for weighing every weigh of salt. There was paid for every English ship, other than those of the same port, four pence for anchorage, and for every alien ship eight pence.

The lord was to have of every island ship, a warp of fish of his own choice, that is to say, one ling and one cod, if the ship was stored with both, if but with one, then a warp of that it was stored with.

The lord is to have of every ship's loading of fish dried upon his ground, a warp of fish for composition.

CHURCH-NOTES IN THE HUNDRED OF CRONDALL, HAMPSHIRE.

ALDERSHOT.

This Church, dedicated to St. Michael, consists of a nave and chancel. It was cieled in 1725, according to an inscription on the north wall of the nave. The royal arms are of the date of 1717, and nearly obliterated. The register commences in 1592, but the earliest volume is a mixture of loose leaves put together without regularity, though not in bad preservation. The east window of the chancel is of three trefoiled lights with trefoiled headings. There are four windows of two trefoiled lights each, two on the north and two on the south side. Those to the west are plain; those to the east have an ogee-head to the trefoil. The nave has, on the north side, one single trefoiled window, and another of two lights cinquefoiled. The south side has a window of two lights cinquefoiled, and another of two lights trefoiled. The font is modern, and of wood.

Exterior.—The dripstones to the windows are quite plain. There is part, still remaining, of an ornamented ridge-tiling to the roof of the nave. It is engrailed and pierced, and has a pleasing effect. The porch on the south side is plain, and has been modernised. The tower at the west end is built of the brown sandstone of the country, with brick copings, and much modernised, though not in an unsightly manner, if a small clock-tower of wood be excepted. There is an old rude stone near the porch, perhaps part of a tomb, or cross, now apparently used as a seat. The church is prettily situated on a hill, near which is a fine view towards Farnham and the Holt Forest. It is a perpetual Curacy with a stipend of 15*l.* per annum.

Chancel.—Against the east wall, on the north side of the communion table, is a slab of white marble, inscribed to the memory of John Allden, who died January 2, 1829, aged 69.

Near the above is a brass plate, within an alabaster border, or frame, engraved as follows:—

"Morire mundo, vivas Deo."

Underneath are three shields. Surmounting that in the centre is the Crest: viz. a lion's head erased quarterly guttée in each quarter. Arms: Per fess, a pale counterchanged, three roundels barry wavy of six, 2 and 1, and three lion's heads erased, 1 and 2, White. Motto: "IN GOD IS MY TRUST." The dexter shield has the same coat, impaling a chevron between three popinjays, within a bordure charged with eight bezants, White of South Wanborough.[a] The sinister shield has also the same coat impaling, on a fess engrailed between three martlets, a cinquefoil between two pomegranites: meant for Sowday, but there is no such coat. Under the dexter shield are the names of the following children:—Thomas, Robert, William, Benjamin, Benjamin, Margaret, Mary, and Jane. Under the sinister shield:—John and Thomas. Katharine. Below is this inscription:—

"Here under lyeth buried ye body of Syr JOHN WHYTE,[b]

[a] The blazon of these coats is,—Per fess azure and or pale counterchanged, three roundels barry wavy of six, argent and vert, 2 and 1, and three lion's heads erased, gules, 1 and 2. Crest, a lion's head erased quarterly azure and or guttée in each quarter counterchanged, White of Aldershot. Argent, a chevron gules between three popinjays vert within a bordure azure charged with eight bezants, White of Wanborough, the first wife of Sir John White. The second wife was daughter of John Sowday, of London.

[b] There were three knights of this name living nearly at the same time, and all bearing totally different arms. 1. The Sir John abovementioned. 2. Sir Thomas of South Wanborough, his brother-in-law: and 3. Sir Thomas the founder of St. John's College, Oxford, who was Lord Mayor a few years before Sir John White's mayoralty. The will of Sir John was proved in 1573. He describes minutely the place where he desired to be buried, viz. on the north side of the chancel, and that a plate of brass should be put up, "with the border of alablaster stone already made for it." He mentions his wife Dame Katharine: his sons Robert, William, John and Thomas, and his daughter Katharine. He also mentions his daughter Offley, and his daughter, deceased, the wife of Laurence Hussey, and a brother Robert White, of Farnham; but whose name does not appear in the pedigree of White in Vincent's Hants. Coll. Arm. 130. Sir John is mentioned by Stowe, as of the Company of the Grocers, Sheriff in 1556, and Lord Mayor in 1563; and further, as having been buried at Aldershot in 1571; which date, it will be seen, is erroneous. The pedigree of White, as given in Manning and Bray, is not very accurate. That in Vincent includes the two families of Aldershot and South Wanborough, who were doubly allied by marriage, Sir John having married the sister of Sir Thomas White, of South Wanborough; and Sir Thomas having married Sir John's sister. They do not deduce their origin from a common ancestor, although each traced to a connexion with Farnham. The alliances of the Wanborough branch were of a higher order, and it is proposed, hereafter, to Knyght, Allderman, Cityzen, and Grocer of London, who departed thys present lyffe wyth a wylling mynde, committyng his body and soule to the eternal God through Christ o^r^ Lorde, y^e^ .... day of ..... a^o^. 15 .."

The non-insertion of the dates shows that this plate was placed there in the lifetime of Sir John.

On the opposite side of the communion table, and against the east wall, is a slab of white marble to,

"Captn. Thos. Newnham, of the Royal Navy, died 13 Aug. 1795, æt. 53. Also Elizabeth his relict, and wife of the Rev. James Pigott,[b] Vicar of Wigston, Leicestershire, who died 17 Oct. 1809, æt. 61."

Against the south wall is a kneeling figure of a female with seven sons and six daughters. Above her is a shield bearing the coat of Tichborne, viz. Vaire, a chief or, impaling, Quarterly, 1st and 4th, White, 2nd and 3rd, Ermine, on a chevron cotised sable three martlets or, Bradley.

On the dexter side is a shield bearing the coats of White and Bradley, quarterly.

On the sinister side another shield bearing, Quarterly, 1st and 4th Tichborne: 2nd White, and 3rd Bradley.

Below is the following inscription:—

"Here lieth ye body of Lady Mary Tichborne,[c] ye wife of Sr Walter Tichborne, Knight, who was maried to him ye 7 of May 1597, and deceased ye 31st January 1620, leaving issue, now living, notice the interesting monuments in that church.—John White, Bishop of Winchester, who was brother to Sir John White, and who is contemptuously spoken of by Camden, as "vulgariter doctus, et poetica facultate, ut ferebant tempora, tolerabilis," bore for his arms, Per chevron embattled argent and gules, three roses counterchanged, on a chief of the second three hour-glasses of the first. He died in 1588.

[b] A notice of this gentleman's decease in 1812, is in the Gent. Mag. vol. LXXXII. ii. 674.

[c] The descent of Tichborne in Manning and Bray, vol. iii. p. 177, is erroneous. It is there stated that the manor of Tongham went to Sir Walter and Mary Tichborne, and "from them it descended to Benjamin their son, who died in 1660 or 1661, leaving Francis his son and heir." Francis was the younger brother, and not the son, of Benjamin. The disposition of the arms on this monument is remarkable: the coat of Foster being excluded. The coat of Bradley was borne quarterly with that of Foster by the mother of Mary Tichborne; this latter being, Sable, on a chevron engrailed argent three pellets. See Vincent's Hants. Coll. Arm. 130.

By the side of the above are also the following lines:—

Invenies fausto cuncta peracta gradu;

"Filia et cohæres Roberti White armigeri."

Against the north wall is the figure of a female kneeling at a desk. Above are two shields, one bearing the coat of Tichborne, the other Tichborne impaling White. The inscription is as follows:—

"Erected by Sr Richard Tichborne,[d] Knight, to ye memory of his dearest wiefe the Lady Ellen Tichborne, eldest daughter and coheire of Robt White, of Aldershott, Esq. who godly departed thys lyfe the 18 day of May, in the year of our redemption 1606, and of her age 27.

[d] Sir Richard Tichborne, who was knighted by James soon after his accession, is stated in Vincent's Hants, 158, to have had by his wife Ellen a daughter Wyburga; but, by the pedigree in Register of Baronets, 4. 149, in Coll. Arm. he appears to have left only a daughter, Amphillis, wife of Laurence Hyde, son and heir of Sir Laurence Hyde. The male issue of Sir Richard Tichborne, by a second wife, became extinct in 1743, when the grandfather of the present Baronet, who was great-grandson of Francis and Susanna Tichborne of Aldershot, succeeded; and by his marriage with Mary the daughter of Michael Blount, Esq. of Maple Durham, by Mary-Agnes, eldest daughter and coheir of Sir Henry Joseph Tichborne, of Tichborne, brought the blood of the elder branch into his own line.

On the floor, and partly under the communion rails, is a brass inscribed:—

"Here under lyeth the bodye of MARYE WHITE,[e] late wife to Robert White, of Aldershott, in the county of Southampton, Esquier, who departed this lyfe the XXI of Julie MDLXXXIII, by whom he had isshue ii sonnes and ii daughters, viz. Robert and Robert, Helen and Marye."

On an adjoining slab are the arms of Henshaw, viz. a chevron between three cocks. Crest: a falcon, ducally gorged, standing on a bird's wing,[f] with this inscription:—

"Here resteth the body of Mr. CHARLES HENSHAW, of London, merchant, late Consul of ye Engl[ish Merchants at . . . .] He was ye four[th son of] Benjamin Henshaw, Cityzen and Merchant-Taylor of London. After many long and perilous voyages through France, Italie to Barbarie, Syria, Palestine, Jerusalem, and Bethlehem, he peaceably ended his pilgrimage at Aldershott on ye 24 day of Aug. 1665, in ye 36 yeare of his age. Hee married Elizabeth, ye daughter of Simon Thorowgood, citizen of London, by whom he left three children, George, Susan, Charles."

The same slab is also inscribed with the name of Captain Thomas Newnham, who lies buried beneath it.

On the floor is also a large slab, which had formerly brasses of a man in a long gown, with a shield of arms at each of the upper corners. The inscription still remains, and is as follows:—

Sed futuram inquirimus.
Mihi vivere Christus est, et mori lucrum."

On another slab is a lozenge shield bearing Tichborne, charged with a crescent for difference, impaling, On a chevron three cinquefoils, a canton ermine, for Haws.

"Here lyes the body of SUSAN TICHBORNE,[h] the relict of Francis Tichborne, late of Aldershott, Esqr. She departed this life on the 21 of Decr 1687, aged 77 years. She was ye daughter of William Haws of Brumley Hall, in the county of Essex, merchant."

Two adjoining slabs are concealed by the pews, and there are two or three of a more ancient character without inscriptions.

[g] Funeral Certificate of Mr. Robert Whyte, of Aldershot, Esq. who died 23 April 1599. (I. 16, 47, Coll. Arm.)—

"The Funeralls of ye said Robert Whyte were very mournfully solemnised in ye parish church of Aldershott the 22 of May following. The chieffe mourner was Benjamin Tichborne afforsaid, and his assistants were Richard Tichborne and Thomas Whyte, brothers of ye said Robert. The penon being borne by Walter Tichborne. The officers of armes there attendant and performed that service were Willm Segar al's Norroy King of Armes, and Will'm Smith al's Rouge Dragon pursuivant of Armes. In witness whereof we the executors and overseers have hereunto sett our hands.

WALTER TICHBORNE."

[h] Two gold mourning rings were dug up some years since near the site of the old manor-house; one inscribed "Suz. Tichborne, ob. 23 Dec. 87;" the other, a very small ring, inscribed "Prepared bee to follow me, T. T."

NAVE.—Against the north wall is a monument of white marble, inscribed:—

"In a vault near this spot is deposited the body of JOHN BROWNRIGG, A.B. late of Queen's College in the University of Cambridge, and Assistant Minister of this parish, who, after eminently displaying the Christian character in the discharge of the social and private duties of life, and unwearied exertions in the pastoral office, entered a glorious immortality on the 14th day of May 1809, aged 29 years."

"His steady eye surveyed the happy shore
Where grief and pain and sickness are no more,
Counted the mighty ransom that was given
To waft the sinner's soul in peace to Heaven;
Dwelt on the promised bliss to lost mankind,
While praise exalted filled his humble mind,
Not on himself, but on his Lord relied,
And, in his boundless love exulting, died."

Against the same wall, on a tablet:—

"Near this place lie deposited the remains of CHARLES VINER,[i] Esq. Barrister at Law, who died June 5, 1756, aged 78 years. His widow, Mrs. Raleigh Viner, died January 3, 1761, aged 79 years. Also of JOHN ELWES WEEKES, Esq. who died January 6, 1762, in the 78th year of his age, and ordered this monument to be erected to perpetuate the memory of him and his beloved sister. The first a generous benefactor to the University of Oxford; the two last kind and charitable to their poor neighbours."

[i] The magnificent bequest of this gentleman to the University of Oxford, his consequent association with Judge Blackstone and his Commentaries, not forgetting his own learned work, have insured an immortality to his name as long as England shall be a civilised country. The compiler of Chalmers's Biographical Dictionary, in stating that he died at his house at Aldershot, adds, "at what age we know not." The monumental inscription corrects this omission; as it likewise does the not unnatural guess of the compiler, viz. "that he was of the profession of the law may be supposed."

In the preface to the 13th vol. of the folio edition of the Abridgements (which was the first volume published) is the following passage: "The commencement of this work was writ in the present century, at which time I was admitted a member of the Honourable Society of the Middle Temple, and attended, as a student, the Courts of Westminster." According to the entries, Mr. Viner was admitted 27 Nov. 1700. In Bridgeman's Legal Bibliography, p. 351, it is stated that, not only was the work printed at Aldershot, but that the paper was manufactured under the author's eye, whose initials C. V. are in watermark.

There is an achievement against the north wall of the chancel for Captain Newnham. Arms: Argent, a cross between four escallops azure, on a chief gules a lion passant guardant or, impaling, Per pale azure and argent, three lion's rampant counterchanged. Crest: a demi-lion argent, holding an escallop azure.

The list of benefactions consists of a sum of 1*l.* 10*s.* per annum, arising from a legacy of Mrs. Raleigh Viner, abovementioned, to be paid by the overseer to the poor; and a church clock, presented in 1810 by the Rev. G. West, M.A. then minister of Aldershot.[j]

CRONDALL.

This Church, dedicated to All Saints, consists of a nave, two side aisles, and a chancel. The registers are in excellent preservation. The earliest dates are as follow:—Christenings 1569; Marriages 1576; Burials 1575.

The Chancel is separated from the nave by a horse-shoe arch, with a rich double zig-zag moulding. There is also a similar arch in the centre of the chancel, resting on clustered columns with foliated capitals. The piers in both cases incline outwards. The roof has a cross groining with a nail-headed course and a foliated

[j] In Hants, K. 8, St. George's Visitation in 1686, are some drawings of banners, &c. relating to the church of Aldershot, "taken by William Smith, sometime Rouge Dragon pursuivant of Arms, now in the possession of Clarenceux, 1695."

1. A tracing of the shields on Sir John White's monument.
2. Tracings of several pennons, viz. 1. St. George's cross, with the crest of White, and motto, "In D'no confido." 2. St. George's cross. 3. Arms of White. 4. Arms of Grocers' Company, Argent, a chevron gules between nine cloves sable. 5. Barry nebuly argent and azure, a chief quarterly argent and gules, in 1 and 4 two roses, in 2 and 3 a lion passant guardant or: coat of the Company of Merchants Adventurers. 6. White. 7. Foster and Bradley quarterly, on two banners.
3. Tracings of two surcoats with the arms of White, surmounted by helms and crests; the one for Sir John, the other for his son Robert. These two helmets still hang up on the right and left of the east window.

James the First, who took much notice of the Tichborne family, was no less than three times at Aldershot. First, on the 2nd of September 1618, when he knighted Sir Benjamin Tichborne the younger, brother of Sir Richard and Sir Walter. Secondly, on the 17th of August 1622, when he issued a summons to Sir Richard Houghton, Bart. "given at our Court at Aldershott;" and again, towards the end of August in the following year. [See Nichols's Progresses.] Charles the First was also there on the 24th of August 1627. (Finetti Philoxenis, p. 221.) The old house, surrounded by a moat, with a drawbridge, was pulled down many years since. The present owner, Mr. Barron, has a residence near the site.

boss. The compartment over the communion table has a similar groining, but the boss is an Agnus Dei.

The east window is entirely gone, having been replaced by a frightful modern light. Against the north wall are vestiges of two windows, one a single lancet, the other appearing to have been a double one. Both the south windows are of a very late date, and common character.

The nave is separated from the side aisles by four circular arches resting on circular columns with enriched capitals; six have the fan moulding, the rest are foliated.

The clerestory windows are, on the north side, four lancets with small columns and fan capitals; on the south side there are three, but irregular, without columns, and in part blocked up. There is a plain string-course on either side. The west window is modern; of the ancient one two small columns with foliated capitals remain. The south aisle is parted off at its eastern extremity for the pews belonging to Ewshot estate. At the east end of the north aisle, and on the south side, is a piscina with a plain ogee arch. The royal arms, on the west side over the central arch, are dated A. R. 1703. The font is rude and simple.

The original tower no longer exists. The present tower, built of brick, stands on the north side of the chancel, and was erected in 1659 at a cost of 312*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.*

The north door of the aisle is Norman, with a zig-zag and nail-headed moulding. The door at the west end is also circular, with a plain moulding, having a face in the centre. The door on the south side is now blocked up.

Chancel.—Against the north wall is a monument of black marble with a shield bearing quarterly,

1. Vert, a lion rampant argent.

2. Argent, three bars gules, in chief three lion's heads erased of the second. Love.

3. Or, on a chevron gules three . . . . or, between three columbines slipped proper. Colnet.

4. Or, a lion rampant argent, holding a dragon vert, perhaps Dauncy,[a] but the colours are not correct.

[a] The arms on this shield are very confused. Instead of being Rivers impaling Colnet, the first is a quartering of Love; the third the maiden arms, viz. Colnet; and the fourth doubtful. In the pedigrees of Colnet and Love in Vincent 130, Coll. Arm. this lady appears under the less euphonious name of Dousabella. Barnabas Colnet was of Combley in the Isle of Wight, and had several children by his wife Elizabeth, the sister of Sir Richard Mills. The charges of the chevron in the coat of Colnet are beyond the reach of heraldic description.

"P. M. S.

On the same side is a handsome canopied monument of stone, lamentably whitewashed many years since, and the inscription in parts mutilated, as if by design.

Under the arch of the canopy are three shields of arms in colours, that in the centre bearing quarterly of nine coats, viz.

1. Sable, three swords in pile argent, pommeled and hilted or, points downwards. Paulet.
2. Gules, three water-bougets argent. Ros.
3. Barry of six or and vert, a bendlet gules; a crescent for difference. Poynings.
4. Argent, on a chief gules two mullets or. St. John.
5. Gules, two lions passant argent. Delamare.
6. Barry of six ermine and gules. Hussey.
7. Azure, a fess between three fleurs de lys or. Skelton.
8. Argent, a fret sable, a canton of the same. Ireby.
9. [Argent,] [c] six martlets sable, 3, 2, 1. Walshe;

[b] Nicholas Love (the regicide) was the eldest son of this Dr. Love and Dousabella Colnett. He took refuge, on the Restoration, together with Ludlow, Broughton, Lisle, and others, in Switzerland. The latter gentleman, as is well known, was murdered, and (as some partisans of the Stuarts admit,) by the procurement of the Queen Dowager herself! The two others, and Mr. Love, escaped these suborned assassins, and died and were buried in the church at Vevay, where their monuments still exist; but that which covers the remains of Mr. Love was so obscured by a row of seats, that the name only was to be distinguished when the compiler saw it some years ago.

[c] This coat should be argent, a fess between six martlets, &c.

impaling quarterly,

1. Argent, a saltire gules between four eagles displayed azure. Hampden.

2. Or, a pheon azure. Sidney.

Dexter shield, Paulet, with the quarterings, impaling quarterly,

1 and 4. Or, a chevron between three pellets,[d] on a chief gules a lion passant argent. Larke.

2 and 3. Gules, on a bend argent a fleur-de-lys of the first between two storks azure, beaked and langued of the third.

Sinister shield, Paulet, with the quarterings, impaling quarterly,

1. Gules, a saltire argent [between twelve cross-crosslets or]. Windsor.

2. Barry nebuly of six or and sable. Blount.

5. Azure, fretty argent. Molines.

10. Gules, five lions rampant [or], 1, 3, and 1. Bintworth.

11. [Argent,] a chevron sable between three mullets gules pierced [or]. Sambourne.

12. Ermine, a lion passant gules. Drewe.

13. Argent, five fusils in pale gules, a bordure azure. Lushill. The bordure should be charged with bezants; they are possibly obliterated.

[d] The pellets should be charged each with a lark, and the chevron with an etoile argent.

[e] One of these is the coat of Andrews; both, in fact, resemble coats of that name.

The inscription is in three compartments below :—

"George and Jane[f] . . . . . .
the goodnes of God in the londe of lyfe. Thys Jane had issue one sone, and deceased the eare of our Lord 1532, yielding unto God the work of his hands.

"Barbara and George . . . . . .
of thys Barbara he had issue ii sonnes and ii daughters; her lyfe God tooke to his greate goodnes the eare of our Lorde God 1552.

"And nowe, in the eare of our Lord 1558, God toke to his Almighty mercy the sayde Syr George . . . . .
. . . . . he had issue of this Elysabeth iii sonnes and ii daughters."

In pannels below are three shields, bearing three coats in each, like a double impalement.

The centre shield has St. John, Delamare, and Hussey.

The dexter Paulet, Ros, and Poynings.

The sinister shield has Skelton, Ireby, and ——— (probably Walshe).

Against this wall is an achievement bearing Azure, three fleurs de lys argent, impaling, Argent, on a fess double-voided gules three eagle's heads erased or, Birch, impaling Dashwood.

South Wall.—A marble monument ornamented with sculptured fruit, cherubs, skulls, and urns.

Arms: Azure, a pale fretty between two mullets or; impaling Sable, a griffon segreant ermine.

[f] This is the monument of Sir George Paulett, of Crondall, third son of Sir John Paulett, of Basing, K.B. by Alice, or Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Paulett, of Hinton St. George. His first wife, Jane, was daughter of Peter Larke, of Thetford, co. Norfolk. His second, Barbara, was daughter of Sir John Hampden, of Hampden; and his third, Elizabeth, was daughter of William Lord Windsor. The will of Sir George was proved in the year of his decease, viz. 1558, and his wife Elizabeth survived him. He names, besides her, his brother the Marquess of Winchester; his father-in-law the Lord Windsor; his son-in-law Thomas Chandler, and his wife Mable, his daughter; his son William Paulett, and his wife Agnes. His sons Anthony, Hamden, George (who was to have the "ferme of Crondall," &c.) and Giles; and his daughters Elizabeth, Mary, and G.... The pedigree of this branch given by Edmondson, is, with the exception of an error in the reference which shews Sir George's descent, tolerably accurate.

"Near this place lye interred PETER WALRAVEN,[g] Esq. who was strictly just in his life and manners; prudent in his conduct, and amiable in his conversation, remarkable for being one of the best husbands, ever ready to do all good offices to all who wanted, and were really worthy of them, sincere in friendship where he professed it, and never professing it but where he thought it was truly deserved; at last, after he had wisely enjoyed an easy fortune in a happy retirement, having had but one day's illness, he fell asleep. This monument was erected by Henrietta Walraven, in memory of her dear husband Peter Walraven, whose desire was, at her decease, that she should be laid in the same vault by him. He died December the 10th, 1737, aged 62."

Against this wall, is a small canopied monument of Purbeck marble; three brass shields, formerly in the upper pannelling, are gone; as are those in the pannelling below. Under the canopy is a shield bearing ten roundels, surmounted by the crest: viz. a hand holding three carnations. Below are the figures of a man and woman kneeling; behind him are the figures of five sons; behind her are those of eight daughters. The brasses of the man and of the daughters alone remain.

Inscription:—

"Here under lyeth the body of JOHN GIFFORD,[h] Esquier, heyre apparent of Syr William Gyfford, Knyght, who had to [g] There was a grant of arms, but totally unlike the above, to Sir John Walraven, Envoy to Amsterdam in 1718.

[h] The arms of this family of Gifford were Argent, ten torteaux. They are stated to be descended from the Giffords of Brimsfield. Sir William Gifford married Eleanor, one of the sisters of Sir George Paulett. There are some discrepancies in the descents of this family, as recorded in D. 13, and G.16. MS. Coll. Arm. Sir Wm. Gifford's will was proved in 1548. He desires to be buried at Crondall, and names his wife Johan (who was probably his second wife, a daughter of Sir John Rogers), son Jerome Gifford, daughter Alice, daughter Mary, and son Haydock (probably husband of Mary), nephew Kingsmill, god-daughter Barbara Paulett; and makes his son Richard Gifford residuary legatee. The will of his son John Gifford of Itchelc was proved in the year of his decease, viz. 1563. He names his wife Elizabeth, son George Gifford, daughters Elizabeth, Milicent, Grisegan, Mary, and Jane. He mentions his manors of Itchell, Cove, and Usshot (sc. Ewshot): also the manor of Weston in Gloucestershire, and lands at Norton in the same county. The Visitation (G. 16) names three of the four other sons, viz. John, William, and Richard; and one of the three other daughters, viz. Katharine, married to ——— More of Oxfordshire. Of the remaining daughters, Elizabeth was wife of ——— Fitzhugh, Milicent of John Clavill of Purbeck, Grisegan of Edward Gray, son to wyfe Elizabeth, one of the dawghters of Syr George Throckmorton, Knyght, and had by her issue fyve sonnes and viii daughters, and so changed this mortall lyfe the fyrst day of May in the yere of our Lorde God 1563, on whose soule Jesu have mercy."

A slab of white marble:—

"Sacred to the memory of LYDIA DIANA, the beloved wife of GEO. BIRCH, Esq. of Clare, in this parish, and daughter of the Rev. Francis Samuel Dashwood, of Stamford Hall, in the county of Nottingham, and of Lydia Boughton his wife. She departed this life on the 8th of January 1837, in the 30th year of her age. To the best gifts of nature were added the richer graces of God's Holy Spirit, which shone brightly on her life, supported her through long and painful illness, and to the last imparted perfect peace. The following lines, written by herself, may best shew the calm confidence of her hope in death.

'I go through darkness to unclouded light,
Thro' pain and suffering to eternal joys;
Oh! for a voice to speak the calm delight
That all my being, all my soul employs.
Rejoice o'er one so early, truly blest,
Borne by a Saviour to a Father's rest.'

On the floor adjoining the communion table are three slabs.

The first covers the remains of Peter Walraven.

The second had originally a brass (apparently a female) with an inscription, and two shields of arms.

The third had also a female brass, with an inscription, but without arms.

On the floor near the north door of the chancel:—

Crest: out of a ducal crown, a hand holding a spear.

"Here lyeth the body of SUSANNA BAKER, the wife of Henry Baker, Esq. and mother of Henrietta Walraven, wife of Peter Walraven, Esq. of Montgomery's; she died December the 21st 1728, aged 82."

the Lord Powis; Mary of Sir Richard Baker, of Kent, and Jane of Edward Yate of Buckland, in Berkshire. The Visitation G. 16, Coll. Arm. makes the sister of this John Gifford marry a Goddard, of Wiltshire; and in I. C. 22, p. 42, Thomas Goddard, of Upham, Wilts, is stated to marry Anne, sister of Sir George Gifford, of Bucks.

Arms: two bars and a canton, impaling a chevron between three [wolf's] heads erased.

"Here lyeth the body of Mrs. MARY DEANE, the wife of Robert Deane, Esq. of this parish, who departed this life the 2 of Sept. Anno Dom. 1731.

"Also, here lies the body of Mr. ROBERT DEANE, only son of the abovesaid Robert and Mary Deane, who departed this life on the 30th of Jan. Anno Dom. 1731, in the 20th year of his age."

On a slab adjoining was formerly an inscriptive brass, but no effigy.

Close by this is a very fine brass of an ecclesiastic, about four feet in length. It has no inscription; but vestiges of rich canopy work, &c. are visible.

Against the south wall of this part of the chancel is a plain white marble slab:—

"Sacred to the memory of the Revd JOHN LOCKMAN CRANE, A.M. late Vicar of this parish, who died May 23rd, 1808, aged 38 years."

NAVE.—On the floor a blue slab:

Arms: Barry nebuly of eight.

"Here lyes interred ye Reverd Mr. RICHARD PAULEY, late Vicker of Crondol, who dyed ye 31 of July 1713, aged 66 years."

There are three slabs, of which the inscriptions are now illegible. One commemorates Judith Terry, daughter of Mr. Richard Terry; the other Mr. —— Terry, with the date 1696.

Another slab is inscribed to "WILLIAM BAKER, of Swanthrop, gent. who died 7th of April 1713, aged 31, son of William Baker, Vicar of Sparshott, in this county, and Jane his wife, grandson and great-grandson of William Baker, of Swanthrop; also the body of William Baker the grandfather, who died 28th Feb. 1680."

There are also slabs for

"RICHARD DEANE, gent. died 18 Oct. 17—, aged 63; also DOROTHY his wife, died 12 March 1736, aged 60."

"MARY, wife of Michael Eyre, niece of Mr. Deane, died 2 June 1737, aged 30."

And "NICHOLAS DEANE, died Nov. 3, 1761, aged 55."

Against the south wall are two achievements. The first bears: Henshaw, with the impalement, as on the monument. The other has: Arms: Quarterly, 1 and 4, Or, a demi-lion rampant sable; 2 and 3, Sable, two dolphins argent, ducally crowned or; impaling, Azure, a fess vaire between three leopard's heads argent, jessant-de-lys. Crest: Out of a ducal crown a demi-lion rampant sable.

South Wall.—A marble slab:—"JOHN HENSHAW, Esq. son of Walter Henshaw, late of Clear Place, died Nov. 10, 1789, aged 46. Also ELIZABETH his wife, died Nov. 22, 1816, aged 76."

Arms: Argent, a chevron ermine between two cocks sable; impaling, Per pale sable and or, three eagles displayed counter-changed.

Also a similar slab to "ELIZABETH HARDING, who died Sept. 30, 1763, aged 76.

And another to "RICHARD TERRY, gent. who died Dec. 6, 1726, aged 52, and Elizabeth his widow, who died Sept. 4, 1765, aged 75."

On a black marble slab against the north wall of the nave, erected, as is stated, by the testator's directions, is an inscription shewing that Mr. JOHN ANDREWS, by will dated 30 Nov. 1830, bequeathed 513*l.* accruing under a policy of insurance in the Norwich Union Office, and which was bought into the 3 per cents. in the names of trustees, and now amounts to 556*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* The interest is laid out annually as directed, on the 25th of January, being the feast of the Conversion of St. Paul, in the purchase of blankets and shoes for distribution amongst poor persons in the parish.

There is also another benefaction, under the will of Henry Maxwell, Esq. of Ewshott, who died in 1818, of 1,238*l.* 15*s.* 2*d.* to endow a school for 72 boys.

A part of the south aisle has been detached, and now forms a sort of side chapel, with pews for the Ewshott estate.

Against the south wall is an old brass with the recumbent figure of a skeleton, and inscribed,

"JOHN EAGER, died March xx. 1641.

"You earthly impes which here behold
This picture with your eyes,
Remember the end of mortall men,
And where their glory dies."

Against the west wall is a marble monument. Crest, an eagle regarding a sun. Inscription commemorating HENRY MAX-

WELL, Esq. late of Ewshott House, and of Ramsbury, Wilts; son of James Maxwell, Esq. M.D. by Sarah his wife, who died July 22, 1818, aged 70; and desired to be buried near the remains of Dorothy Jemima his wife, and Elizabeth their only child.

Arms below: a saltire charged with a heart; impaling, Sable, a cross flory voided or.

A marble monument nearly similar and adjoining, commemorates DOROTHY JEMIMA, wife of Henry Maxwell, "whose elegant and lovely form was, on the 31st of March 1789, brought suddenly to the grave by her dress catching fire whilst her attention was engaged in writing. She was third daughter of Edward Brydges, Esq. of Wootton Court, co. Kent, descended from the third son of the first Lord Chandos;[i] her mother was Jemima, daughter and coheiress of William Egerton, D.D. grandson of John second Earl of Bridgwater and of Elizabeth, daughter of the Marquis of Newcastle."

Arms: Maxwell impaling quarterly of five:—1. Argent, on a cross sable a leopard's head or. Brydges. 2. Quarterly 1 and 4, France, 2 and 3, England. 3. Argent, a lion rampant gules between three pheons sable. Egerton. 4. Argent, on a bend azure three buck's heads caboshed or. Stanley. 5. Barry of ten argent and gules, a lion rampant crowned or. Brandon.

Against the south-west pillar is a white marble slab, to the memory of GEORGE LEFROY, eldest son of the late Rev. John Henry George Lefroy, of Ewshott House, and Rector of Ash, in this county, and Sophia his wife, born 10 June 1807, died at Winchester College 15 March 1824, aged 17."

Against the south wall are three achievements:—

1. Maxwell impaling Brydges, with the crest.

2. Same impaling same with quarterings, but no crest.

3. The achievement of the Rev. J. H. G. Lefroy. Arms: Argent, fretty vert, on a chief of the first a hawk's lure between two wyverns gules; impaling, Argent, a bend between three escallops, 2 and 1, sable. Crest: a demi-wyvern gules.

[i] This was the allegation made by the claimant of that dignity in 1790, but negatived by the decision of the House of Lords in 1803, as it was not established that Robert Brydges of Maidstone, his admitted ancestor, who died in 1636, was the son of Anthony Brydges, third surviving son of John first Lord Chandos.

FARNBOROUGH.

This Church, dedicated to All Saints, consists of a nave and chancel. The chancel is separated from the nave by a screen of no early workmanship, and the royal arms on the chancel screen were renewed in 1815.

On the floor is the entrance to a large vault.

The east window is plain, square-mullioned, with eight lights. On the north and south side are modern ill-shaped wooden windows. The font is not deserving of notice; and the windows of the nave are, with the exception of two broad lancet lights, poor and modern.

There is a plain modern tower of wood, with a low slated spire, at the west end, repaired about nine years ago.

On the south side of the nave are the remains of a small Norman door with a plain billet moulding. There is also on this side a door communicating with the chancel, of the time of Henry the Eighth.

On the north side of the nave is a wooden porch of open cinque-foil-headed pannelling, restored in parts at a recent date. The door within exhibits good remains of Norman work, viz. foliated capitals to the columns, and a nail-headed moulding to the arch.

The chancel has two different roofings; the western division running at right angles to the roofing of the nave, and of the eastern part.

On the north side of the churchyard is a monument to Edward Barnard King, Captain in the 34th foot, who died Jan. 11, 1799, aged 24; also to George Lavicomb, son of E. B. King and Sarah his wife, who died March 9, 1798, aged eight months and two weeks.

The earliest entries in the register are in 1584, and appear to have been copied from an original book. The present book being dated "1599," and headed, "The registered Church book of Farnborowe for Christenings, Weddings, and Burials, made the 10th day of April, in the one and fortieth year of the reign of the most gracious sovereign Lady Elizabeth, by the grace of God Queen of England, France, and Ireland, Defender of the ancient Xtian Catholic Faith; and now written in parchment for divers good and godly considerations."

The register is in excellent order. Between 1654 and 1656 are six entries of marriages performed by the Justices of the Peace.

This is a rectory in the patronage of John Clayton, Esq. of Pulteney Street, Bath, and the present Incumbent is the Rev. J. H. Clayton.

The church is agreeably situated in Mr. Morant's park, within a short distance of the house, near which are two Spanish chestnuts and a cedar of very large dimensions.

CHANCEL.—North side.—A mural monument of marble, with a shield bearing a chevron between three crosses flory, Sterne; impaling a chevron between three swans. Inscription [a] :—

On a mural tablet of white marble :—

" To the memory of KATHERINE SOPHIA COX, relict of Joseph Cox, Esq. of Stanford, Berks, who died Jan. 13th, 1780, in the 76th year of her age. . . . . ."

On a slab of white marble :—

" To the memory of ANN, wife of JAMES LUDOVICK GRANT, Esq. of Farnborough Hill, married 20th May 1794; deceased 20th Jan. 1814, aged 41 years; whose remains are deposited in the vault of this church.

' Gone is the beauty of that modest flow'r,
So sweet, so lovely in its vernal bloom,
The noontide sun hath drank the morning show'r,
And death hath pluck'd it to adorn the tomb.

[a] This inscription is given in Le Neve's Monumenta Anglicana. Richard Sterne, Archbishop of York, was translated from Carlisle in 1664, and died in 1683, aged 87. He was Laud's chaplain, and a zealous Churchman. Lawrence Sterne was, according to Brooke, 94, p. 108, Coll. Arm., his great-grandson ; and this is further confirmed by a pedigree in the possession of C. G. Young, Esq. York Herald.

Transplanted hence to Eden's blissful soil,
Its form shall brighten, and its bloom revive,
Nurtur'd by Him whom blights can ne'er despoil,
The flower now wither'd shall for ever live.

So she, whose soul hath left this frail abode,
Shall rise immortal summon'd by her God.' "

On a slab of white marble:—

"To the memory of JOHANNA, wife of EDWARD PLOMER, of George Street, Adelphi, London, Solicitor, who died at Cove on the 22nd day of March 1823, and whose remains are deposited in the vault of this church."

On a slab of white marble:—

"To memory of VALENTINE HENRY WILMOT, son of Henry and Sarah Wilmot. He died on the fourth day of June 1819, in the sixty-second year of his age."

On an ornamented mural tablet of white marble:—

"To the memory of HENRY WILMOT,[b] Esq. of Farnborough Place, in this parish. The reputation he acquired in his profession, is the best testimony of his superior abilities and integrity; his social qualities and conviviality are remembered with regret by all who knew him. Those who enjoyed his friendship, experienced the firmness and sincerity of it. His tenderness in connections still more near and sacred, with the peculiar liberality he displayed in the use of an affluence, chiefly acquired by his own industry, are deeply felt by his surviving family, and imprinted on the mind of his grateful son, who erects this slight memorial of his father's worth. He met death with cheerfulness and exultation on the 3rd of August 1794, aged 84."

The arms of Wilmot with an impalement, now obliterated, were originally painted below this inscription.

South side of the chancel.—On a mural monument of white marble:—

"To the memory of Lieut.-General FRANCIS GRANT, fourth son of Sir James Grant, of Grant, Bart. in whom the brave and active soldier, the affectionate husband, father, friend, were conspicuously united. He quitted this mortal life for an happy immortality, universally lamented, Dec. the 29th 1781, aged sixty-three."

[b] He was an eminent Conveyancer and Solicitor, of Gray's Inn, and known in the profession at that period by the sobriquet of "the Giant." He was admitted of that Inn, from Furnival's Inn, on the 30th of March 1739.

On a white slab: "To the memory of CATHARINE SOPHIA GRANT, widow of the late Lieut.-Gen. Francis Grant, who died the 11th of May 1806, aged 67 years."

On an oval slab of white marble:—"To the memory of ELIZABETH SARAH, wife of JAMES SETON, of London, and daughter of Henry and Sarah Wilmot. She died at Clifton on the fifth of February 1803, aged 43."

A mural tablet of white marble: "To the memory of MARY, wife of GEORGE MORANT, Esq. of Farnborough Place, who died Feb. 17, 1828, aged 47 years."

Another, "To the memory of SARAH, wife of HENRY WILMOT, Esq. of Farnborough Place, in this parish, who departed this life the 25 of March 1793, aged 69 years." The arms, originally painted below this monument, are obliterated.

A white slab, "To the memory of Mrs. CAROLINE MORRIS, who departed this life August the 23rd, 1797."

On the floor, near the communion rails, is a slab inscribed to "JAMES LUDOWICK GRANT, son of James Ludowick and Anne Grant, died 11 June 1798, aged 9 months and 11 days."

On another slab: "Here are interred the remains of SHEFFIELD DIGBY, third son of William Digby, late Dean of Durham, and Charlotte his wife, and great-grandson of the late William Lord Digby,[c] of Coleshill, in Warwickshire, upon the 12th of December 1793, in the 18th year of his age."

Another slab, covering the remains of "the Rev. JOHN RICHARDS, died 12 July 1825, aged 82; 47 years Rector of this parish."

Under another slab, reposes the body of HENRY DELAFONT,[d] died August . . . 17 . . . aged 76; 32 years Rector . . . . This inscription seems to have been rubbed out intentionally.

A slab in front of the communion table covers the remains of GENERAL GRANT beforementioned; and an adjoining slab is marked with the initials K. S.

Near the north wall is a broken slab, on which what remains of inscription seems to be as follows:—

[c] William fifth Lord Digby.

[d] The Rev. Henry Delafont, Rector, buried Aug. 25, 1778. Reg.

. . . . buried the body of
. . . . DICKINSON,[e] sometime servant

. . . . and departed this liefe the
. . . . 1630, being of the age
. . . . one sone and fower . . .

In the Nave, against the south wall, is a monument of white marble, surmounted by an urn: "To the memory of GEORGE LAMB, citizen of London, who died March 16, 1791, aged 54."

Against the north wall is a plain slab, for ANN BROOKS, wife of Thomas Brooks, who died the 21st of August 1809, aged 56.

On the floor: "Here lyeth the body of MARY LAMB, wife of George Lamb, citizen of London, who departed this life the 24 day of November 1767, aged 30."

Traces of two inscriptive brasses appear on adjoining slabs.

The following inscription is painted on a board against the north wall, in the form of a benefaction: "Near this place lieth the body of Mr. WILLIAM PARKES, of this parish, who died on the 2nd day of December 1730, aged 88 years. He left, by his will, freehold lands in Cove, in the parish of Yately, the rents, &c. to be paid on the 21st of December yearly," &c. &c.

In the chancel are the following achievements:—

1. Arms: Gules, three crowns or, a mullet argent for difference, Grant; impaling, Argent, three cocks gules. Crest: A burning mount proper, with the motto "STAND FAST." surmounting it.

2. Gules, a fess argent, fretty sable, between three talbots sejant or, Morant; impaling, Quarterly, 1 and 4, Paly of six or and azure, a canton ermine, Shirley;[f] 2 and 3, quarterly France and England within a border azure.

He mentions his wife Bridget, son James, and daughters Elizabeth, Lucy, Mary, and Susan.

LONG SUTTON.

This Church, dedicated to All Saints, consists of a chancel, nave, and south aisle, or chapel.

The chancel is lighted by two very narrow lancets at the east end, and one on the north and south side of a similar character. It is is separated from the nave by a wooden screen, of comparatively modern date, but exhibiting traces of the time of Henry the Seventh or Eighth.

The nave is separated from the south aisle by a pointed arch, resting on low circular columns with plain capitals. The west window has two trefoil lights with a quatrefoil heading.

On the north side are three windows: 1. A very narrow lan-

[h] The achievement of Mary, daughter of John Thompson, Lord Haversham, wife of Arthur Annesley, Earl of Anglesey. She died in 1719, and was buried at Farnborough, as was her husband in 1737. "If a stranger should be brought asleep out of London, and awake in the Forest, as they call it, he would think himself in Westphalia, it being all over heath and furz as there, and not a house to be seen all the way, except a hunting seat of the Earl of Anglesea's called Farnborough, which makes the better appearance, standing in so coarse a country, and being very well planted with trees." (Macky's Journey through England, 1722, ii. 11.)

The present Rector, the Rev. J. H. Clayton, states that there are many entries of the Annesley family in the register between 1662 and 1737.

Richard Power, Earl of Tyrone, was buried Nov. 3, 1690. (Register.) He died in the Tower of London on the 14th Oct. preceding; having married in 1654 Dorothy, daughter of Arthur Earl of Anglesey. (Lodge's Peerage of Ireland, edit. Archdall, 1789, ii. 307,) cet. 2. Two plain roundheaded lights. 3. A window similar to that at the west end.

The south aisle has an east window of three broad lancets.

The south side is lighted by two trefoil windows. Between the east window and the nearest of the south side windows, is a good trefoiled niche under a foliated canopy.

The font is plain and circular.

The register commences in 1561, and is in very good preservation. Amongst the volumes is a remarkable one of date between 1680 and 1753, containing entries of burials, certifyed by the signs manual, and in some cases attested by the seals, of the magistrates, that the parties were buried in woollen. The names of St. John, Cope, Pitt, Jervoise, Tilney, Tichborne, and Brocas, with many others, may be noticed.

The church is small, with a low wooden tower in the centre, having a low spire of shingles. The south porch is plain. On the south side is a pointed arch door. There are, in the churchyard, two yew trees of large dimensions. It is a Perpetual Curacy of about 43*l.* per annum; the impropriator being the Master of the Hospital of St. Cross, by Winchester.

Chancel.—Within the communion rails, on a stone slab :—

"Heer lyeth buried ye bodye of Elizabeth, ye daughter of William and Elizabeth Greene, cittizens of London, who rendered up her spirit to him that gave it, ye 12th daye of November 1658."

On a slab without the rails: "In this vault resteth ye bodies of Thomas Eed, who died September 1742, aged –9 years. Also Thomas, son of ye above Thomas Eed by Eliz. his wife [who died] September the 12th [17—], aged 22 years."

Below is some poetry nearly obliterated.

"Hic jacet Samuel filius Samuelis
. . . Blundell qui in Dei manus
. . animam efflavit vicessimo
[secundo] die Maii a^o 1663, ætatis
[suæ sep]timo . . . dimidio bonæ
. . . et eximiæ spei puer ad
. . . ira jacent ante sepultæ
. . . sorores ipso natu.
. . . . . Sarah Avicia."

Between the nave and the south aisle or chapel, is a stone which had formerly brasses of a man and his wife, with their children, and four shields at the four corners.

YATELY.

This Church, dedicated to St. Peter, consists of a nave, chancel, and south aisle.

The chancel is lighted at the east end by three lancet windows, that in the centre being the tallest. On the north side is a single lancet window, the second being closed up. The south side had three lancets, all now closed up. The font is perfectly plain, and is placed within the communion rails. The north door has been closed up; but the south door is still used. There is a an achievement with the coat and crest of Wyndham.

The nave is separated from the south aisle by four pointed arches, resting on low octagonal columns with plain capitals. On the north side is a window of two cinquefoil-headed lights, a similar window with a square heading of four trefoiled lights, and a double lancet.

The royal arms are of the date 1660.

The south aisle has an east window of three ogee-headed lights. On the south side are a small double lancet and three windows of two cinquefoiled lights, two being under ogee canopies.

The floor within the communion rails has some figured tiles, principally stags, lions, and fleurs-de-lys.

Under the south window of the chancel is an hexagonal stoup, with a circular place for the bread adjoining.

On the south side of the exterior, is a door to the aisle now closed up. The north porch has a circular door with remains of a billeted moulding within a beading. The tower is modern, and of wood. There is a lych gate. The date seen upon it by Mr. Caley[a] in 1794 (viz. 1625) no longer exists.

[a] A partial account of this church, with the monumental inscriptions, is given in the meagre History of Hampshire, published under the name of Mr. Warner. It was derived from a communication sent, the year preceding (1794) to the Gentleman's Magazine by the late John Caley, Esq. F.S.A. [See Gent. Mag. vol. LXIV. part ii. p. 984.] A note of this monument, but not the inscription in full, is there given. The arms, now obliterated, are stated to have been "Or, on a chevron sable three birds erased," (meaning, it is presumed, eagle's heads erased) "argent; crescent for difference, impaling Arg. two bars, for Goodwin." Dean Goodwin was Member for Blechingley in the reign of Charles the Second.

The earliest date of the register is 1636, and the first books are, I am informed, imperfect.

CHANCEL.—Against the north wall is a marble monument surmounted by an urn, with this inscription :—

" Near this place lies interred the body of WALTER PHILLIPS, late of this parish, gentleman, who married Katherine, one of the daughters of Dean Goodwin, of Blechingly, in the county of Surrey, Esq. They lived in happy wedlock for the space of 35 yeares, and had four children, three of which died young. The said Walter Phillips departed this life the 10th of April 1715, in the 80th year of his age.

Psalm 73, v. 26.

" A state like mine thine own is sure to be, Redeem the time that swiftly flies from thee."

" Here also lies buried the said Mrs. KATHERINE PHILLIPS, who came to mingle with his beloved dust, ye 17th May 1718, in ye 67th year of her age."

On the north side is also a large column of white marble, surmounted by a plain urn of the same material, standing within a sort of niche of black marble.[b] It has no inscription, but on the top is a shield bearing, on a bend cotised three fusils, Ryves, impaling a fess between three crescents, Lee.

[b] Mr. Caley calls this a mural monument, though it can hardly be so styled, and gives the following inscription. This is now no where to be found, and is supposed, in all probability, to be on a slab below, concealed by the pews :—

" Memoriæ sacrum. Here lieth the body of Sir RICHARD RYVES, Knt. Sheriff and Alderman of London, who was born in the county of Dorsett, descended of an ancient and gentile family of that name in the said county. He married Joyce, the daughter of Henry Lee of London, merchant; the piety of which relict lady hath erected this monument to the memory of her dear deceased husband ; intending, when she shall lay down her earthly tabernacle, to make her bed in the same grave, there to rest with him in hope of a joyful resurrection. He departed this life in the 60th yeare of his age, Aug. 23, in the year of the incarnation of our Saviour Christ Jesus, 1671." He was of the Drapers' Company, and Sheriff in 1663. In his will, proved in 1671, he mentions his wife, and his late brother John Ryves, of Kensington, deceased ; John the only son of his late brother ; and Christian and Lettice, his brother's daughters ; also his sister Eleanor Staveley and her children. He calls his seat at Yately " Hall Place," and leaves 50*l.* to be laid out in land, the rents to go annually to the poor of Yately. It thus appears that there was a double connexion between him and the Helyar family, and he may possibly have been the Sir Richard mentioned in the pedigree of Ryves of Damory Court by Hutchins, as nephew to Bruno Ryves, Dean of Windsor in 1660. The pedigree of Lee is in Coll. Arm. C. 24.

Against the south wall is a monument of black marble, inscribed:—

D. O. M.
Corpus ELIZÆ.
GEORGII PRINCE uxoris, infra hunc murum deponi
hoc marmor fatetur.
Nat. XXVIII. Jan. MDCCXVI.
Mor. XXXI. Jan. MDCCLXIX.
Ætat. LIII.
Heu prisca fides!
Hei mihi qualis erat!
Talis erat qualem
nunquam vidi.
G. P.

On the same side is a mural monument of white marble, with a figure of Hymen having his head depressed and torch reversed, and weeping:—

"Near this place rest the remains of Dame BETTY MILES, widow of Sir Jonathan Miles, Knight, formerly of Sneaton Hall, in the county of York, who departed this life Nov. 13, 1834, aged 63 years. This memorial of a pious and exemplary mother, and of their grateful affection, is mournfully dedicated by her four surviving children."

On the floor, within the communion rails: "Here lyeth the body of Mr. THOMAS RAY, who departed this life in the fear of the Lord ye 2d day of March 1703, aged 83 years."

On an adjoining slab:— ". . . . body of A . . . wife of Mr. JOHN . . . . . daughter of Mr. Thomas Ray, who died ye 9th . . . aged 33 years."

Without the rails, on a blue slab, the crest and coat of Wyndham, with an inescocheon bearing a cross flory between four mullets:—

"Here lieth the body of THOMAS WYNDHAM, Esq. eldest son of Thomas Wyndham, [c] Esq. of Hawkechurch, in the county

[c] In Warner. The pedigree of the Wyndhams of Hawkchurch is given in the third volume of Hutchins's Dorsetshire, p. 330. Thomas Wyndham of Hawkchurch, is there stated to have died in 1698, having married Margaret, the daughof Dorset. He married Elizabeth Helyar, daughter and sole heiress of John Helyar, Esq. of this parish. He left behind him two children, one son and one daughter, who in him lost a truly valuable and indulgent father, as well as a most sincere and real friend. He died January 31st, 1763, aged 66."

On a similar slab with the same coats, but without the crest:—

"Here lyeth the body of ELIZABETH, wife of THOMAS WYNDHAM,[d] Esq. and sole heiress of John Helyar, Esq. of this parish. She left three children, two sons and one daughter, who in her lost an indulgent mother, as did her husband a truly virtuous wife, and a most sincere friend. She died Dec. 24th, 1730, aged 35 years.

"Under this marble likewise lyeth buried THOMAS, the youngest child of the said Thomas and Elizabeth Wyndham. He died 10th April 1731, aged 4 months."

On a similar slab with the crest and coat of Wyndham:—

"Here lyeth the body of HELYAR WADHAM WYNDHAM,[e] son and heir of Thomas and Elizabeth Wyndham, who died February the 13th, 1789, aged 64 years."

Similar slab. Arms, Quarterly, 1 and 4, a fess voided; 2 and 3, Barry nebuly ermine; impaling, A chevron between three eagle's heads erased. Crest, a demi-wolf rampant, holding in its mouth a stave or spear.

"Here lies interred the body of DOROTHY, wife of WILLIAM FISHER, of Chawton, in ye county of South'ton, Esq. who died the 17th day of January, aged 47 years, annoque ter and coheir of Thomas Moore, of Hawkchurch. He appears to have been the seventh son of Sir Wadham Wyndham, one of the Judges of the King's Bench, who was the ninth son of Sir John Wyndham, of Orchard, by Joan, daughter of Sir Henry Portman. Sir John's eldest son, John, was ancestor of the Earls of Egremont, and the Wyndhams of Dinton in Wiltshire descend from Sir Hugh his eighth son.

[d] This inscription is not in Warner; but it is given by Hutchins under Hawkchurch.

[e] Given by Warner, but the date misprinted 1781. The Hawkchurch line became extinct at his decease; but the statement of Mr. Caley, copied by Warner, that his heir was his sister Mrs. Arundel, is entirely erroneous, as may be seen in Hutchins. Mrs. Arundel was his second cousin, viz. grand-daughter and heir of the elder brother of his grandfather Thomas Wyndham of Hawkchurch.

Dñi 1710. Daughter and heiress of Robert Handman, of Yeatley, gent. and Dorothy his wife: and also near this place lies the aforesaid ROBERT HANDMAN and JOHN his son, who died ye 4th day of August, aged 24 years, annoque Dñi 1692."

On a blue slab partly covered by the pews are two shields side by side, one of which bears Helyar with an escocheon of pretence charged with three leaves fructed, 2 and 1, Cogan.

" Here lyeth the body of JOHN HELYAR second son of William Helyar,[f] Esq. of Coker in the county of Somerset, by Rac*hel coheiress* of Sir Hugh Wyndham, of Pillesdon in Christian, his second wife, died with- out issue, and lyeth buried in

He died Dec. 26th, 1721.
Christian died March 18th, 1719."

On a slab is the figure of a female in brass, of which only the head and shoulders remain. Above were originally two shields of arms: the sinister shield only remains, bearing Ermine, three roundels, impaling semée of roundels, a lion rampant.[g]

The inscription is:—

" Hic sepulta jacet ELIZABETHA quondā ROBERTI MORFLETTI
Armigeri filia, quæ Dño migravit 10 cal. Septembris,
Anno Salutis humanæ MCCCCCLXXVIIIo."

[f] In Warner. The portion in Italics is now concealed by a pew.
[g] In Warner; but the impalement omitted.

Under the dexter shield is inscribed:—

peperit filios 4 et filias . . .

Under the other:—

"Andreæ Smythe secundo m. peperit filios 3 et filias 3."

Adjoining this is an old grave stone, but without inscription.

NAVE.—On the floor is a brass of a man and his wife:—

"Pray for the soules of WILLIAM LAWERD[h] and AGNES his wyf, the whiche William decessed the XXVI day of August the yere of our Lord God MVcLXVII, on whose soules Jhu have mercy. Amen."

Below are figures of nine sons and one daughter.

Nearly opposite to the north door is a slab which formerly had brasses of a man and his wife.[i]

Against the north wall, on a slab of white marble:—

"In memory of THOMAS DIGGLE, Esq. who died Feb. the 27th, 1793, aged 58 years." with the arms, quarterly, viz. 1 and 4, Gules, a chevron between three swords erect hilted or; 2 and 3, Barry of seven argent and azure, a bordure engrailed gules bezantée; impaling, Argent, on a chevron gules three martlets of the first, on a chief of the second a cannon or.

On a mural tablet of marble, with the arms obliterated:—

"Near this place lieth interred MARY, the wife of THOMAS POWELL, of Nanteos, in the county of Cardigan, Esq. She died Feb. 1st, 1745, aged 60, and was daughter of Thomas Frederick, Esq. and eldest sister of Mrs. Leonora Diggle, and at her own request was buried in this place near her said sister."

Another mural slab of white marble:—

Arms: Diggle quarterly as before, with the same impalment.

"Near this place lyeth the body of ROMNEY DIGGLE, Esq. He dyed much lamented, Sept. 14, 1754, leaving issue by Mary his second wife (who survived him) four sons and a daughter, viz. Thomas, George, Wadham, John, and Mary. He had by her three other sons who dyed young, as appears on the adjoining monument."

[h] In Warner, spelt Leward, and the year MVc&XXII, and the day XVI.

[i] Two other male brasses are given in Warner. One inscribed to Richard Gale, who died in 1513.

Another mural slab of white marble, surmounted by a shield bearing the coat of Diggle quarterly, as before, impaling on the dexter side, Or, on a chief azure three martlets argent. On the sinister, Argent, on a chevron gules three martlets, &c. as before.

"Near this place lieth interred the body of LEONORA, first wife of ROMNEY DIGGLE, Esq. She was the daughter of Thomas Frederick, Esq. of the city of Westminster, and died January the 18th, 1731."

"Here also lie the bodies of SAMUEL WADHAM, CHARLES, and FREDERIC, sons of Romney Diggle, Esq. by Mary his second wife, daughter of Thomas Coward, of Spargrove, in the county of Somerset, Esq.

"Frederick dy'd Sep. 15, 1739, aged 6 months.

"Charles dy'd July 10th, 1741, aged 3 years.

"Samuel Wadham dy'd July 17th, 1741, aged 4 years."

Against the west wall is a monument of white marble, with the coat of Diggle, impaling, Argent, a chevron gules, &c. as before, and with this inscription:—

"Near this place lyeth the body of Mrs. MARY DIGGLE, relict of Romney Diggle, Esq. of this parish. She dyed much lamented, March ye 16th, 1788, aged 73 years."

South aisle.—On the floor are brasses of a man and his wife:—

"Pray for the soules of WILL'M RYGG and TOMASYN hys wyf, the whiche Willm̃ decessed the xxix day of August, ye yer of or Lord M vcxxxii. on whose soules Jhu he m̃ci." [k]

Below are figures of four sons and seven daughters.

On a blue slab is inscribed:—

"Under this stone are deposited the remains of JANE, daughter of the Revd HENRY CHURCHILL, late Rector of Morchard Bishop, in the county of Devon. She died in this parish Aug. 29, 1774, aged 34. This tribute is paid to her memory by her surviving brothers, to testify their regret for the loss of a most affectionate and beloved sister, and to solicit respect to the place of her interment."

Against the north wall of the nave are two achievements. One bears—Arms: Sable, a fess between three elephant's heads erased argent, impaling, Argent, a chevron between three hands couped gules. Crest: an elephant's head sable.

[k] In Warner; but dated MVcXIII, and spelt Ryggs.

The other has, Quarterly argent and gules, a fess sable, in the 2nd and 3rd quarters a fret or. Crest, an eagle rising sable.[1]

The benefactions were inscribed in 1830, and are in the south aisle. The substance of them is as follows:—

Eleven acres of meadow land called Moulsham in Finchamstead, given by Peter South in 1470, also an allotment of inclosure in Moor Green, one half to Yately and one half to Hawley and Cove.

Sixteen acres in Sandhurst given by Richard Banister in 1634. Also an allotment of heath land, by inclosure, near Edgeborough Hill, one half to the poor of Sandhurst, and one half to Yately, Hawley, and Cove. Also to the three tithings 125*l.* in the three per cent. Reduced Stock.

Six acres and a half in Yately east and west common fields, given to the poor of Yately tithing by Sir Richard Rives in 1681.

One third part of an estate near Wokingham, bought with Mrs. Barker's legacy of 360*l.* left to Windsor, Epsom, and Yately, in 1704, for the purpose of founding a school for poor children.

[1] Stated in Warner to be for Mr. Norris. The fess should be azure. The inscriptions on the bells mentioned in Warner still exist.

REGISTER OF BAPTISMS IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

In a former part of this volume (page 162) were given the Marriages solemnized in Westminster Abbey, between the years 1655 and 1705. The present article presents the Baptisms, from the same manuscript, which commence, however, from an earlier period, viz. the year 1607: but no entries occur between the years 1645 and 1661. It is evident from the heading prefixed that they refer chiefly to such whose parents were connected with the church, or lived within the verge thereof.

Children baptized in the collegiate church of Westminster, such as have been baptized privately, being the children of such parents as were members of the church, or dwelt within the verge thereof.

P. 3, l. 38. The reference should be fol. 40b, no. 38.

P. 4b, l. 52, Propose to read Malcolm, son of the late King Duncan, to be King of Scotland in his stead.

P. 6b, l. 50. In Glover's pedigree of Morkar in the College of Arms, he has added this note under the circle appropriated to him, viz. " Morcarus iste dicitur habere filiam et hæredem desponsatam Roberto Bruseo Comiti Cumberlandiæ; in rotulo exhibito in Parl. temp. regis Hen. VI. pro Domino Fitzhugh."

Earls of Mercia.—Vol. I. p. 7.

P. 10, l. 58, for " Hardd," read Harold.

P. 11, at the end of the article add, Edwin's death happened in the fifth of William the Conqueror, Lucy his sister [a] being then the sole heir of the line, and wife of Ralph de Meschines, Earl of Carlisle, of whom, and their issue, an ample account will be found amongst the Earls of Chester post conquestum.

East Angles or Norfolk.—Vol. I. p. 16b.

P. 17, l. 9, supply the blank with, Essex.

[a] It has been shown in the History of Lacock Abbey, 8vo. 1835, p. 70, that there were two heiresses named Lucia, the first the sister of Earl Edwin, and wife of Yvo Tailbois; the second daughter of the first by Yvo, and wife of Ralph de Briquesard, also called le Meschin, at first Earl of Carlisle, and then Earl of Chester.—Edit.

Earls of Northumberland.—Vol. I. p. 54.

(Addendum to the article printed in Collectanea, vol. IV. p. 351.)

P. 56, l. 26, after "daughters," note. I don't find good authority for any more than two daughters, viz. Maud, married first to Simon de St. Liz, Earl of Huntingdon, by whom she had two sons, and a daughter named Maud; and secondly, to David, son of Malcolm Canmore King of Scotland, to whom King Henry the First gave the Earldom of Huntingdon, which their son also enjoyed in prejudice to her eldest son by the first husband. The second daughter of Earl Waltheof was Alice as in the text; but Dugdale has mistaken with respect to the wife of Robert, son of Richard de Tonbridge, who was grand-daughter of Earl Waltheof, being the daughter of Maud Countess of Huntingdon by her first husband, and like her mother named Maud. [a]

Earls of Huntingdon.—Vol. I. p. 57.

(Addendum to the article printed in Collectanea, vol. V. p. 1.)

P. 58[b], l. 21, after "Albini," note. This is a mistake somewhat like that which I have noticed under Northumberland. Maud, the wife of William de Albini, was not the widow of Robert son of Richard, but his daughter by Maud St. Liz, as the reference itself will shew.

The marriage of Robert FitzRichard with Maud de St. Liz took place in 1112; his death in 1132, and hers in 1140, as the Chronicle of Dunmow shows. [b]

Note. There is much confusion in the text in describing the inheritance of this honour amongst the descendants from Maud the daughter of Earl Waltheof by her two husbands, who seem to have enjoyed something like an alternate succession.

Upon the Fine Roll of 13 Hen. III. there is a respite of homage for John de Lacy, Earl of Huntingdon.

P. 353b, l. 26, after "niece," make a note. Her mother was uterine sister to Henry the Third, being daughter of Queen Isabella by her first husband Hugh de Lusignan.

P. 360b, l. 61, after "Tyes," note. Alice, the daughter and heir of Henry Lord Tyes, was the great-grandmother, not the mother of Margaret, as will appear under the title of L'ISLE.

MARMION.—Vol. I. p. 375.

P. 377, l. 61, after "heirs." This account of Philip and of his marriage and issue is very imperfect, and requires explanation and enlargement.

It appears upon the division of his property amongst his coheirs, that he possessed one entire Barony in his own right, called Marmion, and a moiety of another by marriage in right of Joan his first wife, youngest of the two daughters and coheirs of Hugh de Kilpec, whose entire Barony called Kilpec had been formerly divided between the said Joan and her elder sister Isabella, wife of William Walrond: by this Joan he had issue three daughters, and surviving her he married a second wife named Mary (but of what family has not been ascertained) by whom he had a fourth daughter called Joan. Upon his death a°. 20 Edw. I. the lands belonging to the Barony of Marmion were divided between all the four daughters, but of the moiety of the Barony of Kilpec the youngest daughter had no share.

In the partition of the Barony of Marmion, that is to say, of the lands whereof that Barony was composed,

Joan, the eldest daughter, then wife of William de Morteyn, had one portion;

Joan, daughter of Mazera the second daughter (who had died before her father), another portion;

Maud, the third daughter of Philip, and then wife of Ralph le Boteler, a third portion; which three portions were delivered to the respective parties, being all of full age; but the fourth portion, that of Joan the youngest daughter, was retained in the King's hands on account of her minority, she being then only eight years old. Of her more hereafter.

The castle of Tamworth, which was the Caput Baroniæ, belonged to Joan de Morteyn as the eldest coheir, according to ancient custom. She paid twenty-five pounds for her relief, "de prima 4 parte unius Baroniæ quam idem Philippus tenuit de Rege in capite die quo obijt," and at the same time twenty-five marks as the eldest daughter and one of the coheirs of her mother Joan de Kilpec, for relief of the portion belonging to her of the lands and tenements which the said Philip her father held by the law of England at the time of his death as of the inheritance of the said Joan de Kilpec his wife, viz. of the first third part of a moiety of a Barony which had belonged to Hugh de Kilpec, father of the said Joan, "quæ Baronia integra partita fuit inter Isabellam quæ fuit uxor Willmi Walerond et eamdem Johannam," as daughters and heirs of the said Hugh.

Joan de Morteyn, the eldest daughter, dying without issue, as above stated, her portion came to be divided, and in the division the Caput Baroniæ of Marmion passed to the eldest of the three other coheirs, viz. to Baldwin Freville, in whose male descendants it continued till a°. 6 Henry V. when the last Baldwin Freville died without issue, leaving three sisters his coheirs, Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Ferrers, Margaret, wife of Hugh Willoughby, [e] and Joice, wife of Sir Roger Aston, from all of whom there is abundant issue. In the partition of lands Elizabeth Ferrers, as the eldest coheir, again took the Caput Baroniæ, Tamworth castle, and it is now (1817) possessed by George Marquess Townshend, her lineal descendant and heir.

Joan, the youngest coheir of Philip Marmion, and his only daughter by the second wife, proved her age a°. 27 Edw. I. (Esc. de eod. anno.) She married first to Thomas de Ludlowe, who died a°. 7 Edw. II. and secondly to Henry Hillary, and had by the first a son named Thomas, and by the second a son named Edward. As the issue of the first still flourishes in abundance, it is not necessary for the present purpose to follow the line of the second. Her son Thomas Ludlow left an only daughter, Margaret, his heir, who married to Sir John Dymoke, Knt. who, possessing in her right the manor of Scrivelsby in the county of Lincoln, claimed in that right to exercise the office of Champion at the coronation of King Richard the Second, and was adjudged by the Court of Claims to perform it accordingly. Her posterity continues in the name of Dymoke to this day, but I am not quite sure that the inheritance did not pass out of the male line about the time of Charles the Second. [f]

[e] Her heirs may be found in Ph. Stem. var. 31, in Coll. Arm.

[f] The lineal heir and representative of Sir John Dymoke and Margaret Ludlow in the 22nd of Elizabeth, 1579, was Robert Dymoke, Esq. who died in that year, having had issue three sons, Sir Edward, Robert, and Nicholas. Sir Edward had an only son Charles, who died unmarried at Oxford in 1644; and at the Coronation of Charles the Second, 1661, Edward, son of Nicholas, claimed the right to serve the office of Champion as heir male, and being seised of the manor of Scrivelsby, in which he was successful on account of his being actually seised of the said

N.B. The descendants of this Joan have a third interest with those of Freville and Boteler in the Barony of Marmion, but no share whatever in the moiety of the Barony of Kilpec, not being descended of the mother by whom that moiety came.

For this Barony of Marmion there are no writs of summons to Parliament; indeed the only person who enjoyed the Barony entire died before any regular records of Parliament are to be found.

It is proper to observe, that, although the daughters of Philip appear always to have been considered as his heirs, and to have shared his possessions, yet he had a son named Robert, who survived him, and whose issue remains to this day. The proof of his existence is this: An inquisition was taken at Tamworth, 8 Jan. ao. 20 Edw. I. in which the jury say[g] that Philip Marmyon had the manors of Pyricroft and Glascote (co. Warw.) with their appurtenances, by gift of the King, according to the dictum of Kenelworth; that Glascote is held in chief of Maud de Clinton, who disputed the right with Philip, whereupon it was agreed that Maud should grant to Philip the wardship and marriage of Isabella, daughter and heir of Giles FitzRalph (late tenant of Glascote) until she should become of age; that Philip conveyed this grant to Robert Marmion his son, who made her his wife; that, when Isabella came of age, her husband and she claimed the said manors from Philip before the justices itinerant at Warwick; Philip appeared and acknowledged their right, and therefore, upon the death of Philip, the said manors ought to go to said Robert and Isabella, and her heirs, quit of the heirs manor; but there was a counter-claim for Robert Heywood, (the grandson of Robert Dymoke, elder brother of Sir Edward's father Nicholas,) as heir general. Here then would be found the heir of the Barony of Marmion, (unless the issue of Heywood is extinct,) if a Parliamentary Barony had existed in Philip Marmion, who died 20 Edw. I. Sir Edward Dymoke, lord of Scrivelsby, to whom the Championship was adjudged, died in 1663-4, having had issue three sons, Sir Charles, Edward, and John. The line of Sir Charles failed in 1760. Edward died in 1694, and was in 1817 represented by Mr. Dymoke Wells. John died in 1668, and was the ancestor of John Dymoke, Esq. who, being seised of the manor of Scrivelsby, performed the office of Champion at the coronation of King George III. in 1761. His son Lewis Dymoke, Esq. in 1814, claimed the Barony of Marmion as appertenant to the tenure of Scrivelsby, and the claim was opened before the Committee for Privileges in 1816; but no adjudication has been made upon it.

of Philip. The jury further say that the manor of Pyricroft is held of the King by the service of finding "Carbonem et Literam ad Cameram Dñi R." whenever his Majesty shall come to Tamworth.

Circumstances seem to render it probable that he was a natural son. His issue may be found in Dugdale's Warwickshire.

BASSET OF WELDON.—Vol. I. p. 378.

P. 378[b], l. 60. It appears by Inquisition, that Ralph Basset of Weldon died a°. 42 Hen. III.[h] and that Richard Basset was his son and heir and then of full age (Vinc. 36. 24.), and that the manor of Woodnewton, co. Northampton, was held of Sir Richard Basset, of Weldon, a°. 3 Edw. I.[i] (Vinc. 36. 94.) This Richard died a°. 4 Edw. I. holding per Baroniam leaving Ralph his son and heir 32 years old and upwards.[k] Ralph died in 23 Edw. I. leaving Richard his son and heir, who had then livery of his lands, and was summoned to Parliament in 25 and 27 Edw. I.[l] In 34 Edw. I. he had licence to impark a certain wood called Le Halgh, in his manor of Weldon, containing 61 acres of land to hold to him and his heirs for ever.[m] In the same year he was in that expedition then made into Scotland, (&c. &c. as in the text, p. 378[b], l. 72.)

P. 379, l. 9, after "lands," note. He was summoned to Parliament 1 Edw. III.[n] In a°. 5 Edw. III. he had licence to enfeoff Andrew, Vicar of the church of Ashby Legers, and Thomas, parson of the church of Weldon, in his manors of Weldon and Weston, for the purpose of settling the same upon him the said Ralph and the heirs of his body, with remainder to his right heirs.[o] It appears by the Inquisition ad quod dampnum, taken upon this occasion, that he would also possess the manor of Pightesle, which he held of the Abbat of Peterborough by the service of ten marks per annum, and the manor of Madeley in the county of Stafford.

——— l. 14, after "Launde," add, which manors of Weldon and Weston had by a fine in the King's Court been settled upon him for his life, and after his death upon Ralph his son and Joan, daughter of Richard de la Pole, citizen of London,

The heirs of this Barony of Basset of Drayton, as far as I have been able satisfactorily to trace them, will appear in the annexed table. Isabel, the wife of Sir Thomas Shirley, was a natural daughter of the father of the last Lord.

In a pedigree drawn out in 1583 for Sir George Shirley, her lineal descendant and heir, by Robert Glover, the most learned and skilful herald that ever lived, she is expressly called "soror naturalis ultimi Radulphi Domini Basset de Drayton." The arms ascribed to her being the coat of Basset of Drayton, debruised of a baton sinister. (It is true that Dugdale, in his grant of Supporters to Lord Ferrers, includes Basset of Drayton without the baton amongst the quarterings of Shirley, but that will weigh nothing against the authority of Glover.)

p The coheirs of Sir Thomas Chaworth are also coheirs of the Barony of Basset of Drayton as well as of that of Weldon. See Pedigree, p. 257.

Basset of Sapcote.—Vol. I. p. 382b.

DESPENSER.—Vol. I. p. 389.

There seems great reason to doubt whether the Robert Despenser here mentioned was the progenitor of this family: the lands ascribed to him in Domesday were afterwards possessed by Marmion, whose ancestor he certainly was, and not by Despenser. Even from Thurstan the descent can only be traced with certainty from public records for three or four generations.[q]

Hugh, who was Justiciar of England in 44 Hen. III. and lost his life in the battle of Evesham, is the first from whom the chain of descent can be drawn with certainty. Dugdale states him to have been son of Thomas, and quotes Glover as his authority: but upon referring to Glover, Hugh, the son of Thomas, does not appear to have had any issue, and he (Glover) describes the father of the Justiciar thus, "Galfridus Dispensator miles egregius obijt anno 1251, 35 Hen. III."[r]

[r] Mr. Townsend here refers to a pedigree by Glover, with notes, Ph. 29. 227. and a figure of Sir Hugh Le Despencer on horseback armed, with the following underwritten in a MS. of Vincent's (no. 114, 162).

"Au siège de Caerlaverock; anno Domini 1300, 28 Edw. I.
De bon Hugh le Despensier, qui vaillament sur le coursier scavoit desrompre vne meslée, fust la bannière esquartelée d'un baston noir sur blanc getté et de vermeil jaune fretté."

This description of Sir Hugh is from the poem of that celebrated siege with slight verbal variations. See Nicolas's Siege of Caerlaverock, 4to. 1828, p. 28, and page 190 for a memoir of this Sir Hugh.

P. 390, after l. 51. He was mainpernor for Almeric de St. Amand and William de Montagu then prisoners in the Tower of London.[s]

P. 390[b], l. 69, after "Scots," add, In 9 Edw. II. he was indicted for an assault upon Sir John de Ros, Knt. and striking him with his fist, "usque ad sanguinis effusionem," publicly on a Sunday in the cathedral church of Lincoln, where the King was sitting in Parliament. The damages were laid at ten thousand pounds, besides the breach of the peace; for the breach of the peace he was committed to the Marshal.[t] He was liberated upon bail, and afterwards in the Parliament at York, a°. 14, graciously pardoned, and the proceedings ordered to be cancelled.

P. 392, l. 9, after "Earl." In the 8th of Edw. II.[u] he petitioned the King for his wife's portion of the inheritance of her late brother, Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester, stating that by the inquisitions taken after his death in the counties of Bucks, Essex, and Northampton, it was found that, unless the Countess should be pregnant, Alianor, wife of the said Hugh, Margaret, and Elizabeth, the three sisters of the said Earl, were his next heirs; by those taken in Oxford, Berks, and Suffolk, that, if the said Countess should not be pregnant, the said Eleanor, Margaret, and Isabella, were his sisters and heirs. In Wales the juries said they understood that Maud, the Countess, was pregnant, and unless she were so, the said Eleanor, Margaret, and Elizabeth were his heirs. In London and Hants they knew not who were the heirs, because it was said the Countess was pregnant. In Devon and Herts the jury said positively that Eleanor, Margaret, and Isabella; and in Dorset, Huntingdon, and Surrey, that Eleanor, Margaret, and Elizabeth, were the heirs. He therefore claimed that portion of the lands and tenements of her said brother, which according to the laws and custom of the kingdom would belong to her as the eldest sister (tanquam einecie), and offered his homage accordingly. Upon further inquiry it appeared that there was no such sister as Isabella, that the names of the sisters were Eleanor, Margaret, and Elizabeth.[x] It was answered by Gilbert de Touthby and Geffrey le

Scrope, two of the Judges for the King, that, it having been stated in inquisitions that the Countess was pregnant, the King could not do any thing that might prejudice the issue, but would retain the lands in his own custody until the truth could be ascertained respecting such pregnancy; and the claimant having quoted Magna Carta, which declares, that the King ought not to refuse, avoid, or delay to do right or justice to any one: the Judges answered "quod tantum operatur Magna Carta de libertatibus Angliæ pro impregnatura prefatæ comitissæ in hoc casu quantum pro predictis Hugone et Eleanora ac alijs jus vendicantibus in hac parte." It was further urged by the Claimant, that the Earl died on the 30th of June a°. 7, since which day so much time had elapsed as that, according to the common course of childbirth "non posset dici a prefato Comite impregnata." The Judges replied, that they ought not to do any thing injurious to her pregnancy, that she conceived by the late Earl her husband, and that from the time of his death "ipsa sensit puerum vivum in ventre suo tempore et die debito et illud incontinenter notificavit Dño Regi, Dñæ Reginæ, et alijs magnatibus de Regno, et nichilominus de hoc quasi per totum Regnum et precipue in partibus ubi ipsa tunc moram traxit fuit et est publica vox et fama." The business being new and difficult, nor fit to be decided "sine assensu magnatum de Regno," it was postponed to the next Parliament. In the mean time the King directed a writ of Privy Seal to the Lord Chancellor and the two Chief Justices, with the assistance of such of the King's Counsel as were in London, to listen to any further arguments that the Claimant might think fit to offer, and to lay their opinions and advice thereupon before his Majesty. Before this tribunal he urged the chapter of the Great Charter above quoted, adding, that no one questioned or disputed their right, and requesting that if the King knew, or was aware of any law, that would apply against the claim, he would be pleased to communicate it, that it might be answered. The Chancellor and Judges, after examining the several inquisitions, and having deliberated with the rest of the Counsel, reported, that it was a business of such difficulty and rarity that they dare not decide, or even advise the King upon it, "sine assensu magnatum de Regno." On receiving this report the King appointed the first day of the next Parliament. That Parliament assembled at Lincoln in the quindenes of St. Hilary a°. 9, where the Claimant renewed his suit. The said Gilbert and Geffery, for the King, repeated the reasons before assigned, adding that, although the birth of the child (which might by various natural causes have been delayed) had not taken place, such delay ought not to prejudice the question of pregnancy, at least so long as the course of nature did not contradict the supposition of pregnancy, but rather led to the anticipation of a birth, and that it behoved the King to save himself harmless at all events. That the Claimant might, if he had thought fit, have sued out a writ "de ventre inspeciendo," according to the practice of the Court of Chancery in similar cases, that the Countess had been at all times ready to submit to such examination; this course he had neglected, and his neglect ought to be visited upon himself, and not suffered to prejudice the question of pregnancy. The King then appointed a Committee, consisting of certain Prelates and others learned in the Civil and Canon Laws, to consider of the business; but, they not being able to agree upon any final arrangement of so difficult and so rare a case, a day was appointed in the quindenes of Easter for the said Hugh and his wife to appear before the King and his Council. At this meeting the matter was further postponed to the next Parliament, where, on Monday after the feast of St. Nicholas a°. 10, the King's pleasure was announced, that the Chancellor, the Treasurer, the Barons of the Exchequer, the Judges and others of his Council should meet to examine into the business, and, if possible, do complete justice to the Claimants. At length, after two or three further discussions, in a convocation assembled by the King's command, in the quindenes of Easter a°. 10, before the Archbishop of Canterbury and other Prelates, Earls, and Barons, the Lord Chancellor, Treasurer, Justices of both Benches, the Chancellor and Barons of the Exchequer, Clerks of the Chancery, and others of the King's Council, the whole of the former proceedings having been recited, full debate and discussion had, and certain inquisitions examined, which had been taken and returned into Chancery more than a full year after the Earl's death, in correction of certain defects in former inquisitions, and after full discussion and argument had upon the whole, it was agreed that the said Eleanor, Margaret, and Elizabeth were the next heirs of the said Earl, and of full age. This award having been conveyed to the King at Windsor, by the Bishop of Winchester, his Chancellor, was approved, and the King accepted the homage of the husbands of the said heirs, and ordered partition and livery of the inheritance accordingly.

The first Robert de Ewyas (i. e. the younger son of Harold) had two sons, Robert and Richard, each of whom left an only daughter his heir of the name of Sybill. Robert's daughter had three husbands; the first was Tregoz, her second William de Newmarch, and her third Clifford.[o] Her issue by Tregoz and Clifford will be found under those titles: whether she had any by Newmarch or not does not appear; but that she was married to him is proved by a plea in a°. 11 John, where being called upon to show what right he had in her or her Barony, answered, he was married to her in the time of King Richard by gift of Robert de Ewyas, her father.[p]

P. 504, l. 30, after "John," add, son of Walter, son of the said Simon.

——— l. 52, after "specified," note. Roese de Tateshull died without issue. Agnes had no issue by her second husband Fitz-Warin; and John de Bassingham, her only son by the first, dying without issue about 24 Hen. III.[r] this Saher de Wahull was found to be heir of the Barony, being son and heir of Simon, younger brother of Walter, the father of John, Roese, and Agnes. The inquisition taken after the death of this Saher, says that he held the honour of Wahull for thirty knight's fees in chief of the King, and that he held the manor of Wahull in his own hands; that Walter his son and heir was 23 years old and upwards.[s]

P. 504[b], l. 16, note. There seems no good reason for excluding the posterity of this John, that would not equally have justified the omission of his ancestors. They were all Barons by tenure, and by tenure only, and of such (i. e. Barons by tenure) this volume professes principally to treat; suffice it however to say, that the line continued in regular male succession, holding the Barony or honour of Wahull till the time of King Henry the Eighth, when Anthony the last Lord died leaving an only daughter, Agnes, who married to Richard Chetwode, Esq. and carried the honour into that family.[t]

[t] Agnes the wife of Richard Chetwode, of Warkworth, co. Northampton (whose will is dated 6 January, 2nd of Eliz.) survived her husband till the 18th of Queen Elizabeth, and dying on the 20th March in that year, left Richard Chetwood (afterwards Sir Richard Chetwood) her son and heir, of the age of 16 years. Sir Richard, in the reign of King James the First, petitioned his Majesty for a writ of summons to Parliament as Baron de Wahull; the petition was referred to the Duke of Lenox, the Earl of Nottingham, and Lord Howard, Commissioners appointed for executing the office of Earl Marshal, who reported (see Banks's Dormant Peerage, vol. i. 438), that they had received good satisfaction that the petition was true, and concluded by observing, that, in their opinion, he was "worthy of the honour of a Baron." This report, however, does not seem to have been one admitting an existing right to a writ, but recommending the claimant from his worth and merit to the honour of the Peerage. About 1739 Knightley Chetwood, Esq. the lineal descendant and heir of Sir Richard, revived the claim, without any successful result. In 1831 Jonathan Chetwood, Esq. of Woodbrook, in the Queen's County, in Ireland, the

The petition was referred to the then Attorney-General Sir Thomas Denman, who reported thereon in May 1832, and, in concluding his report, observed, "that, although the fact of the ancient Barons having actually sat in Parliament had received no direct proof, the argument adduced (stated in the report) appeared to him to deserve great consideration;" and recommended that the case should be referred to the House of Peers. There were two Parliaments called in this year, the first to meet at York on the morrow of the birth of the Virgin Mary, and the second at Westminster, in the octaves of St. Hilary. In Dugdale's printed list for the first, the name of Walter de Norwich occurs, but at the foot of the list is this note, viz. "Justiciarii ac alii de consilio Dñi Regis in hoc recordo intermixti cum Baronibus." To that of the second there is no such note, but the Judges and Council appear in a separate list from the Lords, and the name of Walter de Norwich stands amongst those of the Judges, and so continues till a°. 20 Edw. NOTICES OF STANWAY, IN THE HUNDRED OF LEXDEN, ESSEX.

From Domesday Book it appears that the manor of "Stanewega" was "Terra Regis Heroldi," and so by intention ancient demesne.

By a deed without date, remaining in the ledger book of the abbey of Colchester, it appears that John de Burgo, son and heir of Hubert de Burgo, Earl of Kent, granted to the Abbat and Convent of Colchester, and their successors, a tenement and lands in Stanway that were Roger de Coseber's, and two marks of free rent issuing out of certain lands there mentioned, in Stanway and Lexden.

This John de Burgo made a feoffment unto Thomas de Belhous and Floria his wife, and their heirs, of the manor of Stanway, and the advowson of the church, he to render to the said John, and his heirs, a pair of gilt spurs and sixpence yearly at Christmas,[a] and John de Burgo, the son of John the son of Hugh, confirmed the same. By an office of the time of King James I. it appears, that the manor of Stanway and capital messuage of Bellhouse, and house of Bastard, were held of Thomas Lucas, as of his manor of Lexden, by knight's service, and the same yearly tenure as above. Thomas de Belhous and Floria his wife, had issue Thomas,[b] who had issue Thomas and John; and, Thomas dying without issue, the manor descended to John, as his brother and heir. In the 7th Edw. II. John de Belhous and Isolda his wife accepted of a fine from John de Bello Campo of the manor of Stanway, with the appurtenances, and the ad-

(from which families he was himself descended,) in which the transfer of Stanway is thus mentioned: "D'nus Johannes de Burgo per cartam suam dat. a°. 2do E. vowson of that parish church, and the same is with a grant from John de Bello Campo of the said manor unto John de Belhous and Isolda, and the heirs of John, to hold of the chief lord; and in the 13th of the same reign, a court was held in the name of Isolda de Belhous.

In the 31st Edw. III. a court was held in the name of John de Belhous; and in the 16th Ric. II. John de Belhous died, leaving issue Thomas his son and heir, and the said manor and advowson descended unto him, who made a feoffment of this property to John Stanstead and others, upon condition to make a feoffment unto Alice his wife during his life, and after her decease unto the right heirs of the said Sir Thomas and Alice, who died, leaving issue Joane his daughter and sole heir, and she died without issue, leaving Isolda, her cousin and heir, namely, the sister and heir of Thomas, the son of John.

This Isolda married John Casteleyne, and had issue by him Joane, her sole daughter and heir, unto whom this manor and advowson descended upon the death of the said John Casteleyne and Isolda. Joane married Robert Knivett; and John Stanstead, with the other feoffees, conveyed this estate unto the said Joane and her heirs.

In the 2nd Hen. IV. a court was held for the manor of Stanway, in the name of John Dorward, and entitled to be his first court as a purchaser from Robert Knivett. Thomas,[c] son and heir of this Robert Knivett, married Eleanor, daughter of the said John Dorward, who died in 1420, and bequeathed the manor of Stanway to the said Thomas and Eleanor; and it continued in that family until the death of Edward Knivett, in the 18th Hen. VIII. 4 Feb. 1501. Katharine, his widow, (daughter of Henry Lord Marney, K.G.—Edit.) retained a life interest in this property, and a reversionary grant was made to Margaret and Thomasine, sisters and coheirs of the said Edward Knivett, and their heirs, of whom Thomas Bonham, Esq. purchased one share. Katharine, the relict of Edward Knivett, remarried to this Thomas Bonham,[d] and had issue by him a son Thomas (read William. Edit.) who was seised of a moiety of this estate, and resided here. The other moiety being in Francis Clopton, Esq.

In the 33rd Hen. VIII. (1542) it was enacted that William Bonham and Frances his wife[e] should hold and enjoy all that the moiety in part of the manor of Stanway which belonged to William Bonham, and lands and tenements called Beaconcroft, Richard, and Nether Bastards, Over Bastards, Mosses, Georges, and Kings, in Stanway, during their lives, and after their decease, that the same should remain unto Thomas Bonham and his heirs male, and upon the death of him without such issue, to the heirs of the above William and Frances, and for default thereof to the right heirs of Francis.

In the 11th Eliz. Thomas Bonham levies a fine unto William Cocker of the moiety of the manor of Stanway, with the appurtenances, and the advowson of the church of Stanway; and in the 22nd of this reign, a fine was levied by Thomas Bonham and Joane his wife unto Edward, afterwards Sir Edward, Sulyard, and Anne his wife, of the manors of Bellowes and Stanneway. He was the only son of Eustace Sulyard, of Flemyngs, in the parish of Runwell, in Essex, Esq. by Margaret, daughter of Robert Foster of Little Birch, and widow of Gregory Basset, Esq. She married thirdly to William Ayloffe, of Brackstead, in the same county, and, surviving him, was resident at the manor-house of Stanway in the 27th Eliz.

In the same year Edward Sulyard, for the sum of 3,700*l.* bargains and sells to William Nutbrowne the elder, and William Nutbrowne the younger, and their heirs, the manor-house called Stanway Hall, the moiety of the manor of Much Stannaway, the advowson and right of patronage of Much Stannaway, the manor-house called Bellhouse and Howse, and all the messuages and lands called by the name of Beacon's farm, Moyses, Cowbridge, Upper Bastards, Nether Bastards, Wryhill Wood, and Richards, Bromer Kinge and Ishams, in Great and Little Stannaway, and parishes adjoining, which Edward Sulyard purchased to him and his heirs of Thomas Bonham.

[d] He died 18 June, 1532, and his widow married a third husband, John Barnabee.—Edit.

[e] Daughter and coheir of Sir Thomas Tey, of Marks Tey Hall; married secondly John Bocking; thirdly John Warburton.—Edit.

In the same year Edward Sulyard and Anne his wife levy a fine unto William Nutbrowne, sen. and jun. of the manor of Bellhouse and Howes with the appurtenances, and of twenty messuages, two dove-houses, two gardens, 800 acres of land, 100 acres of meadow, 400 acres of pasture, 200 acres of wood, 200 acres of heath and bruery, with the appurtenances; and the moiety of the manor of Much Stannaway, and of the moiety of 800 acres of land, 40 acres of meadow, 200 acres of pasture, 100 acres of wood, 500 acres of heath and bruery, and forty shillings rent, with the appurtenances in Much Stannaway, Little Stannaway, and parishes adjoining, and of the moiety of the advowson of the church of Much Stannaway; and Edward Sulyard, Dec. 2nd in the same year, makes a release of all his right, title, and interest of the manors of Bellhouse and Stannaway.

The last will and testament of William Nutbrowne, senior, bears date the 3rd Nov. 30 Eliz. whereby he devised the reversion of the above estate to William Nutbrowne his son for life; and after his decease to William Nutbrowne his grandson and his heirs male, and for default of such issue to the eldest son of his daughter Dorothy, and for default of such issue to his right heirs for ever.

In consideration of the sum of 5,200*l.* William Nutbrowne makes a feoffment of the property above described to Sir John Swinnerton, Knt.[e] and his heirs, together with the White Hart, and all lands belonging thereunto, purchased of Richard Mascott. The indenture bears date the 3rd April, 43 Eliz. Sir John Swinnerton's last will and testament bears date the 7th Sept. 14 Jac. I. whereby he devises this estate to Henry, his eldest son, and his heirs male, and for default of such issue to Thomas and Robert his younger sons, and for default of male issue unto the right heirs of Sir John. He died the following day, and Henry his son inherited; he married Mary, one of [e] Sir John Swinnerton was Lord Mayor of London in 1612; some account of him and his family will be found in Morant's account of Stanway, Hist. of Essex, vol. ii. p. 191; and in Malcolm's London, under St. Mary Aldermanbury, and All-hallows Staining. He was also owner of the manor of Little Birch, in Essex, with a mansion-house and park containing 200 acres, sold to him in 5 James I. by John Lord Petre; also of lands in Dagenham, Barking, &c. in that county, with other property in Dudlestone and Parkington, in the county of Salop. (Sir H. Calthorpe's MSS.) He left 2*s.* a week for ever, to be distributed in bread to the poor of Lexden, and bound his house and demesne of Stanway Hall to answer the same.

the daughters of David De la Maier, and sister of Sir Peter De le Maier, and died without issue. His lady survived and remarried to the Hon. Sir Francis Crane, Knt. Chancellor of the Order of the Garter. For the prevention of family disputes, and the better assurance of the payment of certain annuities bequeathed by Sir John Swinnerton to his other children, an indenture of partition was agreed upon in the 20th James I. between Dame Thomasine, relict of Sir John Swinnerton, and Thomas, his third son; by which agreement the former was to inherit one third part of the estates, the property of the late Sir John Swinnerton, and the latter the remaining two thirds, each subject to proportionate shares of the said annuities payable to Richard, second son of Sir John, Robert, the youngest son, and Mary his daughter, wife of Sir John Miller, of Dorsetshire, Knt.

Thomas Swinnerton and Joane his wife, by an indenture dated June 28th, 2 Car. I. and enrolled in the Common Pleas, for 5,200*l.* bargains and sells unto John Littlebury, Esq. and his heirs, two parts in three to be divided of the manor or lordship of Stannaway, and two parts of the park called Stannaway Park, and the game of deer and wages, and the advowson of the church of Stannaway, and two parts of the manor or lordship of Cockermouth in the county of Essex.

Morant, ii. 192, states that Sir Henry Calthorpe, then Attorney of the Court of Wards, was possessed of the manor of Stanway in 1635. To this circumstance is to be attributed his formation of the foregoing historical abstract. Morant states that the manor passed from Sir Henry with his daughter in marriage to —— Hervy, Esq. of Suffolk, who afterwards sold it; but this is not correct. Sir Henry died seised of Stanway in 1637, leaving an only surviving son, and two daughters, namely, Dorothy, who died in 1641, and Henrietta Maria (born in 1636), who died in 1645, both children. (See Gent. Mag. 1831, part ii. p. 406.)

The family of Dorward became possessed of the manor of Oliver's[d] in this parish, by the marriage of Joane, only daughter and heir of John Oliver, with William Dorward, Esq. eldest son of Ralph Dorward, of Bocking in this county, Esq. by Cecily his first wife.

[d] For some further particulars concerning Oliver's in Stanway, with a pedigree of the Eldred family, late owners of that lordship, see Gent. Mag. for 1837, New Series, vol. VII. p. 486. A pedigree of De Horne of Stanway Hall will be found in Collectanea Top. et Geneal. II. 286; extracts from the register of Stanway church in vol. IV. 305; and genealogical notes of the Eldred family in vol. VI. 295.

John, his eldest son and successor, by Katharine his first wife, had issue John, who succeeded, and married Blanch, eldest daughter of Sir William Coggeshall. In the 8th Hen. VI. letters patent were granted to him for the founding of a chantry; and the King, in consideration of 200 marks, released by the said John Dorward, due unto him when he was one of his councillors, grants his royal license, dated June 2nd, in the same year, to erect a perpetual chantry at Stanway, of one chaplain to pray for his soul, and the souls of his ancestors, and to give and assign unto the chaplain and his successors, a mansion or place, built by the said John, upon a piece of glebe land containing one acre, adjoining the churchyard of the same church, and 7*l.* rent, issuing out of the manor of Stanway and all lands of the said John in Stanway. He was a Serjeant-at-law and Speaker of the House of Commons during the above reign, and resided at Dorward Hall, in the parish of Bocking, the family seat for many generations, where he founded an hospital, for the maintenance of which King Henry VI. granted him a license to assign his manor of Tendring, with other lands and tenements in Essex, that were not held of the Crown.

Weever says he died Jan. 30, 1465, and was buried in Bocking church, where William his grandfather, and John his father, had also founded and endowed chantries. William and Richard Dorward, his sons, married Margaret and Joane, daughters and coheirs of Sir Roger Harsyck, Knt. on whose death the elder branch of the Harsyck family became extinct, and the above William and Richard inherited his property in right of the said marriage. The former had issue Elizabeth, their sole heir, who married Thomas Foderingey, of Brockley, in Suffolk, Esq.; and the latter left an only daughter, Margaret, who married Sir John Wingfield, of Letheringham, in the same county, Knt.[e] The interest of this family, in the parish of Stanway, appears to have ceased in King Henry the Seventh's time.

[e] This account of the Dorwards differs from that in Sir Simonds D'Ewes' pedigree before quoted. He states that John Dorward the brother of Elienor Knyvett, had, among others, a son named William, who, by Emma his wife, had a daughter and heir Elizabeth married to Thomas Fotheringay, "qui ex ea genuit suas coheredes Margaretam nuptam Nicholao Beaufre, Elenam nuptam Henrico Thursby (quorum exitus masculus jam floret hoc anno 1634), et Christianam nuptam Johanni de Veer, comiti Oxon, quæ obiit sine prole. DESCRIPTION OF AN ANCIENT REGISTER OF THE PARISH OF ASTON-SUB-EDGE, CO. GLOUCESTER; WITH EXTRACTS.

In the parish chest in the church of Mickleton in Gloucestershire there is preserved a parchment volume of quarto size, containing a Register of Baptisms, Marriages, and Burials, from a date so remote as 1539. Notwithstanding the place of its present deposit, the register belongs evidently to the adjoining parish of Aston-sub-Edge. Indeed there may yet be traced in very pale ink, on the outer cover, the words "Aston Register," over which, in a later hand, and in darker ink, the indorsement "Mickleton Register" has been written. The transfer of the book from the church to which it properly belongs, may be accounted for by the fact that the two parishes were for many years served by the same clergyman, and that he resided at Mickleton.

The early entries in this register are in a bold German letter, in the Latin language, and were evidently made with much care and attention. They are preceded by the following general heading or title:

"Iniunciones invictissimi principis et regis Henrici octavi, ann° regni ei° 30°. Ann° Dom̃ 1539 non tam ꝑ parvulis baptizandis quā etiam de nuptiis celebrandis et ꝑ corporib° sepeliendis."

The first entry is,

"De Baptismo. Ann° Domini 1539.

1. Inprīs Johannes Baker suscepit sacramentum Baptismi 26° die mensis Januarii An° Dom̃. 1539," &c.

It proceeds thus, each separate entry being numbered, and is exceedingly well kept, under each of its three heads, for the first fifty years. After this period the entries are more scanty, are ill written, the colour of the ink becomes fainter, and, in many instances, is scarcely legible. The marriages and burials are headed each with a sort of engrossed title, "De Matrimonio," and "De sepultura mortuorum."

After these general remarks on the volume, a few extracts will not be wholly without interest, more especially as the Porter family, from whom sprung Endymion Porter, the faithful attendant of Charles the First, were for many generations connected with the parish of Aston-sub-Edge. It is indeed traditionally stated that Endymion was himself born in the manor-house.

[a] The father of Endymion Porter, by Angelica, dau. of his cousin Giles Porter, of Mickleton, co. Glouc.—Some account of this family may be seen in Burke's Commoners, vol. iii. p. 577.

[b] This entry supplies a blank in Mr. Baker's pedigree of Catesby, History of Northamptonshire, i. 245; where it is stated that Edmund Catesby, sixth son of Sir Richard Catesby, of Ashby Legers, co. Northampton, M.P. for co. Warwick, married "Eliz. daughter of A. Yorke, of Aston, co. ....."

[c] Nicholas Porter, of Aston, was the son of Anthony, who died June 5, 1557, and brother to Edmund. He married .... dau. of Underhill, and had issue, 1. Fulke; 2. Thomas; 3. Edward; 4. Charles, and a daughter, Ellenor. (Philpot, 45, in Coll. Arm.) See the rest of these children, and others, in the opposite page.

[d] The wife of Anthony Porter was Grisogon, daughter of Sir Edward Stradling, Knt. (Philpot, 45.) The above Grysigona was probably their daughter.

De Sepultura Mortuorum.

"Wiłłim⁹ Porter generosus sepultus erat 4o die mensis Februarii in ecclesia pochiana de Campden [e] 1570.

Gyles Porter, s. of Nicholas, died 27 March 1590.

Dorothia Porter, died 23 Feb. 1600.

Edmond Porter, gent. died upon Fryday the 12 of Aprill, and was buryed at Campden the next day, Anno Dñi 1622.

These are the only verbatim extracts which I have made; the following is a mere list of names and dates.

Baptisms. Thomas, son of Nicholas Porter, 14 Oct. 1587.

Edmund, s. of Nicholas, 30 Dec. 1588.

Giles, s. of Nicholas, 23 March 1589.

Charles, s. of Nicholas, 29 April 1593.

Philippa, daughter of Nicholas, 29 June 1594.

Cartwright, daughter of Nicholas, 21 Nov. 1596.

Dorita, d. of Nicholas, 23 July 1599.

These are all, or nearly all, the notices of the Porters.

The name of Endymion Porter, though sought for with great diligence, occurs but once, and that in one of the worst written and most careless entries in the whole book. It is as follows:—

"Villars [f] the sonn of Endimion Porꝛ, squire, baptized."

Here, where we could most have wished it, no sponsors' names are given, nor even a date; but the notice is preceded and followed by two entries, dated respectively the month of September 1625, and September 1626.

Of the Overbury family I have extracted the following entries:—

Fol. 1 verso. 12. Elizabeth Ov͠burie suscepit sacramentum baptismatꝭ 8o. die mensꝭ Octobris 1544.

15. Marie Ov͠burie suscepit sacramentum baptismatꝭ 8o. die mensꝭ Martii Ano Dom. ut supra [1544 [g]].

17. Nicholaius Ov͠burie suscepit sacramentum baptismatꝭ 7o. die mensꝭ Maii Ano Dom. ut supra [1544 [g]].

Fol. 2. 26. Grizigona Ov͠burie suscept sacramentū Baptismi 3o. die Maii Ano Dom. ut supra [1553].

[e] The Campden register goes back no further than the 3d Oct. 1616.

[f] I am far from being induced to conclude that this baptism took place at Aston-sub-Edge. It seems to have been the custom to record marriages and burials of persons connected with the parish though solemnized elsewhere. Witness the entry of William Porter's burial at Campden.

[g] There is an evident mistake in regard to the date of the year at these places. Ten baptisms from No. 7 to 17 are assigned to 1544, and the 18th is dated 1551.

29. Agnes Ovburie suscept sacramentū Baptismatę 27o die mensis Novembris Ano Dom. 1555.

verso. 36. Anthonius Ovburie filius Thomæ Ovbury et Elizabetæ uxoris suæ suscept sacramentum Baptismatę 9o die mensis Julii; Patrini eio Anthonius Bonno et Joñes Bonno, matrina Dña Katherina Porter Ano Dñi 1557.

Izabella Overburij vidua sepulta fuit 15 die Martis Anno Dñi 1601.

Miscellaneous Entries.

Willimę Kyte et Margeria Weler susceperunt sacramentum matrimonii 19o die mensę Novembris Anno Dñi 1542.

It may be doubted whether the individual here recorded was of the stock of the Kytes who at a later period were seated at Norton House, in the parish of Weston-sub-edge. For an account of the tragical end of their last representative, Sir William Kyte, see Gent. Mag. April 1774.

Elizabetha Hyerne occurs as sponsor to Anne Ingles alias Bloxam, 7th Sept. 1576; there is still a respectable family of the name of Hiron at Campden.

Fol. 12. Richard, the son of Willm Jhonson, being a poor travelling man and stranger, was baptized the first day of April 1621.

13. Thomas, the sonn of Richard Griffyths, a poore man, being a stranger, baptized the sixt day of Aprill Anno Dñi 1628.

Amongst other curious entries is the following, at fol. 18, copied verbatim et literatim :—

Maria filia Francisci Mason * Baptizata decimo die Januarii 1660. Susceptores Mr. Henricus Hicks, Elizab. Widow et ——— Briscoe. } * et hujus Ecclesiæ Incumbentis Jan. 10, 1660.

In registering marriages of parties, the expression "susceperunt sacramentum matrimonii" is used in the earlier part of the book, and continued to a period as late as 10th of February 1602. Whether it is to be accounted for from the imperfect scholarship of the worthy rectors, or whether the light of the Reformation was singularly late in reaching this retired parish, I cannot decide.

"Johes Harris, obiit 16 die mensis Januarii, Ano Dñi 1539."

At fol. 4. verso. "Dña Joanna Cradocke vidua sepelitur 13o Decembris Anno Dnni 1570.

"Thomas Seller, Rector ecclesiæ de Aston Subedge, obiit 20 die Octobris et 23 die mensis ejusdem sepultus fuit in ecclesia de Willersey, Año Dõni 1606.

"Margarett the wife of Thomas Fawset, parson of Aston Subedge, dyed the 22nd day of January, and was buried at Norton Underedge the next day, 1624."

No entry occurs from the 16th of April 1640 to "the fowerth" day of December 1661.

"Anna Warburton vidua (olim uxor Christophoro Cragg, deinde Gulielmo Warburton incumbentibus de St. Bury), sepulta fuit a mæstissimo suo genero Franco Mason, et hujus ecclæ incumbente; moriebatur Feb. 29, sepulta March 2."

It appears that Mason was strict in the exercise of his jurisdiction as to interments in his churchyard, witness the two following entries :—

"Maria Read filia Thomæ Read primo in cœmeterio Astoniensi fuit sepulta decimo primo die Julii 1673, venia prius petita et habita a Fr. Mason, ibid. incumbente. July 11, 1673."

"Susanna, daughter of Richard Bumpas, sen. was buried in this churchyard by the permission and appointment where of Fr. Mason, Rectr. March 29, 1683.

"Francis Mason, late Rector of this parish of Aston Subedge, was buried in the chancell of the said parish. Nov. 24, 1686."

Fol. 19, verso, is subscribed: "F. Crewe, Minister et Rector ibidem," and the entry immediately following is dated Sept. 21, 1686, two months previous to the date of the register of Mason's burial. It is probable, therefore, that he may have resigned, especially as he is registered as "late" Rector.

"The Reverend Mr. John Bloxam, Rector of this parish, dyed on the 23rd of Aprill, and was buryed on ye 25th of Aprill 1724, in this chancel."

The Bible, now used in the reading desk, was his gift, and is thus inscribed: "The gift of John Bloxam, Rector of Aston Subedge, Anno Domini 1713."

"The Reverend Mr. Daniell Slater was p̃sented to this Rectory by Richard Morgan, of ——, Esq. and inducted into this parish church by Mr. John Beawne, Rectr of St. Bury, on the sixth day of August 1724, in the p̃sence of Richard Graves, Anth. Bloxam, and John Bloxam."

These two last entries are from the second register, which remains in the church of Aston-sub-Edge.

Among the names occurring in the old register, with the notice of which we set out, the most prevailing is that of Bloxam; from 1551 to 1715 it occurs in every page. At present there is not an individual of that name resident in the parish.

Thomas Lloyd, M.A. presented by Lord Harrowby in 1782, died at High Wycombe in October 1815. His son Charles Lloyd became Bishop of Oxford.

Charles Osmond Osmond, S. C. L. of Trinity College, Oxford, instituted 4th March 1816, died at Tiverton, in Devonshire, in September 1830. There is a monumental tablet to his memory at the extremity of the south aisle of St. Peter's church in Tiverton.

John Besly, D.C.L. late Fellow of Balliol College, at present holds this living, together with the vicarage of Long Benton in Northumberland.

The Rev. William Mould, Rector of Challacomb, co. Devon, officiated as Curate for upwards of fifty years, down to the time of his decease. April 17, 1839. His father, Jacob Mould, officiated many years before him, residing at Ebrington, which parish he served together with Aston-sub-Edge and Pebworth.

The present patron is the Earl of Harrowby, who possesses extensive property in the adjoining and encircling parish of Weston-sub-Edge. His Lordship's father contributed largely to the rebuilding of the church of Aston-sub-Edge in 1794, and was instrumental in procuring an Inclosure bill, under which the tithes were commuted, by means of an augmentation of the Rector's glebe, which originally contained only 30 acres, 3 roods, 8 perches, to which was then added 73 acres, 23 roods. An allotment of about an acre was made to the parish clerk, and a piece of ground vested in the churchwarden and overseer, for the use of the poor. The whole parish scarcely exceeds 700 acres; now vested in the following proprietors: The manor and three farms in John Maxwell Steele, Esq. eldest son of Sir Richard Steele, of Hampstead, co. Dublin, Bart. in right of his wife, Elizabeth-Anne, eldest daughter and heiress of J. Graves, of Mickleton, Esq.; one farm in the Earl of Harrowby; the glebe as above stated; sundry detached closes of land in Joseph and John Gardner; a few tenements and cottages in Such, Whateley, and Farleigh. In 1839 six names of freeholders were registered to vote for the county.

TOPOGRAPHICAL NOTICES OF THE PARISHES OF AMPTON, HARKSTEAD, AND LIVERMERE PARVA, SUFFOLK.

AMPTON, IN THEDWASTRE HUNDRED.

This manor had both freeholders and copyholders belonging thereto, and there was a Court Baron incident unto the same, but not a Court Leet. The advowson now is, and always was, appendant to the lordship, and endowed with the great and small tithes.

In 21 Ric. II. Thomas Hethe and Richard Hethe released to Sir William Bardewell, Knt. and Margaret his wife, all their right and title to this manor and advowson, which they lately had of the feoffment of John Strange of Brockley, in Suffolk, which late were Edmonds' of Ingham, in the same county.

The family of le Bole afterwards inherited; from whom it passed by marriage to the Cockets, for an account of whom see Gentleman's Magazine for 1831, pt. I. p. 417.

In the time of Hen. VII. it became vested in the ancient and illustrious house of Wentworth, and in the third of King Henry VIII. John Clere, of Ampton, rented of Thomas Wentworth, of Bury St. Edmund's, parcel of this manor, under the following lease:—

"This indentur made the xxijth day of Septembr in the iij^{de} yeer of the reigne of kyng Henry the viijth, betwen Thom^{a}s Wentworth of Bury seynt Edmūdρ, in the counte of Suff', gentilman, on that oon ꝑtie. Anciently the lands in this parish consisted principally of heath and bruery, or sheepwalks. John Clere, the person to whom the above lease was granted, was owner of a small estate here, and was son of Edward Clerys, or Clere, a tenant also of this manor, whose last will and testament is annexed:—

"In Dei noĩe Amen. In the 12th year of the same reign, the whole manor, with all the lands, tenements, &c. were leased at 20 marks per annum. As this lease differs somewhat from the former, and shews the terms upon which lands were held at that early period, we are induced to transcribe it also:

"Thys indentur made the vijth day of Jennuary, the xijth yere of the reyngn of Herry the viijth, betwen Syr Thomas Wyndeh^{a}m, knyght, and Dame Elyzabeth hys wyfe, on the one party, and Alys Wentworthe, of Bury Sent Edmūdꝭ, and John Croft, in the counte of Suff', gentylman, on that othyr parte. Sir Roger Darcy's name occurs in deeds relating to this manor in the latter part of the reign of Henry the Seventh. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Henry Wentworth, second son of Sir Roger Wentworth of Nettlestead, in this county; and probably held this manor in right of that marriage. Sir Roger died in 1508, and his widow re-married to Sir Thomas Wyndham, Vice-Admiral, and one of the Privy Council to Henry VIII. This accounts for their grant of the preceding lease, which, on the death of Sir Thomas Wyndham, was transferred by the other parties to Edward Coket, Esq. and held by him and Anthony his son, until 34 Hen. VIII., when the latter resigned all claims held by virtue thereof to Sir Thomas Darcy, Knt. son and heir of Dame Elizabeth Wyndham, now Countess of Bath, by Sir Roger Darcy, her first husband.

By an indenture dated the 10th June, in the same year, Sir Thomas Darcy bargains and sells unto John Crofte, Esq. "all that the manor of Ampton wt thappurtennce in the countie of Suff', wt the advoyson of the pishe churche of Ampton, and all those mesuagys, landę, tenementę, rentę, revcions, and seruicę, libties of folde, and shepis pasture, and other hereditaments and comodities, wt ther appurteñnce, in the townes and fildę of Ampton, Tymworth, Ingham, Lyvmer magna, Lyvmer pua, Barton, and Culford, in the said countie, whiche have ben at eny tyme byfore the date herof taken or estemed to be eny pt or member of the said manor whiche the said Sir Thomas at the date herof hathe in possession or revcon, or in any wyse hathe right or ys intitled vnto," for which the said John Crofte "coueñntith to paye or cause to be paid to the said Sir Thom"s the some of fyve hundred markę, twenty pownds sllinge."

It appears by a letter of one Anthony Ashe written unto William Spalding, that this manor with the advowson, in 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. were holden of the Queen as of the Barony of St. Edmund, by the fourth part of a knight's fee; that the messuage called Coket's, forty acres of land, two acres of meadow, ten acres of pasture, and four acres of wood, were holden of the Queen as of the hundred of Blackbourn by fealty; and that the tenement called the Chantry-house was holden of Richard Codington,[a] of Ixworth, Esq. by fealty.

This estate continued in the Crofts family until the 42nd Eliz. when it passed to that of Coell. The indenture by which Francis Croft, of West Stow, in Suffolk, conveys this manor, advowson, &c. to Thomas Coell, of Bury St. Edmund's, gent. bears date the 6th of September in that year.

Mr. Coell resided upon his estate here, and in 1609 married Susan, daughter of Thomas Jermyn, of Depden, Esq. a member of the Jermyn family, who were owners of considerable property at Depden, in this county, which Mr. Coell afterwards inherited, and where he and his descendants continued to reside until the death of Thomas Coell, of Depden Hall, Esq.

[a] Against the north wall of the chancel of Ixworth church, Suffolk, is a table monument, ornamented with shields in panels, and the same shields on brass are fixed on the wall within a circular arch above, together with figures of a man and his wife, and the following remarkable inscription:—"Here lyethe buryed the bodyes of Richard Codington, Esquyer, the First Temporall Lorde of this Manor of Ipworth (sic), after the Suppressyon of the Abbye, whiche he had of o^r^ sovereigne lorde kinge Henrye the eight, in exchaunge for the mano^r^ of Codington, now called Nonsuche, in the countie of Surrey, and Elizabeth his wyffe, sometyme the wyffe of Thomas Bucknh'm of greate Lyvermeare, Esquyer, which had yssue by the said Thomas Bucknh'm, John & Dorothe. The said Richard Codington deceasyd the xxvij day of Maye, in the yeare of o^r^ lorde God, a. M^l^cccccclxvij. and the said Elizabeth deceasyd the viii day of September in the yeare of o^r^ lorde God M^l^cccclxxj." (This inscription is imperfectly printed under the parish of Snetterton in Blomefield's Norfolk, i. 425, and is there erroneously stated to be in Great Livermere church.) The brasses, containing the figures, are eleven inches high. The parties are represented kneeling before desks, with their hands in prayer; the man bareheaded, in a gown furred in front, and having a high collar of fur, and long hanging sleeves. The lady in a close cap, small ruff, and full shoulders of the fashion of her day. The first coat is "CVDINGTON" [Gules,] a cross [or] fretty [azure]; the second "CVDINGTON & IENOVR," the impalement being, [Or] on a cross engrailed [azure] five fleurs-de-lis [of the first] within a bordure engrailed [of the second]; the third BVCKNHAM & IENOVR," Buckenham being Quarterly, 1 & 4, [Arg.] a lion rampant [gules]; 2. [Arg. or Or], two bars [sa.] Thelnetham; 3. [Arg.] three ogresses each charged with a cross-crosslet [of the field], Hethe. Mr. Bray, Hist. of Surrey, ii. 598, erroneously styles this person Sir Richard de Codington; there is no doubt, however, that he was the representative of an ancient family in that county, deriving its name from the manor and parish of Cuddington, and that he was tempted by the offer of several valuable manors in the eastern counties, to relinquish his ancestral domain to King Henry the Eighth, who erected thereon his far-famed palace of Nonesuch. (See the Gentleman's Magazine, New Series, vol. VIII. p. 135.)

son and heir of Sir John Coell, Knt. when the male line became extinct. He died Oct. 5, 1698; leaving Frances, his daughter, by Cecily his first wife, daughter of Sir Henry Croft, of Little Saxham, Knt. sole heiress to his estate. She married Richard Thornhill of Ollantigh, in Kent, Esq. Coell bare, Argent, a bull passant gules, in a bordure sable bezantée.

By a deed dated the 20th of May, the 13th James I. Thomas Coell, of Ampton, gent. grants to William Whettell, of Thetford, Esq. the manor, advowson, &c. of Ampton. He was the eldest son of William Whettell, gent. citizen and merchant-taylor, of St. Peter's Hill, in the parish of St. Peter and Benedict, in Paul's Wharf, London. In 1587, Robert Cooke, Esq. Clarenceux King of Arms, grants him the following coat armour, namely, Gules, a chevron ermine between three hound's heads erased or; and for his crest, On a wreath argent and gules, a hound's head couped or, the ear and collar argent.

In or about 1600, Mr. Whettell married Anne, relict of Eustace Tyrrell of Boyland Hall, in Bressingham, co. Norfolk, and resided at Thetford until about 1619, when he removed to his estate in this parish. He served the office of Sheriff for this county in 1622, and continued to reside here until his death, which took place Feb. 19, 1628; and his remains were deposited in the chancel of Ampton church, on the north side of which is a handsome mural monument, bearing the following inscription to his memory:—

"Mihi Christvs est in vita et morte lvcrvm.

"Hic jacet corpus clarissimi viri Gvlielmi Whetteli, armigeri, qui fuit in adolescentia optimis disciplinis enutritus, in virili ætate Socius collegii Sc̃tae Trinitatis in Academia Cantabrigiensi, in senili Eirenarcha et Vicecomes in comitatu Suffolciensi, civis bonus, magistratus melior, vir optimus. Feb̃r. 19o, anº Dñi 1628, ætatis suæ 67, ad cœlites migravit.

"Henricus Calthorpe, armiger (qui duxit in uxorem Dorotheam neptem suam) solus executor dicti Gulielmi et illi devinctissimus, posuit hoc monumentum."

Mr. Whettell died without issue, and the said Henry, afterwards Sir Henry Caltnorpe, inherited this property; for an account of whom, and his descendants, see Gentleman's Magazine for 1831, pt. ii. p. 406, and 1832, pt. i. pp. 109, 585.

HARKSTEAD, IN SAMFORD HUNDRED.

Robert Whettell, gent. brother of the above William Whettell, of Ampton, Esq. married Margaret, daughter and coheir of George Sampson, gent. owner of an estate and manor called Netherhall, in Harkstead, which property Mr. Sampson devised to Margaret his wife, during the minority of George his only son, who survived his father only six years, when it devolved to Elizabeth, Frances, Susan, and Margaret, his sisters and coheirs. Robert Whettell and Margaret his wife purchased the other sisters' shares, whereby they became lawfully seised of this estate in fee simple.

He died about 1607, and his widow was re-married to Francis Colby, gent. Some litigation took place between the widow, her second husband, and William Whettell, Esq. respecting money transactions; which became at length amicably adjusted, by the sale of the Netherhall estate, in 1618, to Richard Sutton, of Acton, in Middlesex, Esq.

LIVERMERE PARVA, IN BLACKBOURN HUNDRED.

The family of Croftes had formerly considerable interest in this parish, and in the 36th Eliz. Thomas Crofts, of Little Saxham, Esq. grants to Anthony Penning, Esq. in consideration of the sum of 2,100*l.* "all that the manor of Lyttle Lyvmere, called Murryelle, wth th'apptenents, in the county of Suff. together with all those tenemte called Kynge and Bulle, and all singlr messuage, londe, teñte, rente, &c. and also the advowson and patronage of the pishe churche of Lyttle Lyvmere, in the seid county of Suff. and also all that messuage and one hundred acres of londe, wth all the other londe, teñte, heathes, pastures, feadinge, fyshinge, fowlinge, shepes-courses, lybtyes of fouldē, &c. situate in Lyttle Lyvermere aforeseid and Great Lyvmere, wch sometyme were John Sampson's, together wth all other the messuage, londe, &c. situate or extending wthin the seid townes, pyshes, and feilde of Lyttle Lyvmere and Greate Lyvmere and Troston, in the seid county, &c.; also one woode called Oakewoode, and one pasture, called Oake Close, and two other pictelle conteynyng bothe together not above three acres there unto nere adioynyng, lying in Lyttle Lyvmere aforeseid, being all reputed to be pcell of the manor of Ampton, in the seid county, and all free rente and fyne due unto the seid manor of Ampton, in the seid county, and all free rente and fyne due unto the seid manor of Ampton, or pcell of the same only excepted and forepised," &c.

In the 39th of the same reign, Mr. Penning purchased of Sir John Smith the manor of Little Badow, in Essex. His ancestors were early seated at Kettleburgh, in this county; they bare, Gules, three stag's heads caboshed argent, and a chief indented ermine.

Arthur Penning, Esq. eldest son of John Pennyng, of Kettleburgh, gent. married, first Frances, the eldest daughter of William Stebbing, gent. and resided at Kettleburgh Hall in 1556; by her he had a son John, who died a bachelor in 1591; and a daughter. He married, secondly, Catharine, daughter of ——— Brook, gent. by whom he had six sons and seven daughters. He died in 1593, seised of the manors of Brockford and Colston Hall in Baddingham, and was interred in the chancel of Kettleburgh church.

Anthony Penning, Esq. was his eldest son, by his second marriage. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Crofts, of Saxham Parva, Esq. He served the office of High Sheriff for this county in 1607, and was in the commission of the peace in 1618, when his estate was valued at 1,500*l.* per annum.

Mr. Penning resided latterly at Ipswich, and, dying there in 1630, was interred in the chancel of the parish church of St. Matthew, in that town; on the north side of which is a handsome mural monument to his memory, containing figures of himself, his lady, and their numerous family. It bears the following inscription, with some commendatory verses:—

"Here lieth the body of Anthonie Penning, Esq. (sonne of Arthur Penning, of Ketleberge, in the county of Suffolke, Esqr.) who had issue by Elizabeth his wiffe (daughter of Thomas Crofte, of Saxham, in the said county, Esqr.) 14 sonnes and 4 daughters. He departed this life the 11th daie of Janvary, Año Dñi 1630, being of the age of 65 years."

His descendants continued proprietors of Kettleburgh Hall until about 1679, when Anthony Penning, Esq. his grandson, sold it to Richard Porter, gent.

ON THE ARCHDEACONRY OF ST. ALBAN'S; WITH A LIST OF ARCHDEACONS FROM 1415 TO 1539, BEING ANTECEDENT TO THE LIST GIVEN BY NEWCOURT.

The subjoined list of Archdeacons of St. Alban's has been collected from the Registers of Wills and the Act-books of the Archidiaconal Court of St. Alban's. The catalogue of the Archdeacons, as given in Newcourt's Repertorium, contains no other names, than those which are to be met with in the Register books of the diocese of London, since the Reformation. The present list carries the account of the succession in the Archdeaconry as far back as the year 1415, and shews the extent of the mistake made by Newcourt, when he ascribes the constitution of the Archdeaconry to the Bishop of London, and assigns no earlier date to it, than that of the annexation of the jurisdiction of the Abbey to the diocese of London in the 4th Edward VI.

It may perhaps be impossible to ascertain, at what time the first appointment of an Archdeacon as an officer under the Abbot of St. Alban's took place; we learn, however, from Matt. Paris in Vitis Abbat. p. 60, ed. 1640, that in 1129 there was an Archdeacon at St. Alban's named Radulphus, and that during the controversy relative to the Abbey's being exempt from the Bishops of Lincoln (A.D. 1160), the jurisdiction of the Archdeacon was pleaded in proof of ancient exemption.

ARCHDEACONS OF ST. ALBAN'S.

1415. John Blebury.
1420. John Hatfeld.
1425. William Alnewyke.
1435. John Peyton.
1437. John Hatfeld.
1441. Stephen London.
1446. William Albon.
1450. William Walingford.
1476. Nicholas Boston.
1478. John Rothebury.
1490. John Thornton.
1494. Thomas Newlonde.
1495. Richard Runham.
1505. John Stonywell.
1506. John Killingworth.
1506. John Albon.
1509. John Maynard.
1512. Richard Runham.
1514. Thomas Marshall.
1517. Thomas Kyngesbury.
1531. Egidius Ferrers.
1531. Thomas Kyngesbury.
1539. William Este.

[For subsequent List, see Newcourt, vol. i. p. 95, and Clutterbuck's History of Hertfordshire, vol. i. p. 41.]

It is proper to remark with respect to the two Archdeacons whose names are the last on the list, Thomas Kingsbury and William Este, that Thomas Kingsbury received a formal appointment as Archdeacon and Commissary from Robert Catton the Abbot in 1531, but that in 1536 the words "Authoritate Regiâ" are added to his title; and that William Este, whose name stands at the head of Newcourt's list, without notice of the time of his admission, is first mentioned in the Act-book as Archdeacon July 15, 1539, though it does not appear by whom he was appointed.

This concludes the letters, &c. addressed to or written by the Ottley family during the reign of Charles I. No sooner, however, was Cromwell dead than immediate means of communication were taken by the gentry of Shropshire with Charles II. for his restoration; and the following Commission, the original of which is on vellum, sealed with the King's seal, is, perhaps, one of the earliest granted by him.

CHARLES R.

Charles by ye grace of God King of England, Scotland, France, & Ireland, Defender of ye Faith, &c. To Our trusty Richard Ottley,[r] Richard Screven,[s] Esqrs. Vincent Edwards,[t]

[r] Richard Ottley of Pitchford, Esq. afterwards knighted, eldest surviving son and heir of Sir Francis Ottley, Knt. was Gentleman of the Privy Chamber to Charles II. one of the Deputy Lieutenants for the county of Salop, which he represented in Parliament 1661, and died in London Aug. 10, 1670.

[s] Of Frodesley, co. Salop, son of Sir Thomas Screven, Colonel of the Trained Bands at the commencement of the civil war. Richard also held the commission of Colonel in the King's service, was an affable, expert, and brave soldier, celebrated for his loyalty and zeal, and one who suffered extremely in the royal cause, losing his estate and liberty, and narrowly escaping with his life. Through the assistance of friends he re-purchased the first, and the last was preserved and his liberty regained solely by the death of Cromwell. An unpublished poem, entitled "Cornall Screvens Farewell," traditionally (but internal evidence proves erroneously) supposed to have been written by him when in prison in London and likely to suffer for his loyalty, containing thirty-two stanzas, is among the Ottley

Thomas Jones of the Sheete, gent.[u] Richard Fowler[x] & John Lacon,[y] Esq[r]. & to every of them Greeting. We do by these presents constitute & appoint you Our Commissioners for Our County of Salop, Giuing you or y[e] major part of you power to leavy Souldiers Horse and Foote for y[e] opposing & destroying those who are in Rebellion against Vs; And to appoint Colonels & all inferior Officers to Comand y[e] Souldiers so raysed; and likewise to make choice of any person to be Com̃and[r] in cheif over them for any one particular designe, or as long as you shall think fitt, or vntill Our pleasure be further signifyed; and with those Forces to Cause any Fort, Castle, Towne, or Cittye to be seized on, for Vs; and to fight, kill, and destroye all who are in armes against Our authority; And We do further giue you power to Rayse moneys by an equall & impartiall way of Contribution for y[e] maintenance of those Forces w[ch] you shall leavy or of such as shalbe brought into the Country, for the carrying on of Our Service; and to do all acts necessary for the support of y[e] same; And We require all Our louing Subjects of that Our County to obey all such orders & directions as you shall make in pursuance of this Our Comission, and for so doing this shalbe to you & them a sufficient Warrant. Given at Our Court at Bruxelles the 5th day of March 1659. In the Eleventh yeare of Our Raigne.

MSS. After taking leave of his daughter, officers, soldiers, &c. it thus alludes to some of his gallant companions who had previously paid the debt of nature:

"Sir Thomas Harris led the van,
Sir Richard Ottley followed neare,
Sir Vincent Corbett and Tom Owen,
And now I must bring up the reare.

These gentlemen I dearly loved,
And I am shur that they loved me,
And often times we were engaged
For to helpe home his Majesty.

We oft in Shrosbrey prisoners ware,
Where some of us a long time layd,
A Garde to London fatcht us up
Before a tireant to be tried.

When we were gon our frendes did morne,
And rebells to their comfort sede,
Our heads they should be taken off,
Or else we should be banished."

He died in 1682, leaving an only daughter married to Roger Whitley of Peover, co. Chester, Esq. when (as I believe) the writer of the "Farewell" wrote another poem, also unpublished, entitled "The Sowldiers Lamentation for Cornal Screven," consisting of fifteen stanzas.

Hon^{d} Dear Mother.

The Parliament are now very strictly vpon the inquisition for that most Sacred and innocent blood of o^{r} late Soueraigne Charles the first, that thus far they haue, I reed that they haue designed seauen to bee exempted from pardon, soe that some just Vengence may ouer take those blood-thirsty men, and as to the estates both Reall and personall of all others who had any hand in the same, the Par: haue voted them to bee forfeited to the Kings Majesty and imediatly to bee sequestrd; this day the House takes the Act of indemnety in to further Consideration. As far as my one affaire I look upon my worke if it please my selfe accomplished; but I am som what at a stand wth my Selfe in relation to the humor that is somwhat to predominant in a freind what that was I acquainte y^{r} Lady^{pp} wthall, for I find som violent oppossition to my fancy, wch makes me fearfull that if I shoud tye my selfe it might in crease, how euer my frends here will haue all this to vanish in short time, wch I hope it may, but if it should not I should bee at a great Losse. I beseech yor Lady^{pp} aduise in this, whose councell I shall most cheerfuly follow and obey: all yor Lady^{pps} frends here present their seruice to you, my prayers all for y^{r} Lady^{pps} long life and health, humbly craving y^{r} blessing. Right Hon^bie.^[a]

I came vppon the 6th day of this instant m^o^ to my house to Shrewsbury, to see my wife and children, haueinge my pase vnder the Coll. Gillby hand of Hull to pase quitly without truble. After I had bynne here 4 dayes I was taken from my house by a guard of yor Soulders and brought to Mr. Bowares his house; Capt. Hossiar[b] promised me to writ to yor honour about me; I expected to haue bynne released before this: I know noe reason why I should be imprisoned; I haue taken the oth of Alegence and Supremisey; and by the heelpe of God I will be carfull to keepe it; I had a Commission from the Kinge to bee Captaine; I have not in word nor action don any thinge to the disturbance of the peace; I haue wronged noe man; I haue bussnesse of great conserment to goe to Chester; and then I am to returne for Hull; I haue not as yett receaued my Arreares due to mee: the fauiour I humbly beg of yor Hono^r^ is that I may be releassed to goe about my honest and first occation; I am soe fere from actinge any thinge against the Kinge, or to disturub or haue a hand in any plots, that I shall be ready to Sacrifice my life in his M'isties seruice. If there be any accusation against me I desire I may come to my treall; my Innocency plead for me which makes me soe bould to writ to yor honour; be pleased to writ to yor office^r^ next post. I am ingaged for my Soulders to pay a good sume of money to the Inhabitance of Shrewsbury; and if I haue not my libartie to returne to Hull the Towne will losse it; for I am not ingaged to pay them except I receaue it.

My Lord,

I receaued just now a letter directed to one Jellico a quaker, who being pricked in Conscience (as he said to the Major of Chester) brought it to him; the letter mentioning that their party is 6000 strong, and that they intend to sett upon Chester upon Thursday next. I thought it convenient to acquaint you^r^ Lo: herewith, and remaine, my Lord,

I rec^d^ y^rs^ of ye 13th for wch y^u^ haue my thankes. I send you hereinclosd a Letter frō ye Counsell; & a proclamation w^h^all for ye moderatinge of y^r^ proceedings; though it may bee conceiued a very ineffectuall waye for ye securinge of persons to send warrants to a Constable, yet if souldiers bringe the warrant to him y^r^ ends may seeme accomplishable. Y^u^ see the letter speakes of leadinge men; therefore you did ill in releasinge Waringe,[c] & y^u^ needed not haue app̃hended his ranting demand of a mittimus—wch will serve him for discourse in his 2 pot houses. I would aduise you to send for him agen, though not as a criminal by proofe, yet as a dangerous person, especially hauing ye Comand of ye Councell for it. I received this enclosd from Capt. Turner, whom I thinke if he will quit ye Towne, you may do well to release. I shall desire you to keepe such letters or orders as I send y^u^ from time to time frō the King or Councell. The King intendinge to raise a Regiment of Horse, und^r^ the comand of ye E. of Oxford, and another of foot under ye comand of my Brothr Russell for his guards here, besides ye ordnary guards under my Ld Gerard to bee 200, the D. of York's lyfguard 150, & the Generalls lyf guard 150 more, the Generalls Regiment of foot beinge likewise to stand, hath resolvd to disband all ye inland Guarison forces, & among ye rest vs at Shrewsbury & Ludlow. I give you many thankes & the rest of my freinds (wch I desire yu to deliver to them as yu have occasion) for yr kindenesse to me in bussinesse of Glaicier. I haue heard that yr neighbour thinkes I might have p̃vaild for him (if I had bin disposd to it) to bee Goũnr of Ludlow, but I could wish for his owne sake hee had bin as just to mee in euery thing as I haue bin to him, and if my life had bin at stake I could neyther procure Gouernor nor Capt. nor soe much as an Ensigne for that place; neyther could they allow a Gou'nor in the establishmt of Shrewsbury, soe frugall they are; & wt will become of Shrewsburye now God knowes; they are very well content to bee safe, but not to pay for it. But for ye bussinesse of Excise hinted at before, I haue some reasons to doubt noe one there will bee much ye better for it. I haue recd the remonstrance of Sr Tho. Harris Troop, but have not yet spoke wh him abt it; assoone as I haue, I shall give you a further accompt. When or Companyes at Shrewsbury are disbanded, the Deputy Liuetenants had best comitt the p̃soners in ye Castle to ye Prouost Marshall, where Mr. Waringe must alsoe bee unlesse hee give securitye to be true p̃soner at other qaters, & for his good behauiour there; by Sherington Talbotts[d] lr̃e to mee, wch I sent G. Hosier, it is to bee doubted hee had bin dablinge in this late bussinesse.

I am, Sr,

Yr very affectionate Cozen & servt,

Fra: Newport.

To our very good Lord the Lord
Niewport, Lord Leivetenant of the County of Salop.

After our hearty comendacõns, Whereas by our last lr̃e of the 22th of January, wee desired yr Lordspp & yor Deputyes [d] Son of Sherington Talbot, of Salwarp, Lacock, and Rudge. The father and son were diametrically opposed to each other in politics; the former siding with the Parliament, but dying at the very commencement of that troublesome period, and the latter espousing the cause of the King, for his zeal in support of whom he had to pay 2011*l.* He resided in Shrewsbury in 1665.

to obserue the motions and meetings of dangerous ꝑsons, & to secure them, Vpon wch accompt very many ꝑsons vnder the notion of Quakers haue been secured & Imprisoned. Yor care & proceedings wherein this Bord doth well approve. Nevertheless forasmuch as the danger wch occasioned their Comittmt is (God bee praised) well over, and that his Matie is deeply troubled with petitions for enlarging multitudes comitted to prison as aforesaid & still remaineing in restraint, We haue thought fitt to lett yor Lordspp knowe that his Matie is well pleased, and leaues it free to you to discharge from Imprisonmt all such ꝑsons as haue been secured only vpon suspition in ye late Insurreccon, or at any time since & doe remaine comitted by you, except only the Ringleaders of Faction amongst them. And soe wee bid you very heartily Farewell. From ye Court at Whitehall the 4th of March 1660.

Yor Lordspps' very loueing Freinds,

For my much respected freind
Sr Richard Ottley, Knt. at Pitchford in Shropshire.
To be left at ye postehouse in Shrewsburye.

Sr Richard, Lon. 11o Junii 63.

I thanke yu for yrs of the 6th, wch gives mee aduertisemt of the meetinge of those factious Ministers, wch gives greet cause of jealousye at this tyme when we have bin soe freshly alarmed out of Ireland, not whout great probabillitye of a Correspondence betweene those unquiett Spiritts there & those of the same principles here; tis belieued likewise here that there was a designe lately for ye surprize of Chester Castle, & by wt Geo: Ho: wrytes to mee this last poste, I belieue noe less for Shrewsbury. To secure those Ministers at present I thinke not soe Convenient, in regard there is noe proof agt them, & we shall not have wherewh to ansr their Complaints, & we doubt speedy desires of enlargemt, wch yet to grant wd make the action seeme to haue bin whout reason. My advice to you therefore is, that yu endeauour to imploy some person that has bin formerlye of the brotherhood whom yu can confide in, to mingle himselfe wh them at their next meetinge & to giue yu an account of their designes, & if yu finde them bad to secure them all; if yu cannot engage such a person, then to learn by ye best means yu can when their next meeting is, & when their company is full to take ye Marshall & 2 or 3 men w^h you & goe in amongst them & know of them the cause of their meetinge, & if they doe not give yu good satisfaction, to take a note of their names, letting them know that they haue given occasion of jealousye by their often & numerous meetings, & demanding of those that reside in the Towne will be engaged for ye appearance of the rest; if soe, you may dismisse them for the present if you see cause, & w^hin a day or 2 may get 2 Deputy Liueten^ts more to signe a Warrant to the Marshall for their comitm^t, wch in case they meet any more I aduise be done; but if yu can by any meanes learne that they haue any seditious or treasonable designes on foot, & are able by any testimony to make it out, I haue written to G. Hosier that in that case hee bee aydinge to yu w^t his souldiers for their present securing in the Castle. If yu make any new discouerye I shall desire yu to certifye mee of it pticularlye that I may shew eyther the K^g or ye Secretary y^r Lre. I am, S^r,

Here is noe newes at all. FRA. NEWPORT.

My seruice to ye Ladyes of y^r family.

For my much honor'd freinde

Pitchford in Shropshire.
To bee left w^h ye Postem^r of Salop.

Sr Richard, Lon. 6 Oct. 63.

I receiud y^rs of the 3^d, for wch I give you thankes. I acquainted the King with ye particulars of it, who sayes it is true that Sr Godfrey Copley hath sent one up to him to acquaint him w^h ye same discouery, & that ye intended risinge was to bee on ye 12th of this month, but that it was first to beginne in London; now his Maties intelligencers here (wch are very good) givinge him noe aduertisem^t of any preparations in this place for that purpose, makes him thinke the bussinesse not much worth his regard; however, yu may doe well to aduise the Gouernor of the Castle to bee carefull. Present my affectionate seruice I pray to ye rest of ye rest of ye Deputy Leuetenn^ts, & let them know my opinion is that, unlesse they make further discouery of danger at home, they neede only give orders to Capt. Prince [e] & Capt. Jones [f] of Ludlow to haue their Companyes in a readinesse, that the Towne Gates bee shut for a forthnight or some such time in the night time wh a small guard at them, wch I hope will bee sufficient, without putting the Countrey to any further charge in callinge the militia together; for, if those 2 Townes bee secured, I thinke wee should not bee ill satisfyed to see them in the feild. If they finde any further cause for it then ye present intelligence, it is left their discretions to act as they thinke fitt. In the mean time I desire that yu will all expedite the settling of the militia as much as may bee according to ye Acts & to hasten yr Generall muster, least ye yeare be too farre spent for it, & ye more soe for these alarms. Sr, I haue noe more at p̃sent but to assure you that I am

Most of the nobility and gentry throughout the kingdom who espoused the Royal cause were despoiled of a very considerable portion of their property, and some of them of the whole, during the usurpation of Parliament and Cromwell, and numerous were the individuals in every county who in consequence thereof were reduced from affluence either to great distress or to comparative poverty. And in addition to the heavy sums in the shape of composition fixed upon them for their delinquency, as loyalty was then called, Cromwell raised a new and standing militia of horse in every county, the burden of maintaining which he fixed upon the royalists by a tax of decimation, or the tenth of the remaining part of their property. Shortly after the Restoration steps were taken for the relief of the numerous officers who had not only fought and bled in the cause of their unfortunate monarch, but who, from the circumstances above mentioned, had been reduced to a state of indigence, and in the 13th and 14th Charles II. 1661, 1662, two Acts of Parliament were passed for that purpose, the one for "the distribution of threescore thousand pounds amongst the truly loyal and indigent Commissioned Officers," &c. and the other for "the relief of poor maimed Officers and Soulders who have faithfully served his Majesty and his Royal father in the late Wars." By the latter, power was given

REGISTER OF BURIALS IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

The Burials in the Collegiate Church of St. Peter, Westminster, are preserved in the same manuscript from which the Marriages and Baptisms given in the preceding pages (pp. 162—174, and 243—248) were taken. Inscriptions upon the monuments, tablets, and grave-stones to the memory of many individuals whose burials are here recorded, will be found in Dart's History of the Abbey, as well as in Neale and Brayley's History, but a continual reference to the pages of those works would have extended unnecessarily the notes, which are confined to particulars identifying the several parties. From the discrepancy in some cases between the years assigned to the burials and the dates supplied by the inscriptions from the monuments or gravestones, as well as from the number of burials omitted, it is clear that the early part of the register is a compilation after the Restoration, and contains only such as Mr. Tynchare states "could be found in imperfect books, and such as have been carefully taken notice of since the happy Restoration of his Majesty King Charles the Second" (see p. 162). Mr. Philip Tynchare was installed 11 Feb. 1660, and his burial occurs in 1673.

ADDITIONS TO DUGDALE'S BARONAGE; FROM THE MS. COLLECTIONS OF FRANCIS TOWNSEND, ESQ. WINDSOR HERALD.

EARLS OF WARREN AND SURREY.—Vol. I. p. 73.

[Addendum to the article printed at page 132; to follow the last paragraph, p. 136.]

(Note as to the parentage of Gundreda de Warren.)

Watson agrees with Dugdale.

If Mortimer were really the brother of Earl Warren, then the opposite parts they took, as in Dugdale, p. 73, seems to require some observation.

Dugdale (p. 74) says that Gundred, wife of the first William de Warenne, was sister of Gherbode, a Fleming (to whom the Conqueror gave the Earldom of Chester). Watson, and almost all the pedigrees I have seen, call her daughter of William the Conqueror, and the charter to Lewes (Watson, i. 25) calls her the daughter of Queen Maud. I therefore feel something like doubt whether she might not have been daughter in law to the Conqueror by his wife's quondam husband. There appears a striking distinction in that charter of William second Earl Warren, viz. "pro salute Dñi mei Wmi R qui me in Anglicam terram adduxit, et pro salute Dñe mee Matildis Regine matris uxoris mee, et p salute Dñi mei Willmi R filij sui, &c. Had William been her father, I can't find any reason for making such a distinction as that of describing the Queen as the mother. ergo q.

Brooke calls her fifth daughter of King William, and is not contradicted by Vincent; but she is not mentioned in a note written by Vincent, in which he enumerates five daughters.

P. 82b, l. 10, after "annum," make a note. The record here referred to does not prove the fact of a divorce having taken place; it only proves that the King had "à la requeste John de Garenne Counte de Surr. graunte et ottroye q̃ le dit Counte puisse seure en la Court Cristien et en lieus convenables cause de divortz vers Dame Joñne de Bars nr̃e niece en totes les maneres," &c. and that in case of divorce being obtained, the Earl agreed to give to the said Joan within a quarter of a year after such divorce celebrated and pronounced (celebre et pronuncie) 740 marks a year for her life out of his lands in the towns of Graham and Gretwell: but that no such divorce did really take place has been sufficiently shown already: however, a few more proofs may be added.

Upon the deposition of King Edward the Second, in the 20th year of his reign (eleven years after the permission to sue for the divorce had been granted), the Great Seal of England was delivered to the Bishop of Norwich (to be keeper thereof) by the Queen and the Prince, in the Queen's chamber, within the Abbey of Cirencester, on Sunday in the feast of St. Andrew the Apostle, in the presence of Roger Mortimer, Joan Countess of Warren, &c. &c. [a]

In a grant from King Edward the Third, in the 11th year of his reign, to William Earl of Salisbury of 1000 marks per annum, it is expressly provided that the payment of 800 thereof is to cease at such time as he shall become possessed of the castle and manor of Troubrigg, and certain other manors which John de Warren, Earl of Surrey, and Joan his wife held for the term of their lives, with reversion to the said Earl of Salisbury "post decessum dictorum Comitis Warrene et Joanne." [b]

[a] Rot. Claus. anno 20 Edw. II. m. 3 dorso.

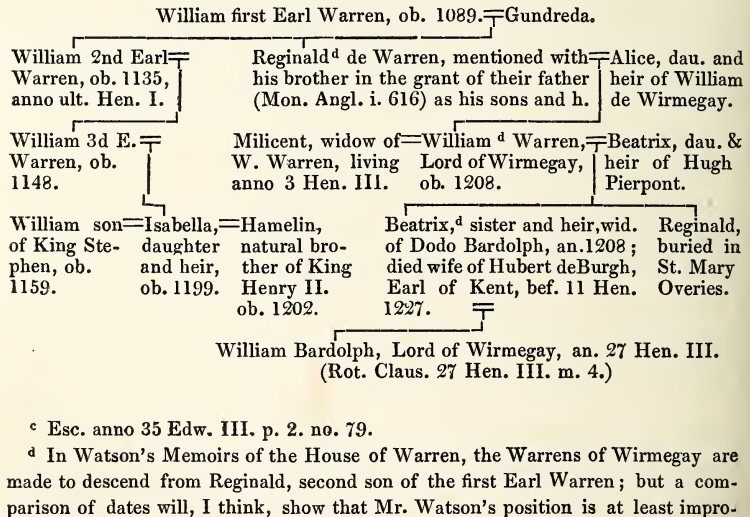
[b] Rot. Claus. anno 11 Edw. III. p. 1. m. 1 .

In the inquisition after her death, the jurors say that she held for term of her life, by grant from the King, the manors of Troubridge, Ambresbury, Wintersborne, and Aldeborne, part of the inheritance of William, son and heir of William de Montacute, late Earl of Salisbury.[c]

It would be waste of time to say any more about a pre-contract with Maud de Nerford, or a marriage with Isabella de Houland. He married Joan de Bars in 33 Edw. I. She became his widow and received dower in 21 Edw. III.; she died his widow in 35 Edw. III.; the lands which the King had given to her and her husband jointly for their lives, with reversion to Montacute Earl of Salisbury, remained in her possession to her death, and then passed to Montacute according to the grant.

Warren of Wirmegay.—Vol. I. p. 82.

(Note as to the descent from the first Earl Warren.)



[c] Esc. anno 35 Edw. III. p. 2. no. 79.

[d] In Watson's Memoirs of the House of Warren, the Warrens of Wirmegay are made to descend from Reginald, second son of the first Earl Warren; but a comparison of dates will, I think, show that Mr. Watson's position is at least improbable, almost impossible.

The father (according to Mr. Watson) of Reginald died in 1089.

His father-in-law was living 71 years after, in 1160.

The elder brother of Reginald was dead in 1135.

Reginald himself was certainly living 37 years after, in 1172; and probably 50 years after, viz. in 1185, as William his son pays scutage first in 1186.

William, the third Earl, nephew of Reginald, died in 1148.

William, the son of Reginald, 60 years after, viz. 1208.

The descent, as it is drawn by Dugdale, is not liable to any such objection.

Page 83b, line 21, note. In Monasticon Anglic. vol. ii. 85, there is a grant from this Beatrix to the monks of Southwark, by which it appears she had another husband: "Ego Beatrix filia Willielmi de Warrenna, post mortem viri Dñi mei Radulphi, dum essem in viduitate meâ," &c. &c. Who that Ralph was I cannot discover, nor is it perhaps material, as all her inheritance went to her issue by Bardolph.

Earls of Leicester.—Dugd. Vol. I. p. 83.

P. 85, l. 69, note. The other daughters are noticed in the pedigree.

P. 85b, l. 2, after "salt," note. His widow afterwards became the wife of William Earl Warren. (See p. 75, l. 55.)

P. 88, l. 68, after "Leicester," note. This William is by Nesbit, and other writers upon the Scotch Peerage, said to have been the ancestor of the Dukes of Hamilton. It may be true, but I have not met with any thing like proof of the fact.

Meschines.—Vol. I. p. 89.

P. 89. This article is imperfectly stated, and not according to the authorities referred to. William de Meschines, uncle (i. e. brother of the father) of Ralph the first Earl of Chester, was lord of Coupland by the gift of William the Conqueror. He married Cecilia de Rumelli, Lady of Skipton in Craven, and they founded the Priory of Bolton aº. 1120,[e] to which they gave the church of Skipton, with its chapel of Carlton, and all the town of Emmesey. They had issue two sons, Ralph and Matthew, who both died issueless, and two daughters, Alice and Avice. Alice was the wife of William Fitz-Duncan (which Duncan was a natural son of Malcolm Can-mor, King of Scotland), by whom she had one son, William Lord of Egremont, and three daughters, Cecily Countess of Albemarle, Amabilla wife of Reginald de Lucy, and Alice first of Gilbert Pipard, and afterwards of Robert de Courtenay. The issue of Cecily will be found under the title of Albemarle; that of Amabilla under Lucy. Alice had no issue by Pipard or Courtenay.

[e] Mon. Ang. vol. ii. 100.

Avice, the second daughter and coheir of William de Meschines and Cecily, was married to William de Curcy, Dapifer to King Henry I., who had with her all the lordship of Harewood in the county of York, and their issue will be found under CURCY and ALDBURGH.

PEVERELL.—Vol. I. p. 436, &c.

It does not appear that any of these Peverells were summoned to Parliament; therefore I do not propose to take further notice of them.

BAYNARD.—Vol. I. p. 461.

Amongst the writs of summons for 6 and 7 Edw. II. are three for a Robert Banyard (Baygnard): but in this article there is no Robert, and therefore I have nothing to add to it, remembering only to introduce BAYNARD amongst the other of Dugdale's omitted Baronies.

PORT.—Vol. I. p. 463[b].

——— l. 37, add, He had been summoned to Parliament from 32 Edw. I. to 20 Edw. II., and departed this life in 3 Edw. III. leaving Hugh de St. John, his son and heir, nineteen years of age, and Isabel his wife, daughter of Hugh Courtenay, surviving, being then seised jointly with the said Isabel (of, &c. as in line 33.)

——— l. 38, after "Hugh," add, coming of age in 5 Edw. III. was summoned to Parliament that year, and being executor of his said father's testament in the same year, represented to the King (&c. as in the text.)

ABRINCIS SIVE AVRENCHES.—Vol. I. p. 467.

This Barony passed entire to Hamon de Crevecœur by marriage with Maud, whose issue male failing in the second generation, the inheritance was divided between the issue of his four daughters.[f] Of these daughters the eldest, Agnes, married to John de Sandwich; the second, Isolda, to Nicholas de Lenham;

[f] Esch. 47 Hen. III. n. 33.

Elena, the third, to Bertram de Crioll; and Isabella, the fourth, to Henry de Gaunt.

The issue of Agnes failed in the third or fourth generation.

That of Isolda in her great-granddaughter Eleanor Gifford, temp. Edw. III.; and Isabella never had any. So that the whole inheritance at length fell to the issue of Elena, which will be found under the title of CRIOLL.

TONI.—Vol. I. p. 469.

P. 470, l. 17, for "Robert," read Roger.

P. 471, after l. 70, add, This Robert was summoned to Parliament from 27 Edw. I. till his death. Alice, his sister and sole heir, had issue by each of her husbands, which, as they were all Peers, will be found under their respective titles.

ANGUS EARLDOM.—Vol. I. p. 504.

The precise tenure of this as an English Peerage is not ascertained. The first writ of summons for the Earldom is 25 Edw. I. and the person then summoned had been previously called to 23 and 24 Edw. I. only as a Baron, viz. Gilbto de Umfraville. I do not find any letters patent, nor any other document prescribing the nature of the inheritance, or limiting the descent to the heirs male: so that, as far as my information reaches, it appears to me to stand precisely upon the footing of a Barony by writ. It passed in regular male succession for three or four generations, from 25 Edw. I. to 4 Ric. II. till the death of Gilbert the last Earl, who died in that year. He left no surviving issue, and the Inquisition post mortem finds Eleanor Tailboys, the daughter of his sister Elizabeth, to be his heir, and forty years old. It is, however, quite certain that he had two brothers, one of whom, named Thomas, survived him six years, and left two sons. Here then is an instance of an Earldom ceasing without any defect of issue from the first Earl. Thomas above-named died a°. 10 Ric. II. leaving a son of the same name, 24 years old, and a Knight. This latter Thomas left a son named Gilbert, and five daughters. Gilbert died without issue a°. 9 Hen. V.; but there was still an heir male of the body of the first grantee existing in Robert de Umfraville, uncle of the last Gilbert. This

Robert died without issue a°. 15 Hen. VI. and then, and not before, the male line became extinct. Every one of the four males above-mentioned was of full age, and competent to take the succession, at the time when it devolved upon him, but neither of them enjoyed it. This might be reasonably accounted for by concluding that the original grant extended, according to the general practice of that age, to heirs general: but the dignity appears to have ceased altogether from the death of Earl Gilbert in 4 Ric. II.

This case seems to countenance an idea which is frequently to be met with in writers upon Peerage, that the descent of ancient dignities in general depended chiefly upon the will of the Crown.

Musard.—Vol. I. p. 512b.

P. 513, l. 7, note. The Esc. 1 Edw. I. states Nicholas to be brother and heir of Ralph, and thirty-two years of age. It afterwards appears, by Esc. 15 Edw. I. that John, the son of Ralph, made proof of his age, and that he died in 17 Edw. I. when the same Nicholas, his uncle, was found to be his heir, forty years old, as in the text.

——— l. 18, after "Musardere" insert (now called Miserden.)

——— l. 33. There being no writs of summons in this case, it has not been thought necessary to pursue the issue of the coheirs.

Chaworth.—Vol. I. p. 517.

Had the Baronies of Kedwelly and Ogmore in South Wales, and of Alfreton and Norton in the county of Derby, and in the famous letter of the English Barons to the Pope in the year 1300, Thomas Chaworth styles himself Lord of Norton.

Continued for several generations in lineal male succession till the death of Thomas Chaworth, a°. 22 Edw. IV. without issue, when his sister Joan, the wife of John Ormond, became sole heir. She had issue three daughters, her coheirs.[g]

1. Joan, wife of Thomas Dinham, a natural son of John the last Lord Dinham, by whom she had several children.

[g] Vinc. no. 10, 56, 185.

2. Elizabeth, wife of Sir Anthony Babington, by whom she had issue, and was great-grandmother of Anthony Babington, who was attainted in the reign of Elizabeth.

3. Anne, wife of William Mering of Nottinghamshire, had no issue.

VALLETORT.—Vol. I. p. 522. (No Writs.)

P. 522b, l. 67, after "heirs," add, viz. the said Henry, son of Joan, one of the sisters of said Roger, and the said Peter, son of Isabel the other sister. Henry was thirty-two and Peter thirty years old and upwards.

Earls of Gloucester—Vol. I. p. 534.

P. 535b, l. 68, after "Derb." add. Brooke, in his Catalogue, ascribes another daughter to this Earl of the name of Mabel, and says she was married to Aubrey de Vere. As Vincent does not question the fact, and Sandford follows Brooke, it is also inserted here.

P. 536b, l. 1, supply the blank with Almeric.

Bertram of Mitford.—Vol. I. p. 545b.

There is but a single writ of summons in this case, and that only to the rebel Parliament in 49 Hen. III. It is therefore not necessary to follow the descent of the coheirs; indeed they are all, except Penbury, in the rank of Peerage, and will of course appear under the respective titles.

Lovell.—Vol. I. p. 557.

P. 558, l. 1, from "Muriel," make a note. This Muriel was not daughter of Earl Douglas but of John de Soules, which John had a grant from King Edward I.[k] of the custody of the lands of Hugh de Lovell during the minority of this Sir Richard, his son and heir. It appears also that King Edward II. granted to Sir Richard in tail general the manor of Wynefrith Eagle, in exchange for that of Old Rokesburgh, "belonging to Muriel his wife, the daughter and heir of John Soules."[l]

P. 558, l. 12, add, whose great-granddaughter and heir Alice Seymour marrying with William Lord Zouche, of Haryngworth, united this Barony to that, and they continued in that state to the year 1625, when they fell into abeyance. See Zouche.

found that about eight years before he died he had enfeoffed John Lovell, his eldest son, in his manor of Tichmersh, to hold to him and his heirs for ever; and that the said John the son was accordingly seised thereof at the time of his father's death, and was then twenty-two years old. This John, the son, Dugdale says, died a°. 8 Edw. II. leaving an only daughter, Joan, his heir, only two years of age. He then states the second marriage of the widow, and proceeds thus: "In 8 Edw. III. this last mentioned John was," &c. Now the John last mentioned in the text died in 8 Edw. II. and does not appear by the text to have left any son. We are therefore to seek for the father of this John who flourished under Edward the Third. Although the inquisition referred to of 8 Edw. II. finds that John Lovell, then deceased, held the manor of Tichmersh in his demesne as of fee, and that Joan his daughter was his heir only two years of age, and says nothing about a son, yet the pedigrees in the College of Arms ascribe to him a son John by the said Maud Burnell; and the inquisition, after the death of John de Handlo, his mother's second husband, in a°. 20 Edw. III.[n] states that John Lovell, son and heir of John, was then living and next heir to the said Maud by her former husband; a fact which can in no other way be reconciled with the inquisition of 8 Edw. II. but by supposing him to have been born after his father's death; and thus the link otherwise wanting in the regular chain of descent is supplied, and the text may now be followed.

Mem. To compose an entire new reading for the text from the word age in line 28 to line 48 inclusive. And state why the Barony of Burnell did not descend to Lovell but to Handlo.

P. 558, l. 59, after "wife," note. This Isabel died in 25 Edw. III. at which time her son and heir John is described as being eleven years old.

York, who was outlawed for felony, and his lands were seized into the King's hands, a°. 11 Ric. III. as appears in the text.

P. 569[b], l. 10. note. This Elizabeth had a former husband, Sir Robert Harington, Knt. by whom she had John the first Lord Harington, under which title her posterity will appear. That of Joan will be found in the descent of FITZWALTER, and that of Margaret under LUCY of Cockermouth.

BAYEUX.—Vol. I. p. 573.

Ended in two daughters and coheirs temp. Henry III. who being minors, and their father, Stephen de Baiocis, holding his lands of the King in capite per Baroniam, and the King therefore having the custody thereof, and also of the heirs, in a°. 34 granted that custody to Elias de Rabel, who having himself married Maud, the eldest daughter, retained the whole inheritance, rendering no part thereof to Joan, the youngest daughter, who was married to Peter Baudrat, of Poictou, by whom she had a son and heir named Peter, who, in 14 Edw. I., sued his aunt Maud for his mother's portion. Afterwards Peter acknowledged that he had released and quit claimed to the King all the right which he had in the inheritance. Afterwards came one Peter Mallore, who had married Rabel's widow, Maud, alleging error, in that Peter Baudrat, being an alien born in parts beyond the seas, had no legal claim to any part of said inheritance. This plea was overruled, as to Peter Baudrat, because the King having granted the wardship and marriage of both the coheirs to Elias de Rabel, whatever Elias did under that grant must be considered as done by reason of the King's gift; and it would be contrary to law to disinherit any one who held under the King's gift; therefore Mallore could not recover: and as Peter Baudrat had surrendered all his right to the King, it was

——— l. 59, note. From this period the descent of the title is clearly and correctly stated in the second volume of Edmond-son's Baronagium Genealogicum down to Francis the tenth Earl, who dying unmarried 2 October 1790, the Earldom has been generally considered to have become extinct, and the Baronies, all of which had commenced by writ of summons, devolved upon and are enjoyed by Francis Rawdon Hastings, Earl of Moira in Ireland,[u] and Baron Rawdon of Rawdon in the county of York, as nephew and sole heir general of the said late Earl, being eldest son and heir of his only surviving sister, Elizabeth Countess of Moira. But at the beginning of the year 1818, a claimant appeared for the Earldom, deriving his title as the lineal descendant and heir male of Sir Edward Hastings, Knt. fourth son of Francis the second Earl of Huntingdon, as above mentioned.[x]

Note. Since the publication of the number containing Mr. Townsend's additions to this article, it has been communicated to me by a member of the Shirley family, that he does not acquiesce in the statement there made respecting the illegitimacy of Isabel Basset, wife of Sir Thomas Shirley. The discussion of the question would exceed the limit of a note; but, in justice to the descendants of that marriage, it is but fair that the following statement, which has been transmitted, should be here printed, to be read in connexion with that article, viz.—

Extract from the will of Ralph last Lord Basset of Drayton, from the great Family Pedigree of Shirley in possession of Earl Ferrers, "Ex Evidentiis Henr. Shirli de Staunton Harold Baronetti."

[x] Francis Hans Hastings, Esq. who, having established his pedigree, was summoned to Parliament as Earl of Huntingdon, 7 January 1819, and took his seat in the House of Lords on the 14th of the same month. His Lordship died 9 December 1828, and was succeeded by his eldest son, the present Earl. C. G. Y.

Will. Lyle, &c. "[a] ——

The implied illegitimacy of Isabel Basset appears to rest on the fact of her son Sir Hugh not being mentioned in numerous inquisitions taken on Lord Basset's (her brother's) death. This, however, is explained by the fact of a great part of Lord Basset's lands being otherwise settled by an old entail, made by Ralph Lord Basset, his grandfather, in the 13th of Edward III. by which it appears they reverted, on the extinction of male issue from Ralph Lord Basset, who died in 1343, to the descendants of his sister Margaret.

Glover's pedigree of Shirley at Eatington, made at the request of Sir George Shirley in 1583, and of which that in the College of Arms is the draft, calls Isabella Basset, "Isabella soror D'ni Radulfi domini Basset de Drayton sue familie ultimi." On the other hand,

He does not, however, give the quartering of Basset of Drayton among the Shirley quarterings, but ascribes to her the coat of Basset of Drayton, without the bar sinister.

I do not find the coat of Basset of Drayton among the Shirley quarterings till about 1630, since which time they have been generally included.

The Basset property, touching which Sir Ralph Shirley had a memorable dispute with the Earl of Stafford, remained in the Shirley family till the death of the last Robert Earl Ferrers in 1827, and was by his Lordship entailed upon a natural daughter of his son Robert Sewallis, Viscount Tamworth. This daughter is the present Duchess of Sforza Cesarini, having married, in 1837, Lorenzo Sforza, Duke of Sforza Cesarini.

XXX.

DESCRIPTION OF A PICTURE OF THE FAMILY OF HONING, TEMP. ELIZ. WITH THEIR PEDIGREE.

The family of Honing probably derived its name from a parish in Norfolk, so called. William Honing, Esq. who was Clerk of the Signet in the reigns of Henry VIII. Edward VI. and probably Elizabeth, it may be presumed was introduced into service at Court by the circumstance of his father being employed as fishmonger to the royal household. The epitaph of the father, formerly in the church of St. Nicholas Coldabbey, near London-bridge, is thus recorded by Weever :—

"Pray for the soul of Roger Hunning, fishmonger, sometime porueyor of seafish to our Soueraigne Lord King Henry the Eight, and Margarett his wyff, the which Roger decessyd the third day of May, An. Dom. M.ccccc.xli. whos soul Jesu pardon. Amen."

In 1544 William Hunnynge (or Honing) had a grant of the manor of Carleton in Suffolk.[a] On the 16th June 1546, he obtained a lease for twenty-one years of the capital messuage called Gubbins, in the parishes of North Mimms, Hatfield, and Essenden, Herts, at the yearly rent of 50*l.* 9*s.* 8*d.*[b] In 1547 he received from Edward VI. a confirmation of certain tenements in London and in Suffolk.[c] In Feb. 1550 he had a grant of the fee-simple of the prebend of Cheping Faringdon, co. Berks, belonging to the church of Salisbury.[d] In 1558, during the reign of Philip and Mary, he received, in conjunction with (his brother-in-law) Nicholas Cutler, a grant of the manor of Rishangles in Suffolk.[e] In 1566 he acquired the manor of Manton's in Hitcham, in Suffolk.[f]

Mr. Honing was returned to Parliament for Orford in 1553. He died the 17th Nov. 1569, and was buried at Eye.

Edward Honing, Esq. his son and heir, was a Receiver of Crown Rents in Suffolk [g]; sat in Parliament for Dunwich 1588, and for Eye in 1592, 1601, and 1603; and was buried at the latter place in 1609. The manor of Darsham in Suffolk was delivered to him from the Crown in 1575; and he received other Crown grants in 1595 and 1598. [h]

A curious picture, probably now in the possession of the Marquess of Donegal, [i] represents the portraits of the Clerk of the Privy Council and his very numerous family. The painting measures four feet four inches in breadth by three feet three inches in height. Its principal compartment, measuring about three feet three inches by two feet five inches, is occupied by large three-quarters length portraits of the parents of the family; whilst down the sides and at the foot are ranged portraits of their children, in fourteen compartments. On the upper margin is the date 1585, (which was sixteen years after the death of William Honing the father,) and this crest, A lion's head erased argent, langued gules, and collared with gemelles sable. In the centre of the lower border, dividing the son Roger from the daughter Gane, is this shield of arms, suspended on the trunk of a tree: Quarterly of six, 1 and 6, Quarterly gules and vert, a lion rampant argent, Honing: 2. Or, three owls sable, Owle; Argent, on a chevron sable a fleur-de-lis or,

[i] The picture was purchased more than fifty years ago by Mr. Robert Loder, of Woodbridge, bookseller; and sold, shortly after, to the Marquess of Donegal. A copy in water-colours, made by Is. Johnson in 1787, for Mr. Nichols, is now in the possession of his son, J. B. Nichols, Esq. F.S.A. at Hammersmith. It measures 19 inches by 13 inches and a quarter. "I have inclosed a drawing from my picture of the Honings. You will be so good as to show it to Mr. Ord and Mr. Gough; should it be thought worth attention, you will please to inform me. It cost me about 1*l.* 5*s.* the picture itself only 13*s.* 6*d.*" Letter from Mr. R. Loder to Mr. Nichols, March 24, 1787.

Carver; 4. Sable, a bend ermine, cottised flory or, Kelke; 5. Or, on a fess between four fleurs-de-lis gules, two fleurs-de-lis of the field, Dayvill; impaling, 1 and 4. Azure, three lion's heads erased or, Cutler, of Eye: 2. Argent, three tridents sable, Worthington; 3. Gules, on a chevron (engrailed) argent, between three fleurs-de-lis or, as many chess-rooks sable, Minns.

The parents are holding a ring between them, suspended by a cord from heaven, which a hand issuing from the clouds is about to cut with a pair of shears. Their dresses are very similar; being black gowns and close ruffs at the neck and wrists. The gentleman has a scull cap, a thick but close beard, a gold chain passed several times across his breast, and a large signet ring on the fore-finger of his right-hand, apparently engraved with the crest of his family. In the same hand he holds a paper on which is written, "The letter—honour—." The lady has in her left hand a small book bound in red, with clasps.

The portraits of the children are arranged nearly in order of birth, at least with respect to those that were living at the time of the picture being painted. It may be premised that they are all bare-headed. Beginning at the left-hand corner, they are as follow:—

3. Edward. A man with long beard, falling collar, black dress, and, dependant by a long chain from his neck, a shield-shaped jewel or badge hanging near his waist, bearing this motto, sola spes. His left hand holding the pommel of his sword. In the margin is a shield charged with Honing impaling, Argent, on a bend gules cotised sable three pair of wings, joined in lure, of the field, Wingfield, of Sibton, Suffolk.

Between this and the next are the names Elzabethe, Franncis, Catterin.

4. William. A man in lace collar and wristbands, close black body dress and cloak, sword and dagger. Dependant by a string from his neck, a pheon (possibly a whistle formed in that shape). In the upper corner is a small landscape, representing a man at the seaside watching a ship, with this word in the sky, cetior (?). The shield in the margin is blank.

6. Nicolas. In a ruff and black furred gown. His right arm resting on a table, with an open book before him, and an inkstand. Shield blank.

9. Thomas. A young beardless man; in black, and a ruff. His right hand rests on a winged hour-glass. Shield charged with a cross-patée gules; which denotes that the party was deceased.

10. Franncis. Black dress and ruff, but little beard. He holds a bag of money, nnd there is more on the table before him, together with an inkstand, and a book of accounts; an entry of which is crossed through. He was Receiver of the Crown rents in the counties of Suffolk and Cambridge, in 7 Jac. I. His shield blank.

13. Roger. In a falling lace collar; a singular close dress of broad black and white parallel stripes, a dagger, and a cord round his neck, the article dependant by which is concealed by the right hand. On a table before him a mariner's compass. Shield charged with the red cross.

Between this figure and the next is the stem of the tree in the middle of the picture, the branches from which are supposed to turn off on either side, and to them the shields are suspended.

1. Gane (Jane). A young lady in red hair, neatly dressed in black and white, her right hand pointing to the clouds, denoting that this eldest child was deceased. She is said to have died on her wedding day in 1551. Her shield bears the red cross.

2. Ann. A naked figure, holding a shroud in front, with dishevelled hair. The red cross.

FATO LVBENTER CEDENS
TAM MARI QVAM TERRA.

His shield bears the red cross of death.

12. Charles. Falling collar, plate armour, the pauldrons trimmed with red, and a red sword-belt from his right shoulder. His right hand holding a halbert, and the left on the hilt of his sword. Red cross on his shield.

14. Robert. In falling collar, and tilting armour, ornamented with several red bands or seams. His right hand holds a tilting-spear; the left rests on a helmet. A sword at his side. Shield blank.

[i] Maister Anthony Wyngfeld, of Letheringham, in Suffolk, temp. Hen. VIII. bore on his standard a bull statant, quarterly sa. and or. Exc. Hist. p. 324.

Among the State Papers preserved in the British Museum, are the following, written by William Honing :—

1539. Dec. Letter of Edmund Stile and William Honning about the Emperor's passage through France. MS. Cotton. Cal. E. IV. 22.

Three letters of news to the Earl of Sussex, then Lieutenant of Ireland, being regular news letters, and chiefly written by another person; but with additions from Honing's own hand, who signs his name W. HONYNG. They are scattered as follows :—

1560. July 25. MS. Cotton. Tit. B. II. p. 419. Partly printed in Strype's Annals, vol. i. p. 199.

At Edward the Sixth's funeral in 1554, William Honnynges was one of the 5 Clerks of the Signett attending, and received "9 yardes of black cloth, his two servants 6 yardes, and one clarke 3 yardes." Archæol. xii. 377.

[i] After mentioning the death of the Earl of Shrewsbury, this letter contains the following paragraph relating to the unfortunate Amy Robsart, wife of Lord Robert Dudley (and popularly, but incorrectly, called Countess of Leicester) :

ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS.

VOL. V. p. 41. For "Archbishop Whitgift's monument," at Croydon, read Archbishop Sheldon's; and for "1598" read 1657.

Vol. V. p. 298, note [x]. The Sir Richard Lloyd noticed in note [x], was, as W. W. E. Wynne of Peniarth, co. Merioneth, Esq. informs me, of Esclusham, near Wrexham, and of Dulassey, co. Carnarvon. He was one of the Judges on the Brecon circuit, was knighted by King Charles I. at Wrexham, for his eminent services in the Royal cause, and dying at that place Aug. 5, 1676, was buried in the church, where an uninscribed monument, on which are emblazoned the armorial insignia of his family, was put up to his memory. He married Margaret (or Mary), daughter of Ralph Sneyd, of Keele, co. Stafford, Esq. sister of Colonel Ralph Sneyd, by whom he had two sons, Richard, who died without issue in November 1658; and Robert, who left an only child, Richard, who died without issue April 9, 1683; also three daughters, ultimately coheiresses to his property; viz. Jane, who married Lewis Owen, of Peniarth (above mentioned), Esq. M.P. for co. Merioneth 1659; Mary. married to Sir Henry Conway, of Bodryddan, co. Flint, Bart.; and Anne, married first to Edward Ravenscroft, of Bretton, co. Flint, and secondly, to John, third son of Roger Grosvenor, of Eaton Hall, co. Chester, Esq. G. M.

Vol. VI. p. 190. In the registers of the parish of Howden there are several entries relating to the Girlington family, from which it appears that, in 1590, Nicholas Girlington, Esq. the last named but one of the Hackford branch in the pedigree (p. 191) resided at Sandhall, in the parish of Howden. This estate is in the township of Skelton, and lies near, and is almost inclosed by the banks of the river Ouse, and is opposite to the new port of Goole. In Johnston's MSS. relating to the county of York, it is said that the widow of Sir John Girlington (fourth son and successor of the above Nicholas) sold Sandhall to Mr. Walter Blakiston of York. In the Babthorpe pedigree, inserted in Burton's Monasticon Ebor. this lady is called "Christian;" she was the only child of Sir William Babthorpe, of Babthorpe, in the parish of Hemingborough, near Howden, by his second wife, Frances, daughter of Sir Thomas Dawnay, of Sez-hay.

The estate of Sandhall was sold by the said Mr. Walter Blakiston to Henry Thompson, Esq. one of the Aldermen of York, whose son Leonard Thompson, Esq., also an Alderman of York, enjoyed it in 1670.

Previously to the year 1730, Sandhall became the property of John Scholfield, Esq. whose grandson William Scholfield, Esq. is now (1840) the owner of and resides at Sandhall.

In a parchment book in my possession (which formerly belonged to the family of Hungate of York) containing abstracts of deeds, &c. relating to the family of Metham, of Metham, there is the following entry:—

"Robert Craynes, of Saltmarsh, yeoman, gives to Sir Thomas Metham all his lands, tenements, &c. in Greenoak, in the parish of Eastrington, in the county of York, which had been lately given to him by Thomas Metham for the term of his life; after his decease to Margery the wife of Nicholas Girlington, lately the wife of Alexander Metham for the term of her life; after her decease to go to William Metham and his heirs male; if he dies without such, then to remain for ever with the heirs at law of the said Thomas Metham. VOL. VII. p. 41. The term "Cardinal's hat" was here employed unadvisedly. The ensign usually called a Cardinal's hat, is varied so as to designate the several ranks of—1. Cardinals; 2. Patriarchs; 3. Archbishops; 4. Bishops; 5. Abbats; and 6. the Prothonotaries of the Holy See. In modern blazonry, that of the Cardinals alone has five rows of tufts or tassels, making fifteen in all; the hats of Patriarchs and Archbishops have four rows, making ten tassels; those of Bishops three rows, making six: and those of Abbats and the Prothonotaries two, making only three tassels. Again, the colour of the Cardinal's hat alone is red; that of the three next grades green; and that of the two last black. Thus there are three varieties of colour and four of tassels. Of course the hats over the arms of Archbishop James de Bethune and Bishop Murray (described in the page above mentioned) are those belonging to their respective dignities. The hat on the monument of Bishop O'Molony at the Irish College (see p. 117) is, however, that which properly belongs to the archiepiscopal grade.—In p. 32 and p. 34, Archbishop James de Bethune or Beatoun is inadvertently styled Cardinal, an inaccuracy which confuses him with his more distinguished kinsman, David, also Archbishop of St. Andrew's.

P. 84. The monument at Charlton is certainly that of Sir Henry Knyvett. The recumbent figures are under a canopy, which is supported by Corinthian columns. The shield of arms and the crest are at the foot of the monument facing the figures. The shield bears Knyvett with 18 quarterings, viz. 1. Basset of Weldon; 2. Bottetourt of Mendlesham; 3. Clifton of Buckenham; 4. Cayley; 5. Cromwell; 6. Bernake; 7. Driby; 8. Tateshall; 9. Albini; 10. Chester; 11. Lupus; 12. Pickering; 13. Lascelles; 14. Moresby; 15, 16, 17, and 18, coats quartered by Moresby; vide C. 39, Coll. Arm. According to the pedigree of Knyvett, in Vincent's Norfolk, 123, Sir Henry Knyvett had three other children who died young, viz. Thomas, Wroughton, and Meriell. The two last were daughters. C. E. L.

In p. 142, Mary Lady Roos of Hamlake is called great grand-daughter of Isabella de Orreby, but in the pedigree, p. 143, she is correctly made great great grand-daughter.

END OF VOL. VII.

ERRATA.—P. 160, lines 13, 14, for Sir Andrew, read Sir Adrian Poynings.

This day is published, in Royal Octavo,

A NEW AND IMPROVED EDITION OF AN

ENCYCLOPEDIA OF ANTIQUITIES,

AND

ELEMENTS OF ARCHÆOLOGY,

CLASSICAL AND MEDIÆVAL.

BY THE REV. T. D. FOSBROKE, M.A. F.S.A., &c. &c.

Fifteen years have elapsed since the first publication of this work: and the Publishers having called on the Author for a new Edition, he has endeavoured to make it more worthy of the very favourable reception it met with on its first appearance. Some of the Chapters have been entirely re-modelled; and important additions have been incorporated throughout; which improvements have been accomplished without difficulty, from the compressed mode in which the new Edition has been printed; a form which has been adopted to meet the demand for cheap and useful books.

THE first Edition of this Work was favourably noticed in all the Reviews; and the following selections will enable the Readers to judge of the contents of the volumes now again submitted to the public.

"Devoted as we are to every pursuit connected with 'olden times,' we cannot but hail with satisfaction the publication of this long expected work. To descant on its utility would be altogether unnecessary."—GENT. MAG.

"A valuable book of reference.—The science of Archæology is deeply indebted to Mr. Fosbroke for accomplishing the double purpose of inducing its study in the unlearned, and compiling a valuable manual for the learned. He has explored the mine of Archæological antiquity, and classed and arranged its products very ably for the advantage of all who desire to cultivate a science, without an adequate knowledge of which, no person can deserve the name of antiquary, amateur, or gentleman."—LITERARY GAZETTE.

"A work as original as it is important.—We have so often had occasion to speak of the talents, research, and acuteness, displayed by Mr. Fosbroke, in his Encyclopædia of Antiquities, that we feel at a loss even to vary the terms of our praise. Although from the nature of the subject it might be expected to consist of dry details, and fit only for the antiquary, yet the author has thrown in so many curious illustrative facts, that it is really very interesting. It is elegantly written, and full of interesting information, with which every person of liberal education ought to be acquainted. No good library ought to be without it."—LITERARY CHRONICLE.

"Mr. Fosbroke's Work is one of great value and interest. It is arranged in a classified chronological form, so as to lead the reader, pedetentim, from the base of Archæology to its summit.

"After some introductory remarks, Mr. Fosbroke proceeds, in his first Chapter, to a description of the CYCLOPEAN Masonry, the general style of which is immense blocks without cement. Mr. F. then proceeds to notice the INDIAN, PHENICIAN, or TYRIAN Architecture.

"In the second Chapter Mr. F. describes EGYPTIAN ARCHITECTURE, under the several classes of Temples, Palaces, Tombs, Pyramids, Obelisks, and Colossal Figures.

"GRECIAN AND ROMAN ARCHITECTURE comes under consideration in the Third Chapter; and in this branch of his subject the Author displays the same diligent research, acute remarks, and philosophic views, whilst he brings down the history of Ancient Architecture in a chronological and scientific order of arrangement. The Doric, Ionic, and Corinthian orders are discriminated; after which the different kinds of walling, bricks, mortar, ceilings, windows, floors, and other minute points, are described.

"In the Fourth Chapter, the PUBLIC EDIFICES of the GREEKS and ROMANS are minutely considered, particularly their temples, theatres (a very curious article), amphitheatres, aqueducts, bridges, town-walls, gates, acropoles, forums, basilicæ, triumphal arches, baths, barracks, light-houses, and puteals.

"The PRIVATE EDIFICES of the Greeks and Romans form the subject of the Fifth Chapter. These are minutely and ably described, and illustrated by existing specimens at Pompeii.

"The Sixth Chapter is devoted to the ARCHITECTURE of the Britons, Anglo-Saxons, Normans, and English. Here Mr. Fosbroke displays the most elaborate research.

"The Seventh Chapter gives an account of EGYPTIAN, ETRUSCAN, and GREEK SCULPTURE, including an alphabetical List of Deities, with their different attributes.

"The subjects treated of in the Eighth Chapter are Greek, Etruscan, Gaulish, and British Vases, with an alphabetical list of the Vases of the classical era. This is followed by dissertations on Gems, Rings, Seals, &c.

"The Ninth Chapter contains, in alphabetical arrangement, ample descriptions of Furniture, Utensils, and Mechanicals.

"The Tenth Chapter embraces Manufactures, Trades, Inventions, Useful Arts, Ornaments, Avocations, Offices, etc.

"The Eleventh Chapter describes Barrows, Camps, Earthquakes, Roads, rude Stone-works, &c. &c.

"The Twelfth Chapter treats of the Manners and Customs of Private Life among the Laity of all nations. This Chapter contains a vast quantity of curious matter connected with our National Antiquities.

"But the Thirteenth Chapter will perhaps be found productive of more amusement to the general reader than any other portion of the Work. It embraces Festivals at particular Seasons, arranged under each month; Theatricals, Jugglers, Tumblers, Rope Dancers; Games of Skill and Chance; Gymnastics; Field Sports; Rustic Sports; Children's Sports; Dancing; and Musicals.

"Distinctions of rank and honour, and heraldic matters, as arms, badges, cognizances, &c. form the subject of the Fourteenth Chapter.

"In the Fifteenth Chapter the Author notices Druidical and other Heathen Superstitions; including lucky and unlucky days, &c. Also, obsolete ecclesiastical matters, with accounts of hierarchal officers, now obsolete:—Anchorets, Hermits, Monks, Nuns, Pilgrims, Continentes, &c. On these subjects, it is evident that the Author is quite au fait, as might indeed have been inferred from the popularity of his well-known and much-approved work on "British Monachism." Liturgical Matters and Solemnities; and Fasts, Festivals, and certain peculiar religious Rites, conclude this Chapter.

"In the Sixteenth Chapter, treating of Military Antiquities, Mr. Fosbroke strongly recommends, by his ample quotations, 'Sir S. Meyrick's superb and learned work on Armour.'

"In the Seventeenth Chapter are classed, in separate alphabetical lists, accounts, as connected with Archæology, of Quadrupeds, Birds, Reptiles, Fish, Insects, Vegetables, and Marbles.

"The Eighteenth Chapter appears to have been compiled with great care. It treats of Arms and Armour of all periods. Every page of it bears ample proof of the importance of Sir S. Meyrick's labours on those subjects.

"The Nineteenth Chapter comprehends subjects similar to the preceding—Military Engines, Projectile Machines, and Fire Arms, here pass in review.

"The Twentieth Chapter embraces the Costumes of all nations, commencing with the Egyptian, Asiatic, Grecian, and Roman, and descending to the Anglo-Saxon, Danish, Norman, and English, as late as the end of the 17th century. Some general Remarks for ascertaining the Eras of Figures in the Middle Ages are concise and useful. These are followed by descriptions of various articles of dress, alphabetically arranged.

"The Twenty-first Chapter enters on the subject of Numismatics.

"Such is a brief outline of the contents of this elaborate undertaking. But the whole Work should be considered as a grand panorama, and not a collection of landscapes or details. We again congratulate the learned Author on thus fulfilling his engagements with his Subscribers by presenting to them and to the Public in general a highly useful and standard Work on the subjects which have never before been so successfully embodied."
